The Coming Wife.

She's a little bit of a woman, all patience and sunshine, and I'd spoil the best silk hat that money could buy for the priviledge of leading her my umbrella in a rain storm.

She's married and she's got an old rhinocetos of a husband. He makes it a practice to come home tight at 11 o'clock every other night, and has for years, and he can't remember that she gave him a cross word about it. When he falls into the hall she is waiting to close the door and help him back into the sitting-room, where a good fire awaits him. She draws off his boots, unbuttons his collar, helps him off with his coat, and all the time she is saying:

"Poor Henry! how sorry I am that you had this attack of vertigo! I am afraid that you will be found dead by the roadside some night."

"Whazzer mean by verzhigo!" he growls; but she helps him off with his vest and pleasantly continues:

"I am so glad you got home all right. I hope the day will come when you can pass more of your time at home. It is dreadful how your business drives you."

"Whaz buzsness—whaz yer talking 'bout?" he replies.

"Poor one—how hot your head is!" she continues, and presently he breaks down and exclaims:

Yez zur—zic's a 'orse—wearing zelf out fhast's can—whishzi was dead!"

Next morning she never refers to the subject, but pleasantly inquires how he slept, and if his mind is clear. His boots may be missing and he yells out:

"Whar'n thunder's my boots!"

"Right here, my dear!" she replies, and she hands them out, all nicely blacked up. If she wants a dress, or a hat, or a cloak, he yells out that household expenses are eating him up, she never "sasses" him back, nor tells him that she could have married a Congressman, nor declares that she will write to her mother and tell her just how it is.

That's so, my dear—times are hard," she says, and she gets up just as good a dinner as if he had left her fifty dollars.

He may come home tight at supper time, but she is not shocked. She remarks that it is an unexpected pleasure to have him home so early, and she pretends not to notice his stupid look. He sees three chairs where there is but one, and in trying to sit down he strikes the floor like the fall of a derrick.

"Whazzar jaws that chair 'way for?" he yells, and she replies;

"It's that hole in the carpet—I knew you would stumble!" and she helps him up and brings him a strong cup of tea.

They do not keep a servant and when cold weather comes she never thought of planking herself down in a chair opposite him and saying:

"Now, then, you'll either get up and and light the fires or there won't be any lighted—mark that, old baldhead!"

No, she didn't resort to any such base and tyranical measures. When daylight comes she slips out of bed, makes two fires, warms his socks, and then, bending over him, she whispers:

"Arise, darling, and greet the festive morn!"

He's sick sometimes, and I've known that woman to coax him for two straight hours to take the doctor's medicine, turn over his pillow twenty-two times, keep a wet cloth on his head, pare his corn down, and then wish that she had a quail to make him some soup. When he gets into a fight down town and comes home with his ear bitten up and his nose pointing to the northeast she inquires how the horse happened to run away with him, and she says she is so thankful he wasn't killed. She has an excuse for everything, and she never admits that any one but herself is to blame about anything. Lord bless her—I hope she will slip into Heaven and never be asked a question.

Trust Her.

Confidence is everything between husband and wife; and a woman who loves, desires above all things to be trusted. She would not be glad when he is sad. She would not be ignorant of his troubles or anxieties. Anything is better to her than to be shut out from the innermost of the life of one who should be all hers as she is all his. Women generally are averse to keeping things to themselves, and a husband is often overdosed with confidence; but many really affectionate men lead, as far as their wives are concerned, a double life. Of that which is not domestic they think it right to say nothing. Some grievous troubles may be upon them—dread of failure, certainty of loss, rumors of some mistake which has plunged them into anxiety; and they make no sign of it save by a change of manner, which to the women who are ignorant that they have any cares, is incomprehensible.

The wife would gladly be sympathetic, but when a frowning brow, silence, and the lack of usual caresses, are all the tokens that she has of her liege lord's troubles, all her boastel intuition connot keep her from flying to the conclusion that it is a personal matter—that she is no longer loved, or that he loves some one else. And I believe much domestic misery has been caused in the first place by the man's secretiveness when he had no secrets which might not have been shared by his wife.

You might say, "Why should he talk one who cannot understand or give counto a being with such vague ideas of ..ocks, and banking, and speculation, that she can only wonder why things have gone wrong?" Well, there are many reasons; the woman who holds him dear will give him more sympathy than any other living being, for one thing; and he needs sympathy, whether he knows it or not. And then she has her rights, for she is a partner in a firm of two, and the books should not be closed to her. She is mate of the vessel in which he is captain, and surely should know what shoals are near; and, moreover, if you love her, you do not want to make her miserable. Trust her.—Mary Kyle Dallas, in New York Ledger.

Abandoned Women.

Yes, kick her down as low as possible. Don't give her a chance to rise and invade respectable society again.

She has been tried and tempted, and she has fallen from the holy state of innocence, and it behooves every virtuous woman to see to it that she is not allowed to breathe the foul malaria of her presence among the pure of her sex.

There is contamination in her touch.—There is moral darkness and degradation in her presence. Beware of her as you would one smitten with the plague.

When she passes by, or when her disgraced name is mentioned, wrap your pious garments around you, and let the blush of shame tinge your maiden cheek, and the pocket handkerchief of insulted modesty cover your face.

Men will deem you modest, and do not men adore modesty in a woman, and do they by any act of theirs destroy that quality in female character? Oh, no. Certainly not. We all know that the world of men at large are equally as careful of the young girls with whom they associate as they would be if these same girls were their own grandmothers. To be sure!

Always think of the abandoned woman at her worst. Never for a moment indulge the idea that there may be good life in hers. The day when it was possible "for good ot come out of Nazareth" has passed away.

She has fallen—let her be where she has chosen her place. In the mud of the gutter, under the flaring gaslight, in the wintry streets, in the waters of the river—do not trouble your fair hands about her.—"She has made her bed, so let her lie; so let her lie."

You can pity the poor heathen in foreign lands, and knit stockings for the Godless inhabitants of the tropics, and send Bibles and tracts to the South Sea Islanders, and put pennies in the mission box to enlighten the Hindoo as he goes out to cast himself beneath the wheels of Juggernaut, but with these wretched heathens at your very gates you have nothing to do. Your eyes must be blind to the sad fact of her existence, and if perchance they cry out for help—you must not forget that you are a virtuous woman, and as such your ears must be deaf.

Smile your sweetest on the men that have made them what they are, and ignore the certainty that there is temptation in the world to which you have never been exposed. Your gilt edged, gold clasped Bible holds for you no lesson of mercy and forgiveness, for you read it in a heart set in judgement, and your idle eyes have never paused to rest with grave consideration upon the sentence, "For the greatest of all these is charity."—Kate Thorn.

How to Get Rich.

Several of the richest men in this country have given in sententious language, the secret of their worldly success and fortune. "There is no secret about it," said Commodore Vanderbilt; "all you have to do is to tend to your own business and go ahead—except one thing," added the Commodore, "and that is to never tell what you are going to do till you have done it." Asa Packer recently gave his idea of the way to get rich in this remark: "Economy and safe investment are about the best means of attaining financial prosperity." George Law, also, who is a tolerable rich man, remarked in conversation: "There is nothing so easy as making money when you have money to make it with; the only thing is to see the crisis and take it at its flood;" and when further pressed to tell the secret of his own success, he quickly responded: "Determination to work, and working." A. T. Stewart told an anxious inquirer that he "considered honesty and truth great aids in the gaining of fortune." To these observations we add that of Rothschild, the founder of the world renowned house of Rothschild & Co., who ascribed his success to the following: "Never have anything to do with an unlucky man. Be cautious and bold. Make a bargain at once." As a preparation for success in life, next to good health and a sound constitution, nothing is more valuable than the faculty of saving. As a writer of the speculator lately said, there is no greater blessing for people of moderate means than the possession of a year's expenditures ahead, and few things are harder to attain or rarely found. John Jacob Astor said it was easier to make a fortune after having saved the first thousand dollars than to amass that sum at the onset, and so a year's income once obtained, a foundation stone of confidence and capital, on which one may erect one of the loftiest and most ambitious edifices. A man with a year's income "laid away," as the Scotch say, is twice the man with double his income and no store, not only because he is not in debt, but because he can afford to try life in his own way, instead of the ways other people are willing to open out for him because he is not afraid of an experiment, because, in fact, he can use the great secret of all success. He can wait.

SOLD.—A man named Telter purchased a saloon on Michigan avenue, Detroit, and the other day while he was alone, a man entered, look around and said: "I am an escaped convict from Jackson, and I want to be arrested and sent back. Go and get a policeman, and it will be $50 in your pocket. Telter didn't wait to ask any questions, but as he saw the man sit down he put on his hat and ran to the nearest station, while the convict put two boxes of cigars under his arm and went out at the back door. Mr. Telter saw through the little joke when he got back, and he says he can't be fooled again.

THERE is a man living in Carroll county, N. H., poor-house who spent all his property in a lawsuit in which the sum involved was only two dollars. He had two opportunities of settling the suit for $5; and he knew all the time that he was wrong.

God gives good food to every bird, but he does not bring it to the nest; in like manner he gives us our daily bread, but by means of our daily work.

VINEGAR BITTERS
VEGETABLE ★ FREE FROM ALCOHOL
PURELY ★ CALIFORNIA
DR. WALKER'S ★ EUREKA
VINEGAR BITTERS

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California, the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalleled success of VINEGAR BITTERS?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of VINEGAR BITTERS in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

The properties of DR. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS are Aperient, Diaphoretic, Carminative, Nutritious, Laxative, Diuretic, Sedative, Counter-Irritant, Sudorific, Alterative, and Anti-Bilious.

Grateful Thousands proclaim VINEGAR BITTERS the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to DR. J. WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Fortify the body against disease by purifying all its fluids with VINEGAR BITTERS. No epidemic take hold of a system thus fore-armed.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of WALKER'S VINEGAR BITTERS occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt-Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald-head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood, or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.
