MERRY Christmas TO ALL

Haitian Army, Navy Aiding Allied Cause

WASHINGTON

While the American people are gradually getting into high gear in the prosecution of the war for human rights, our Allies, the big as well as the small ones, are doing their share in the great struggle.

And out there in the Atlantic those Allies of ours are forming a ring of steel which constitutes an impregnable first line of defense of our eastern shores.

In that vital string of small and large islands in the Caribbean the Republic of Haiti, which shares one large island with the Dominican Republic, stands guard against aggression. One of the United Nations, Haiti has declared war on the Axis and is not satisfied with just sitting tight.

The Republic, the majority of whose population is colored, has built up a thoroughly trained army as well as an alert naval patrol force which are perfectly capable to handle any situation that may arise. French has been the language spoken in Haiti ever since French buccaneers conquered the island back in 1630.

The "father' 'and very energetic Chief of Staff of the Haitian Army is Four Star Colonel F. Jules Andre. In training his men Col. Andre has followed American methods which are responsible for the completely American outward appearance and organization setup of the Haitian Army.

NEW YORK—Funeral services were held Wednesday for Ludlow E. Werner, 55, operator of a local dental laboratory and former coffee merchant, a native of Jamaica, B.W.I., at St. Martin's Church, the Rev. John H. Johnson, rector, officiating, and interment was in Flushing Cemetery.

Mr. Werner, who came to America while a boy, married the former Miss Marjorie Moore, daughter of Fred R. Moore, editor of the New York Age, in 1906. She died in January of this year. Their only son, Ludlow W. Werner, is present managing editor of the Age.

Death Came Suddenly

Residents of Brooklyn most of their lives, the Werners came to Harlem in 1936 and established their residence at 230 W. 135th Street, where Mr. Werner was living at the time of his death which came suddenly as he worked in his laboratory.

Other survivors are a grandson, Ludlow, Jr., 12; two sisters, Miss Bertha Werner and Mrs. Elsie Panapoulos; a half brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Waymouth Brandon; a niece, Miss Ruth Brandon; a cousin, Reginald Crompton;

His father-in-law, Fred R. Moore; three sisters-in-law, Mesdames Ida Dudley, Glady Walton and Marion Day; two brothers-in-law, Gilbert and Eugene Moore, and a number of other nieces, nephews and cousins.

BROTHERHOOD MAPS WAGE INCREASE MOVEMENT

NEW YORK — A. Philip Randolph, International PPresident of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, announced last week that plans have been made for a nation-wide movement to raise wages of porters, attendants, maids and bus boys in the employ of the Pullman Company and train, chair-car and coach porters on railroads in the United States and Canada.

Ministers Say R.R. Jim-Crowed Them

CHICAGO — (ANP) — Arbitrary jim-crow reguations established by the Pennsylvania Railroad on its crack train, the South Wind, were attacked on two fronts this week by prominent leaders who have been affected by the policy within the past two weeks.

The Revs. Junius C. Austin, pastor of Pilgrim Baptist Church, and William McDowell of Mount Vernon Baptist Church swore out warrants for E. M. Holt, general passenger agent for the railroad, in the Municipal Court of Judge Mason Sullivan this week because they were refused first-class seating accommodations for which they had paid.

Others Seek Indictment

Carl Hansberry, local realtor, and the Revs. J. L. Horace, president of the Illinois State Baptist convention; Louis Bawls, pastor of Tabernacle Baptist Church, and I. A. Thomas, a minister from Evanston, arranged an appointment with Attorney General George Barrett to seek an indictment of the Pennsylvania Railroad for attempting to force colored riders into jim-crow cars at the Chicago terminal.

Each of the ministers and church laymen was bound for the National Baptist Convention meeting in Nashville, scheduled for December 9-11. The refusal of a Mason and Dixon's Line station attendant to allow the Rev. Messrs. Austin and McDowell to ride in the first-class car for which they had purchased tickets by telephone, prevented them from attending.

Hansberry and his party were able to make the trip to Nashville only after they insisted upon occupying seats in the observation car from which they could not be barred because of their first-class tickets.

Observation Car Opened

On their return journey they were given acceptable accommodations on the train after they had assured the conductor they would travel all the way to Chicago in the same car.

George C. Adams, attorney for the Rev. Messrs. Austin and McDowell, charged Holt with wilful violation of the Civil Rights Act. Assistant State's Attorney John Connery, white, objected but Judge Sullivan overruled him and signed the warrants that are expected to be served on Holt within the next few days.

The disputed car was immediately behind the engine, had old-style double seats and part of it was used for baggage. The attendant said officials designated it for colored passengers to save them embarrassment of being moved when they reached the Mason and Dixon's Line.

FEPC Control No Change in Needed--FDR

NEW YORK — The Fair Employment Practice Committee will not be restored to full independent status, separate from the War Manpower Commission, according to a White House statement received by the NAACP this week.

The statement pointed out that in the final analysis the committee is still under direct control of President Roosevelt and that he sees no "necessity for the change." The partial text of the statement follows:

Reorganization Under Way

"The President has asked me to bring to your attention two facts: one, that in the final analysis the committee is still under direct control of the Chief Executive, and the other, that Chairman McNutt is reorganizing the entire manpower set-up and is relying strongly on decisions and recommendations made by the committee on all questions pertaining to colored people.

"The President directs me to tell you, therefore, that under the existing circumstances, he sees no necessity for the change as recommended by the resolution of your board."

Reasons for Doubt

Replying to this communication, the NAACP pointed out that colored people are skeptical of the power th FEPC will have in view of the insistence of the WMC that its regional offices shall control the FEPC operations in those regions.

Another situation giving rise to apprehension, the NAACP said, is the fact that only Northern and border cities are included in those where the FEPC will conduct hearings, while the most widespread discrimination is found in the South.

Congress Chided for Withholding Rights

(By ANP)

WASHINGTON

Congressman Arthur Mitchell told Congress in a recent speech that too many of its members would prefer an axis victory to granting colored people full rights as American citizens.

"We must practice democracy as well as preach it and our country must set its own house in order first," declared Mr. Mitchell. He praised President and Mrs. Roosevelt as having "done their best" to include colored people as full-fledged citizens.

VICTORY BANQUET NETS JACKSONVILLE $156,600

JACKSONVILLE, Fla.—(ANP) — Colored citizens purchased $156,600 in war bonds and stamps at a "victory banquet" sponsored by the war bond and stamp committee of Duval County Friday.

Winston-Salem Choir Sings for Morgenthau

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. — The a cappella choir of Winston-Salem Teachers' College, under the direction of J. A. Dillard, sang at a banquet, December 12, given in honor of Henry Morgenthau, Jr., U.S. Secretary of Treasury.

The seventy-voice choir was also presented in "Christmas Choral Vespers," by the college on Sunday.

Soloists at Vesper Singing

Soloists Sunday were Miss Fannie Geyer, soprano; Miss Vivian Corpening, soprano; Robert Hairston, baritone; and Sylvester Dixon, tenor. Accompanists were: Mrs. Maude S. Atkins, organist; Mrs. Martha S. Atkins, pianist; John P. Diggs, pianist; Miss Annie Jordan, student accompanist. The Rev. Thomas Kilgore is college minister.

Sponsors of Bias Called Axis Allies

PHILADELPHIA

Charges that exponents of discrimination and segregation are allies of Hitler were made by Magistrate Joseph H. Rainey before a large audience on Sunday at Wesley AME Church, Camden.

Such persons, he said, are "fighting desperately against democracy in this country—against the very thing thousands of American soldiers and losing their lives for."

Wolves in Sheep's Clothing

"The Talmadges and the Bilbos of the North and South," he continued, "are nothing more or less than wolves in sheep's clothing, busily engaging themselves waving the American flag and at the same time preaching and practicing against the doctrines of the Stars and Stripes."

Rainey said that colored persons were tired of having pretty bubbles blown in the air for them by insincere people, only to have those bubbles burst.

Hits Censorship Again

"There are white men in this country," asserted Rainey, "who would rather see their country lose the war than to give the colored man his equal rights.

For the second successive week, Rainey criticized the censorship that has been placed on the activities of colored persons in the armed forces of this country and said that if the government stepped in and took a definite stand against lynching in the South the unfair treatment of colored soldiers in Southern camps, there would be no need or any such censorship.

Asbury Park Man Is Killed by Train

ASBURY PARK, N.J.—Samuel Morris of 152 Sylvan Avenue was killed early Friday night when struck by a Pennsylvania Railroad train at the Springwood Avenue crossing of the New York and Long Branch Railroad Co., his body being hurled 100 feet.

Unidentified for several hours, an examination of the victim's pockets disclosed that a lottery slip found on him—812—was also the number of the train that struck him.

According to Wallace Shafto, white, of 1218 Corlies Avenue, Neptune, watchman at the crossing, Morris attempted to cross in front of the northbound train after the gates had been lowered.

Mortician, Aid Hurt in Accident

TRENTON, N.J. — S. J. Newsome, local mortician, and his assistant, John Hunt, were seriously injured while returning to Trenton from New Brunswick early Saturday morning, when the former's new hearse crashed into a heavy truck.

The accident was attributed to the heavy fog, which prevented Mr. Newsome from seeing the truck parked on the highway. The hearse was demolished.

The injured victims were taken to McKinley Hospital, where they are awaiting x-ray examinations to determine the extent of their injuries.
