Dear brother Levy, when I returned home I told Levine Levy of a coulored girl that I have, as I told you wishes still to go to Libera, and after presenting the case to her as fully as I could she is very anxious to go, and for as much as I wish to broke up housekeeping early in April like after the session of our conference the first of June I wish you would answer the following queries at your earliest convenience: viz,

1, Are you in a condition to send her soon? my recollection is that you said you was.

2 When, or how soon could you receive her at Baltimore?

3 Would it be best to give her clothes to do her a year on to give her a little money to buy them herself?

4. Should she take a trunk or a carpet bag or sack?

5. Would you see to have some person to meet her at the cars on their arrival at Baltimore, and conduct her to her lodging?

6 Would or would it not be best to have her some time under your care before she should be shipped?
