7 Youthful Suspects May Hear Fate Sat.

Verdict and final disposition is expected to be given by Chief Judge Samuel K. Dennis in criminal court Saturday when the trial of seven young men charged with nineteen burglaries of taverns and drug stores about the city is resumed.

Trial was held Tuesday and postponed before its conclusion until Saturday.

The accused men are:

Roland Burr, 23, of 126 Argyle Avenue; Ralph Hearne, 23, of 917 N. Stricker Street; Fred Lovejoy, 21, of 626 Baker Street; Francis Kane, 20, of 1604 N. Calhoun Street; John J. Bond, 19, 1341 N. Fremont Avenue; Angus White, 20, of 1539 Leslie Street; and William Young, 23, of 2110 Pennsylvania Avenue.

Arrested November 27

The accused men were arrested November 27 by Detective Lieut. Harry Warthen and Officers J. Hiram Butler and William Nuth, who told the court at the trial Tuesday that the men had carried on their burglary operations for the past four weeks.

Their alleged loot included assorted liquors, cigarets, watches, clothing and a quantity of miscellaneous articles valued at more than $2,600.

The men were said to have rented a first-floor rear room at 915 Madison Avenue which they used as a place for meeting before and after their alleged burglaries.

Police said they found a small amount of suspected loot and burglars' tools in the otherwise empty room, following the arrest of the men.

Bayer's Trial Postponed

Meanwhile, the trial of Ralph Summers of 1000 N. Eting Street, who allegedly bought $78 worth of whiskey from the group for $28, was postponed on Tuesday until the conclusion of the cases against the seven men.

Attorneys for the men are Josiah F. Henry, Jr., Paul B. Mules, Joseph Rosenthal, Michael F. Freedmen and Joseph Seigel. Assistant State's Attorney Douglas N. Sharrets and Joseph Finnerty are prosecuting the case.

CWYF to Hear German Orator

Dr. F. Wilhelm Sollmann, former member of the German Reichstag, will be guest speaker at the City-Wide Young People's Forum on Thursday evening, December 18, at Sharp Street Memorial Methodist Church, Dolphin and Etting Streets.

Mr. Sollmann served as a member of the Reichstag from 1920 to 1933 and later as secretary of the interior. He was exiled from Germany in 1933 for political reasons.

Lectured in 45 States

Since coming to the U.S., he has served on the faculty of the Institute of Public Affairs of the University of Virginia at Charlottesville; has traveled and lectured in forty-five of the forty-eight States and served as a member of the Pendle Hill Center.

Howard Cornish, Morgan State College professor and president of the forum, in announcing Dr. Sollmann's appearance, called attention to the fact that the forum is being held on Thursday evening instead of Friday evening, as it usually is.

Hearing Next Week in Theatre Slaying

Junius E. Smith, alias Bubbles, 19, of 1046 Harford Avenue, accused of fatally shooting Mrs. Martha Tibbs Brown in a local theatre November 30, will get a hearing the latter part of next week, Assistant State's Attorney Douglass N. Sharrets told the AFRO, Thursday.

The delay in Smith's hearing, Mr. Sharrets said, has been due to the large volume of work confronting the State's attorney's office.

Mrs. Brown, 18-year-old June, 1940, graduate of Douglass High School and resident of Frederick Douglass Homes, was accidentally shot fatally while she and her husband, John, were watching a picture.

Baltimore Red Party Pledges War Support

Full support for victory against Japan and the Axis powers was pledged in a telegram to Mayor Howard W. Jackson by the Communist Party of Baltimore, yesterday (Thursday).

The message, signed by William C. Taylor, State chairman, and Albert E. Blumberg, State secretary, suggested that emergency civilian defense registration stations be opened immediately.

$5,000 Damages Sought for Fall into Post Hole

Mrs. Anna Johnson, 116 N. Durham Street, filed a $5,000 damage suit in City Court, Friday, against the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company and the Anchor Post Fence Company for injuries she said were sustained when she fell into a hole in the sidewalk, allegedly dug by the fence company.

Through her attorney, Joseph Di Domenico, white, Mrs. Johnson charges that she has suffered a permanent injury as result of the fall on August 22, 1940. The opening allegedly left unguarded by the fence company was on Durham Street between Fayette Street and Fairmont Avenue, where they were building a fence for the telephone company, she charge.

Deaf Mute Signals He Will Beg, But Will Not Steal; Judge Frees Him

The case of John Hill, 22-year-old deaf mute of 226 West Biddle Street, who was exonerated in Criminal Court Wednesday on a pocketbook snatching charge, proved to be the most unusual to reach the courts here in recent years, as the prosecuting witness and the other witness used were also deaf mutes.

Hill, who was represented by George W. Evans, won his freedom when he told Chief Judge Samuel K. Dennis, in what was said by the interpreter to be perfect sign language:

"I do not rob. I do not steal. I'll beg, but I do not steal. This I swear to my God."

Accused Deaf, Too

According to Mrs. Mary Trother of 837 W. Lanvale Street, she and Hill's sister, Mrs. Emma Hill Brooks, of the same address, and both themselves deaf mutes, were turning off of Pennsylvania Avenue on Lanvale Street about two weeks ago when some man ran past her, snatching her pocketbook containing over $20.

She stated that they had just left Hill in front of a store a few minutes before and that he knew she had the money.

Chased Real Thief

However, Hill pointed out that his sister had told him a few minutes before the crime that some men were following them and he followed them also and actually saw a man snatch the purse.

At this point, Hill said he chased the guilty man, running past Mrs. Trother, and added that it must have been this that gave her the idea that he was the guilty person. His sister bore him out in this contention.

Four Mutes in Family

According to Mr. Evans, there are seven children in Hill's family but Hill and his sister are the only ones afflicted. However, their father, Reuben Hill, of 1517 Seventh Street, Washington, is a deaf mute and so is their stepfather, Paul Moore, of 909 Pierce Street. The mother, Mr. Evans said, is dead.

Coppin Dramatists to Present Play Tonight

The Coppin Teachers' College Players will present Katherine Kavanaugh's comedy, "Who Wouldn't Be Crazy?" at 8 o'clock this evening (Friday) in the auditorium of Douglass High School, Carey and Baker Streets.

The play features a young college graduate, one Speedy Marshall, who, in his attempt to dodge a traffic officer, lands in an insane asylum.

Leading roles are taken by Clyde Copeland, Lucretia Lipscomb, Samuel Wilson, Daniel Brewington, Sallie Kitchen, Bernice Cromwell, Solomon Baylor, Samuel Daniels, Ruby Hunt, Robert Umphrey, Bernice Smith, Vonzella Miller, Gloria Minor, Elsie Bradby, Robert Davage and Raymond Pinderhughes.

Mrs. Jeannette Boyer is director of the play and Miss Alice G. Taylor, another faculty member, is in charge of ticket sales.

Baltimoreans Attend N.J. Girl's Funeral

Mrs. Annie Lee Johnson and her father, Willie Lee Terry, of 1216 W. Mulberry Street, attended funeral services in Atlantic City, Tuesday, for their cousin and niece, Miss Hazel Terry, 17, who died there on November 30 following a five-month illness.

Miss Terry, a high school pupil, was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Terry, and was a member of the drill team of the American Legion Post No. 61 and the YWCA. She is survived by five sisters.

$3.10 Theft Brings Man 3½- Year Term

A sentence of three and a half years in the penitentiary was given by Chief Judge Samuel K. Dennis in Criminal Court Thursday to Walter R. Wells of 3114 Brentwood Avenue, convicted of burglarizing a drug store at 3328 St. Paul Street and stealing $3.10 on December 5.

Schools Teaching Pupils Air Raid Safety Technique

The public school system is lining up with the other civilian defense agencies in planning for the safety and protection of its 21,472 pupils should Baltimore be subjected to an air raid attack.

During the past week certain classroom periods have been turned over to instructing and drilling children in the proper procedure in the event of a raid.

They are being taught what to do if in school or on the streets or in their homes. Some of the schools are having practice drills daily, at which time the children march out of their buildings and await all-clear signals.

Teachers are being advised to brush up on first aid courses and being asked to volunteer their services for emergency units as nurses aides and medical corps assistants.

Circulars were distributed in the public schools today (Friday) asking principals and teachers to volunteer to act as registrants to enroll civilian volunteers. All who volunteer for this purpose will meet in the auditorium at Polytechnic Institute on Monday, December 15, at 4 p.m., to receive instructions.

Registrations in school buildings for civilian volunteers will be held December 16, 17, 18 and 19, from 4 to 9 p.m., and on Saturday, December 20, from 9 a.m. until 9 p.m.

The program of registration will be staggered so that no one teacher will be asked to give an unusual amount of time.

Baltimore Is Located in 1st Target Area

Baltimore has been rated as being in a First Target Area because of its proximity to the Glenn L. Martin airplane factory, Edgewood Arsenal, Curtis Bay, Bethlehem Steel Company and other nearby important points that would be picked out for demolition should enemy planes sweep inland from the sea.

In view of this factor, members of the Committee on Civilian Protective Defense are meeting several times weekly to plan for the protection and safety of Baltimore citizens and property in the event of an air raid.

Dr. Edwards Has Big Job

Dr. Charles R. Edwards, chief of the emergency medical service, has been assigned the responsibility of finding between 4,000 and 5,000 beds in the various city hospitals to accommodate injured victims.

He is also to locate suitable places for setting up emergency first-aid stations capable of handling the wounded, should a larger number of casualities be recorded.

The police department, under Inspector Thomas J. Mooney has divided the entire city into sectors, catalogued the many buildings, homes, etc., and is supervising the selection of air-raid wardens.

To Train Air-Raid Warden

These wardens, all volunteer workers, will be taught their duties by specially-trained instructors who have been attending classes at Aberdeen Proving Ground.

Plans are being made for organizing approximately thirteen other civilian defense units. These units will be explained in a series of articles to be carried in this paper.

Air Raid Signals for Baltimore

In keeping with the policy of air-raid wardens in most of the cities along the Atlantic and Pacific Coasts, Col. Henry S. Barrett, chief warden for Maryland, issued, this week, the following air-raid signals:

ALERT SIGNAL—A siren of rising and falling pitch or a series of short blasts from fire station sirens.

ALL CLEAR—Continuous blast of two or three minutes duration. The alert signal is also the blackout signal for night alarms.

The alert signal means get off the street and into the nearest building and remain there; park autos at the curb, and in case of a bomb fall flat on the ground, stay away from the windows and the dangers of falling glass and above all KEEP COOL.

EYE SERVICE should include the combined services of Eye Physicians and Surgeons, Optometrists, Opticians and Optically Trained Technicians. That's complete eye service . . . the kind you'll find at both Dr. Barenburg Eye Clinics.

Seek 1328 Air Raid Wardens

cording to Police Inspector Thomas J. Mooney, who is serving as chief warden for Baltimore City, the necessary number is far from being met. A survey by AFRO reporters indicated that less than 100 persons had volunteered late Thursday.

During a meeting of the Committee on Civilian Protective Defense of Baltimore, of which Carl Murphy, editor of the AFRO is a member, it was pointed out Thursday that enforcing a blackout here would be additionally difficult because of the 17,000 gas street lights.

These lights cannot be turned out in groups automatically, but must be attended by hand and probably by an air raid warden, thereby adding another responsibility to his list of duties.

Officials in charge of this phase of civilian defense are endeavoring to work out a plan with school board officials whereby the public school buildings can be used as classrooms for teaching air raid wardens their duties and also for registering them.

The duties of air raid wardens are to enforce blackout conditions; direct persons to shelters; report fallen bombs, report all fires; assist in fighting incendiary bombs; detect, report and aid in fighting gas; administer first aid and to assist in rescuing victims from fallen buildings.

They will be required to enroll in a short course on fighting incendiary bombs, first aid, detecting gases, and making and filing air raid reports.

Wardens must be familiar with every geographical, structural and natural detail of their areas, such as the buildings, alleys, tunnels, places of danger, hospitals, police stations, schools and they must know the characters of the people on their post and how to handle them individually.

In addition to air-raid wardens a call was sent out this week for 1000 women for duty on board work (marking plane positions). They are to work a four-hour shift each. Daytime registration is at the Fifth Regiment Armory, Room 21; night registration is the Standard Oil Building, eleventh floor.

Plans are also being made to call out to recruit volunteer firemen and policemen who will be selected and trained by officials of these city bureaus. Mayor Jackson's CPD committee is sponsoring this project.
