Philadelphian Doesn't Agree with Film Stars

Sends Quick Reply to AFRO Article Asking Reactions

EDITOR'S NOTE: The first reaction to the Hattie McDaniel, Hattie Mae Wright case was a letter appearing in last week's edition of the AFRO came from a Philadelphian, Norman A. Williams, within twenty-four hours after publication. AFRO readers are invited to participate in the discussion!

BALTIMORE—In reference to the fight over roles given colored players in Hollywood, Mr. Williams of 1726 Catherine Street, Philadelphia, had this to say:

Public Shows Reaction

The cry of the colored public over these characterizations can be compared with a man being served ham and eggs every day in the year. Thus, the public is tired of this and has begun to react to these presentations.

The facts mentioned by Ben Carter, of the manager of his troupe refusing to accept the accommodations given Mr. Carter, have been met by fair thinking white men before.

Goodman, an Example

Benny Goodman told theatrical big shots, "Teddy Wilson plays where Benny plays or else"; Gene Kruper whipped another white man's head in York, Pa., about Roy Eldridge; Coach Carl Snavely of Cornell refused to let Navy draw the lines against Sam Pierce; and Wisconsin called off a game with Missouri because they refused to play against Ed Burke.

In reply to Mr. Carter, Hattie McDaniel, Clarence Muse, et al, no Jewish actor in Hollywood, such as Eddie Cantor, and others, are restricted to portraying pawn shop keepers, tailors, or any occupation generally attributed to Jews.

Likes Improved Roles

Thus, the trouble over colored actors in Hollywood will be ended by placing them in some other category in addition to the present portrayals on the screen.

It would be a pleasure to see Hattie McDaniel as something other than a maid for a change, since she is such a fine actress.

Letters up to 150 words may be sent to the Theatrical Editor, AFRO-AMERICAN Newspapers, 628 N. Eutaw Street, Baltimore, Md.

"Forest Rangers" at Regent Is Tops as Adventure Film

"The Forest Rangers," thrilling romantic drama of the tall timber, starring Fred MacMurray, Paulette Goddard and Susan Hayward, opens Sunday at the Regent Theatre.

Filmed on the high timberlands of America's Pacific slope, the picture centers around MacMurray, a forest ranger, who is in search of a saboteur who has been setting giant redwoods ablaze for some sinister reason.

Concords and Discords

By W. LIZZELLYN WILSON

William Alonzo Summerville, Baltimore's oldest active trumpet player in the point of service, should be a source of inspiration to many of our embryonic musicians.

There are one or two, however, who have been playing longer than Mr. Summerville but, today, they either devote their time to teaching, or they no longer play professionally.

Edward Bowen Recalled

Among the latter group might be mentioned Edward Bowen, nephew of them all, and Harry Anderson, who in his hey-day was without peer.

Mr. Summerville received his fundamental instructions under William Hamilton, a well known teacher from Lexington Mart.

Began Career in Church

He began his career as a church musician at First Baptist, and for a period of forty years played at Bethel A.M.E. Church.

At present, he divides his time between Wesley A.M.E. and John Wesley Methodist, where he has served continuously for a period of twenty years.

Wide Band Experience

As a band member, he has belonged to such organizations as the Metropolitan band, Commonwealth band, Dunbar's, Joseph Gaines's and for a while with Kerr's dance orchestra.

Despite his long years as a cornet player and as a trumpeter, he still plays with a vigor and skill worthy of many much younger musicians.

Outlined Musical Friends

Among the now deceased musicians with whom he played are Charles Bogle, Brown, trombonist; Charles Brooks, bass; Samuel J. Palmer, cornetist; Jesse Myles, flautist; Charles Williams, clarinetist; Ambrose Brice and Frederick D. Hawkins, violinists;

Isaiah Thompson, pianist-organist-bassoonist; Harry Colden and Charles (Doc) Riley, baritones; Emile Davage, bass; Alfred Caulk, string bass; Joseph Gaines, violinist; Joseph Cockney, organist and clarinetist; Charles A. Johnson, orchestra leader; Lyton Taylor, pianist, and Charles Dungee, organist.

A Member of Park Band

At present, he is a member of the City Colored Park Band of which Edward Prettyman is conductor.

Quiet and unassuming, Mr. Summerville always has been a credit to the profession to which he has devoted his life.

"Secret Agent" at Roosevelt

The "Secret Agent of Japan" and "The Man Who Wouldn't Die," open the Sunday program at the Roosevelt Theatre. "To the Shores of Tripoli" and "Mad Martindales" are billed for Tuesday and Wednesday.

"Moontide" and "Kennell Murder Case" compose the double features for Thursday and Friday, with "Rings on Her Fingers," showing Saturday.

"Tennessee Johnson" Not Offensive

NEW YORK—"I found nothing in the film, 'Tennessee Johnson,' to which the race could justly take offense," was the opinion expressed by Mrs. Viola Mae Warf, AFRO representative, who was given a private preview of the controversial picture last week.

Mrs. Warf was invited to a showing of the production in the projection room of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer following a conference with Howard Dietz, publicity director for the company.

Publicity Man Disturbed

Mr. Dietz, himself an average student of race relations in America, was deeply concerned over the reactions of colored movie-goers against the film which deals with the impeachment of Andrew Johnson, successor to President Abraham Lincoln.

"Many of the objectionable features in the original script, which allegedly depicted Thaddeus Stevens, Abolitionist leader, in an unfavorable light, have been deleted from the film," Mrs. Warf declared, "and there are no derogatory references to colored people at all."

NOT NEW FOR ANN

Gas rationing and sharing rides is nothing new for Ann Sheridan, star of Warner Bros'. "George Washington Slept Here." When she first came to Hollywood, Ann couldn't afford a car and thumbed her way to the studio.

Tarzan at Lafayette

"Tarzan's Secret Treasure" and "Raiders of the Range" share the Sunday-Monday program at the Lafayette. "It All Came True" and "Girl from Alaska" show Tuesday and Wednesday.

George Sanders comes Thursday in "Date with the Falcon" along with Ray Middleton in "Hurricane Smith." Don (Red) Barry is the star of "Desert Bandit" showing Saturday.

Harlem Film Shows How War Birds Are Trained

"Thunder Birds," the story of how American, British and Chinese youths are being trained for combat duty in the air, opens on Sunday at the Harlem Theatre, co-starring Preston Foster, John Sutton and Gene Tierney.

Betty Grable and Carmen Miranda are the feminine stars of "Springtime in the Rockies," opening Wednesday. Cesar Romero leads the male cast. The romantic film has melody by Harry James's Music Makers, while Romero and Miss Miranda lend the Latin atmosphere.
