Arrest of 32 Men Provokes 3 Probes

The wholesale arrests of thirty-two men, twelve of them white, from a yard in the rear of the St. Anthony's House of Hospitality, 119 W. Barre Street on Sunday, has resulted in a three-fold investigation by as many official agencies.

Testimony given before Magistrate Meyer Reamer in Southern police station accused the group of being generally disorderly and creating a disturbance in the yard of the home said to be conducted as a haven for homeless men. It was also testified that the men brandished knives and ordered neighboring residents to "get back in the house."

All Clothes Fumigated

The magistrate ordered most of them committed to the city jail for varying terms in default of fines ranging from $6.45 to $51.54. Court officials said it was necessary to raise all the windows in the police station in order to air the building. Most of the men were given baths and their clothing fumigated when they reached jail.

On the complaint of residents of the 100 block of Barre Street, Dr. Huntington Williams, health commissioner, was notified and on Thursday was reported investigating the complaints.

It was also learned that the operation of the house was also being investigated by the Department of Public Welfare since such an institution must be registered with that body for permission to operate.

Catholics Enter Picture

The AFRO learned that the matter has been brought to the attention of the local Catholic authorities since it has been said the institute is being managed and operated by several Catholic men.

Southern police district's docket bore the following names and fines:

Lonnie Parris, 35, $26; Willie Straton, $27; Joseph Word, 43, $30; Fred Burton, 34, $31; James Davis, 24, $32; Philip Woods, 45, $33; William Robertson, 50, $34; William Bland, 53, $35; Nathaniel Elam, 31, $51; E. Greenhill, 74, $6; Willie Rawlings, 30, $16; Cornelius Turner, 31, dismissed; Frank Meadows, 55, $38; George Richards, 20, dismissed; Sam Creppini, 58, $39; John Hamilton, 40, $6; Charles Davis, 30, $43; Charles Johnson, 31, $44; Frank Quick, 38, $45; George James, 24, $46, and Charles Watson, 38, $47.

House Raided Before

Approximately one year ago, Southern district police raided the home and arrested three white men who were charged with operating a disorderly house. They were freed following a hearing before Judge George A. Solter in Criminal Court.

At this point it was testified that white and colored men were inadequately housed in the place then known as the Catholic Worker House of Hospitality.

Police charged that the toilet facilities at the home were inadequate and in addition the strange men drawn to the home were a menace to the residents and children of the neighborhood.

Mrs. Sarah Diggs Wants Accounting on $2,800 Mortgage

Mrs. Sarah Fernandis Diggs of 1909 Druid Hill Avenue filed a bill for an accounting against the Beacon Permanent Building and Loan Association and Albert Huss, this week, in an effort to determine where she can secure a valid release on a mortgage on property at 1932 Madison Avenue.

In her petition, Mrs. Diggs pointed out that on September 9, 1927, her late husband, Josiah Diggs, and his first wife, Mrs. Ida Diggs, borrowed $2,800 from the association, giving a mortgage on the property as security.

Property Transferred

The first Mrs. Diggs died and the complainant was later married to Mr. Diggs. On August 15, 1933, Mr. Diggs transferred the property, by conveyance, to himself and Mrs. Sarah Diggs.

The following September, the complainant said, she and Mr. Diggs were approached by Abraham Weisman, who said that he had bought the mortgage, and upon avidence, they made payments to him.

Weisman Settlement Refused

There was later some legal action against Mr. Weisman by the association, and when they learned that he could not give them a valid release, they refused to make a settlement with him.

Now, says Mrs. Diggs, comes Mr. Huss, charging that she owes him an exorbitant sum. She asks for an accounting and for the court to determine with whom she should make a settlement.

Driver of Car in Holiday Crash Fined $41.90

3 of 6 Victims Still in Hospital Reported Improving

Walter Bail, of 1002 N. Carey Street, the driver of the car in which a Virginia State College student and five others were injured on Thanksgiving was fined $41.90 in traffic court on Thursday.

Bail was charged with reckless driving, speeding and failing to identify himself after an accident.

Bail, who was represented by Michael Freedman, threw himself upon the mercy of the court. He elected to pay fines of $15 and $25 and costs in lieu of loaing his license.

Had Hit Another Car

Chief State's witness was Elmer Henry, 18, of Newark, who testified that Ball had a slight accident with one machine a few minutes before the car crashed into a tree at Thirty-third and Edgar Road.

Robert Shackley, white, of 1420 Bolton Street, said that he had heard a crash at the east end of the Twenty-ninth Street bridge and split second later saw the car Ball was driving being pursued by another machine.

The accident occurred following the Morgan-Virginia State game. Ball, it was learned, was driving the occupants from Baltimore proper to the Morgan State College campus.

Victims "Doing Nicely"

Two of the occupants of the car are still confined to Provident Hospital where they are reported doing nicely. They are Miss Ethel Ashby, student at Essex Junior College, Newark, and Richard Bland, 20, also of Newark.

A third occupant of the car, Gerry Bland, 18, of 325 Ridgewood Avenue, Newark, brother of Richard, is still confined to Johns Hopkins Hospital and reported to be "doing quite well."

Miss Ashby received a broken leg, Richard Bland, a student at Rutgers University, New Brunswick, N.J., head and chest injuries, and Gerry Bland received a possible fracture of the spine and cuts about the right eye and hands.

Others Injured

Others injured but later released from Provident and Johns Hopkins Hospital are: Miss Edith Ashby, 19, Virginia State College freshman, twin sister of Miss Ashby and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin L. Ashby, Sr., who was confined to Johns Hopkins Hospital for two weeks and released last week end; Douglass Lett, 21, and Mr. Henry, 19, all of Newark, both of whom were released the same day of the accident after receiving treatment.

Truck Rides Through Park Cost 4, $10 Each

Four motorists, one of whom was given a suspended sentence, were fined $10 and costs each by Magistrate John H. Stanford in Northern police court, this week, for driving trucks through Druid Hill Park.

They were docketed as:

William Gibson, 20 of 1735 Druid Hill Avenue; Moses Harris, 24, of 1838 E. Biddle S reet; Theodore Beasley, 45, of 1602 E. Hoffman Street, and Clyde Barnes, 20, of 918 Jordan Alley. The latter was given the suspended sentence.

A rule governing parks and squares prohibits the driving of trucks through those places in Baltimore. Four while motorists were also fined.

Henry C. Jenkins Still Missing

Henry C. Jenkins, operator of a filling station at 1202 Fremont Avenue, reported missing from his home at 1826 Madison Avenue, since November 3, had not been heard from on Thursday, the AFRO learned.

None of his friends of business associates contacted by the AFRO had heard anything of him this week including Sam Huttman, white, supervisor of several chain oil stations, one of which Mr. Jenkins operated.

Blame Patients' Apathy for Spread of Syphilis

The greatest difficulty experienced in the treatment of syphilitic patients at venereal disease clinics in Baltimore is their tendency to discontinue regular clinic visits as soon as they feel better, Dr. Ferdinand O. Reinhard, venereal diseases director of the department of health, said Wednesday.

Sixty-four weekly treatments are required for the successful completion of syphilis treatments, Dr. Reinhard said, but during the past year only fifty per cent of the colored male patients and forty-six per cent of the females continued beyond the forty-week mark.

Lack Social Workers

Every effort is made to induce clinic patients to take treatments, but the director declared that his department is hampered by the lack of sufficient social workers to follow up recalcitrant cases.

When the social workers fail to persuade persons with infectious cases to visit the clinic, police are called in who, as a last resort, threaten them with imprisonment, Dr. Reinhard stated.

Of the 6,213 cases of syphilis reported during 1940, 4,900 were colored persons. Making allowance for the fact that colored persons use clinic services to a greater extent than whites, Dr. Reinhard said, this still does not explain the wide difference in incidence between the races.

30 Per Cent Infected

A study conducted among colored people last year by the school of hygiene in East Baltimore, he said, revealed that thirty per cent of the persons tested between the ages of twenty and twenty-five had syphilis. The incidence among persons between thirty and thirty-five was fifty per cent.

While no accurate figures are available on the incidence of the disease among whites, Dr. Reinhard said, he found that at the most only three per cent had syphilis.

Attributing the alarming proportion of diseased colored persons to economic handicaps and ignorance, he advanced the theory that many have so many hardships that they ignore primary symptoms of the disease and seek treatment only as a last resort.

Blames Defense Migration

The great influx of defense workers to the city has been responsible to some extent for the increase, Dr. Reinhard believes.

Another factor is that many young men who have been rejected from the army because of the disease and who before examination by draft physicians were ignorant of their condition, are now seeking treatment.

Dr. Reinhard said that the belief that the rise in venereal disease cases in Baltimore might be traced to the number of soldiers coming into the city from nearby camps was entirely without foundation, stating that only nine reported cases of syphilis could be attributed to contact with soldiers—four colored and five white.

He also pointed out that prostitution is not the greatest means of spreading venereal diseases, but that the cases are widespread and among persons of all social levels.

Tavern Owner Is Fined Despite Patron's Story

Despite testimony by the State's chief witness that she had purchased no alcholic beverages or had any in her possession in a tavern at 1707 Lorman Street on November 14, John Jones, proprietor, was fined $125 and costs in Criminal Court, Thursday on charges of furnishing wine to a minor.

Jones, who was represented by Michael F. Freedman, faced a jury trial before Chief Judge Samuel K. Dennis, with Assistant State's Attorney Douglass N. Sharretts prosecuting.

One Count Dismissed

The indictment against him charged him with selling an alcholic beverage to Mrs. Maxine Parker of 722 N. Gilmor Street, 20-year-old mother of three children, and of furnishing her with the beverage. Mr. Freedman succeeded in obtaining a not guilty verdict on the first count.

In direct conflict with Mrs. Parker's testimony, Sergt. Thomas Joyce of Northwestern District plainclothes squad testified that he entered the tavern November 14 and found Mrs. Parker and a man sitting in a booth with a bottle of wine and two glasses on the table before them; one of these glasses, Mrs. Parker had in her hand.

Granger Made Head of Naf'l Urban League

LESTER GRANGER

NEW YORK—(ANP)—Lester Granger, who has been serving as acting executive secretary of the National Urban League, was elected executive secretary this week to succeed Eugene Kinckle Jones, who has been ill for the past three years.

The board of directors retired Mr. Jones for a year beginning January 1, 1942, at half of his annual salary of $7,500, with the understanding that if he regained his health during that time and, in the opinion of the board, was physically able, he would resume all of his former duties.

Mr. Jones had been an officer of the National Urban League, which now has forty-two branches, since 1911. Mr. Granger has held a number of important posts with the organization.
