13 Prisoners Freed for Yuletide Season

O'Conor Okeys Recommendations of Parole Director; Most of Inmates' Sentences Nearly Complete Anyhow

ANNAPOLIS—Christmas presents in the form of releases from the State Penal Institutions were made to thirteen inmates by Governor Herbert R. O'Conor on Wednesday.

All of the releases were recommended by the director of parole and probation, Herman M. Moser. The entire list is made up of cases where the terms of the inmates would expire within a few days or a few weeks after Christmas. In no case would the remaining sentence extend past the middle of January.

Largely Short-termers

Most of the cases were of short term prisoners. In a few instances fines had been imposed for automobile violations or disorderly conduct and because of the inability to pay the fines, the defendants were sent to jail.

All the papers were approved by Governor O'Conor over the week end and put ahead of routine business so that they could be returned to the parole department on Monday. The cases in which releases were given by the governor are as follows:

Free Men

GARFIELD HOOPER, alias Garfield Johnson, burglary, Maryland Penitentiary.

HERMAN BAILEY, alias Herman Parker, larceny, Maryland Penitentiary.

HOWARD TURNER, alias Monk Turner, deadly weapon and assault, Baltimore City Jail.

NATHAN FISHER, alias Norman Fisher, burglary, House of Correction.

OSTEN RILEY, burglary, House of Correction.

ALLEN LEWIS, burglary, House of Correction.

ARTHUR WILLIAMS, driving while under influence of liquor, House of Correction.

DAVE JOHNSON, assault, House of Correction.

FRED ALLEN, larceny, Baltimore City Jail.

JESSE J. BRADFORD, larceny, Baltimore City Jail.

WILLIAM GARNER, rape and burglary, Maryland Penitentiary.

SPENCER MAY, carrying weapons, House of Correction.

CHARLES E. JAMES, violation of the motor vehicle code, Baltimore City Jail.

Shot Five Times on Christmas Day, Man Lives

Terminating what police said was a dispute over drinks, Leroy Young, 35, of the 200 block Myrtle Avenue, was shot five times late Christmas evening by a patron in the Twelve-and-a-half Club, a tavern at 12½ N. Poppleton Street.

At press time today (Friday), Young's condition was reported good at City Hospitals. All the bullets lodged in his abdomen.

$5,000 Bail Holds Suspect

Meanwhile, Western district police have arrested Harvey Lee, 50-year-old laborer of the 900 block W. Fayette Street, and charged him with the shooting.

Lee was placed under $5,000 bail in Western police court today (Friday), pending a further hearing scheduled for January 10.

According to Officer George Hisley, the shooting occurred shortly after 10 p.m., Christmas, when Young and two other men entered the club and engaged in a short argument with the white proprietor, Levin Klavan.

Shot at Proprietor

Young is said to have drawn a revolver and fired once at the white man and then Lee, who was standing nearby, allegedly reached behind the bar and got a revolver and fired five times at Young.

The officer stated that Young then left the club and was found by him a few minutes later lying in Fairmount Avenue near Poppleton Street.

No Colored Persons Have Fever, Measles

No colored persons were listed among three new cases of scarlet fever and six new cases of measles reported during the week ending December 20, by Dr. William H. F. Warthen, deputy State and county health officer.

There were eleven cases of measles for the previous week, the report stated, and one for the corresponding week of last year. All patients are said to be white.

Okey Plans for Nursery School in E. Balto. Project

Plans for a WPA nursery school to be established in the Frederick Douglass Housing Project on or about January 5, were declared certain Monday by Mrs. Agnes B. Park, white, supervisor of the schools.

While the method of registration has not been worked out and no equipment secured as yet, Mrs. Park said that the funds have already been secured and arrangements will be completed soon after the holidays.

East Baltimore First

The Douglass nursery school to be established in the community hall at 1500 E. Lexington Street will be the first such school in East Baltimore, but the fifth of such centers now in operation in the city.

Others are at the St. Mary's Hall, the Sharp Street Community House, the Edgar Allen Poe Homes, and the NYA Center, 2003 Druid Hill Avenue.

Man Steals Tub but He Must Take Yule Bath in Jail

That stealing a bathtub a few days before the holidays is a sure way of spending Christmas in jail is something William Anderson, 53-year-old junkman of the 500 block N. Central Avenue, now knows to be true.

Anderson was sentenced in Northeastern police court Tuesday to ten days in jail for stealing a bathtub from the premises at 1248 Orleans Street.

Holiday Crash Sends Soldier to Traffic Court

Arrested after the car he was driving struck another at Lafayette Avenue and Carey Street, Christmas Day, and then damaged two pairs of front steps, Pvt. Norman Curry, 27, of 1607 Mosher Street, was cited for a traffic court hearing scheduled for this (Friday) morning.

At the hearing he pleaded gpilty to charges of reckless driving, failing to keep to the right of the center of the street, operating on an expired driver's permit and operating at a speed greater than reasonable and proper and was turned over to military police for their action.

According to Northwestern district police, Curry, assigned to Fort Belvoir, Va., was driving north on Carey Street, when his machine sideswiped one owned by Emerson P. Levi, of 2121 Druid Hill Avenue, causing it to strike two other cars parked nearby.

Officers said Curry's car then continued north on the wrong side of the street, mounted the curb and damaged the steps in front of 914-16 N. Carey Street. Private Curry was treated at Provident Hospital for brush burns of the right leg. Officers charged him with driving on an expired chauffeur's license.

Trash Fire Victim's Kin Sought by Police

City police are still seeking relatives of William Brown, 50, who was found burned to death on a trash dump at 2101 Russell Street, Saturday morning, and whose body is still unclaimed at the city morgue.

The body was discovered by Charles McNeal, white, who told officers that for several days Brown had been in a drunken stupor and that the day before the tragedy, he had warned Brown about his excessive drinking.

Crippled Laborer, 81, Killed in Accident

White Driver Placed Under $1000 Bail; 4-Car Crash Fatal to Bel Air Woman

John Blackstone, 61-year-old crippled laborer of Branchville, Md., and Mrs. Sarah Brown of Bel Air, were killed in automobile accidents over the past week end.

Blackstone was killed instantly late Sunday evening when he was struck by an auto while attempting to cross Washington Boulevard at Berwyn.

Driver Held

The driver of the car, Herbert Gandel, white, of Washington, was arrested by State police on a charge of manslaughter and placed under $1,000 bail pending a hearing on January 5.

Funeral services for Blackstone, said to have been crippled in his right side since birth, were held on Wednesday at the Edward Gasch Funeral Home in Hyattsville, Md.

His only survivor is a cousin, Mrs. Martha Moore of Hyattsville, who arranged for his burial.

Husband Injured

Mrs. Brown was killed when four machines piled up in a crash on the Philadelphia Road near Edgewood, Md., late Sunday. Her husband, William, with whom she was riding, was also injured slightly.

The accident occurred when a parked car was struck by a truck driven by Claire DeHoff of York, Pa., and another truck, operated by Joseph Purdue of Altruss, Pa., struck the Brown car. Rites for Mrs. Brown were held at her home on Wednesday.

CRISFIELD WOMAN DIES AS RESULT OF BURNS

CRISFIELD, Md. — First-degree burns received when her bedclothes were ignited by her lighted cigarette, proved fatal to Mrs. Emma Jones, 65, on Monday. Mrs. Jones was partially paralyzed. She died in the McCready Hospital.
