Galveston, Oct. 14.—A letter from Galveston gives the following particulars of a severe gale at that place.

On the 15th October, during the hurricane, the brig Perseverance, of Baltimore, was driven ashore, high and dry, on Galveston Island, cannot be got off, has cargo saved; the schr Select, Cook, of Baltimore, high and dry, half a mile from the beach—cargo was delivered previous to the gale. Schr Henry, of Balt., full cargo, high and dry above the beach on the island; all her starboard waist and stancheons stove in, anchors gone, cargo saved. Brig Jane, of New Orleans Allen, master, high and dry, on the island, larboard bow stove in by coming in contact with schr. Henry, cargo all delivered, she having been ready for New Orleans. Brig Elbe, of New York, dismantled—a wreck with full cargo on board, high and dry on the beach. Texian schr. Tom Toby (privateer) foundered at her anchors—total loss.

Texian man of war schr. Brutus, rudder gone, and 4 feet water in her hold, on shore, a total loss. The prize schr. (of the Brutus) Correo, high and dry on the island, above the beach; anchors gone. Texian schr. Star of Galveston high and dry above the beach 400 yards on the island, anchors gone. The prize brig Phœnix (of the schr. Tom Toby) drifted 6 miles, supposed safe—has since been towed into harbor by the steamboat B. T. Archer. Schr. Helen of N. Orleans, rode out the gale by dragging on the chains of other vessels with her anchors. Schr. Messenger for Houston, saved. Schr. Fourth July bound to Houston with full cargo from schr. Select, high and dry on the island about 8 miles. Several other small schrs. are ashore on the island. Some lives have been lost and some persons injured from the falling of houses. All the provisions on the island have been swept away.

The beach, from the violence of the wind and sea, has been entirely changed, also the bars at the entrance of the port. The gale must have extended all along the coast, and much damage, it is feared, has been the consequence. Information from Velasco was received here, that nearly all the houses were blown down, and all the vessels ashore with their cargoes more or less destroyed. Velasco, which sailed from New Orleans on the 20th Sept. with 70 passengers, bound to Galveston, had not arrived up to the last dates. She is consequently supposed to have founded at sea.

Of 333 directors of banks in the State of Ohio, only 37 profess to be democrats, and not a single bank is controled by a democratic directory; and yet the democratic party is charged with creating and managing the State banks! The falsehood of the charge is not more palpable in relation to the banks in Ohio than to those in other States.
