ryland friend of the President was conversing with him on the subject of the pecuniary distresses of the country. Said the gentleman, I am extremely anxious as to the state of public feeling. In Baltimore there is great excitement. The people appear to be combining against you, sir, and I am apprehensive that they may commit some imprudent act. "You need have no feats, (says the General,) if there was any difficulty, I would put myself at the head of two hundred marines, and drive your Baltimore mob before me."

I do not mean in Baltimore only, said the visiter, the people appear to be combining throughout the whole country.

"Why sir, (said the General) I disregard their combination. I have only to stretch my arm out to the West, and I can have, in thirty days, two hundred thousand men in this city at my command."

From the Baltimore Chronicle of yesterday.

Bank of Maryland.—We understand that Baltimore County Court yesterday granted an injunction against the Bank of Maryland.

The New-York Journal of Commerce, of Saturday, states that "the Mechanic's Bank at Patterson, N. J. closed its doors yesterday at 12 o'clock, and for the information of those who came knocking for admittance, posted on the door a notice signed by the Cashier, announcing that the Bank had suspended specie payments. This Bank was incorporated but a year or two ago, and from the want of age or something else, has tottered very much in its movements, for some months past."

Too Good.—The Globe claims a majority of one! for the administration!! on a joint ballot!!! in the next Virginia legislature. The Globe's majority is something like the Irish widow's fortune, fifty pounds in debt, over and above all she was worth.—Winchester Rep.

The Maryland Republican of the 3d says "We learn from Washington, from authority on which we fully rely, that the President will (probably on this day—certainly in a few days) send an angry, if not a hostile message to Congress, in relation to the delay of payment by France, of our merchants' claims."

[Perhaps the failure to have his pet chosen as Speaker of the House, has excited the old man's bile, and that, as he cannot well chastise the House, and must give vent to his passion, he has resolved to drab Messieurs the French.]

Balt. Chron.

The Baltimore Chronicle says—The valedictory address of Mr. Speaker Stevenson is very good, and had he always practised upon the principles he recommends, he could have retired from Congress with a quiet conscience, and without a single objection to his appointment as minister to England.

The Test Oath.—The Charleston Courier of Saturday, May 24, says—"A rumor was put in circulation, yesterday, which was said to have originated from a source entitled to the highest credit, that the decision of the Court of Appeals had been pronounced against the constitutionality of the Test Oath. That the result will be of this auspicious character we feel increasing confidence but rumor has been premature on the present occasion; as we learn from two gentlemen, who arrived here from Columbia yesterday afternoon, not only that the decision had not been delivered, but that it was still quite uncertain when it would be delivered. It is proper, however, to state that the impression seems to be prevalent even among leading nullifiers that the decis'on will be averse to the oath This impression is derived from a letter received from a distinguished lawyer, expressing confidence in such a result.

WILMINGTON, JUNE 2d, 1834.

SIR.—In the fall of the year eighteen hundred and thirty two I was elected a member of the Senate of the State of Deleware, for the term of four years,

My name was presented at that time to the people of New Castle County by the Jackson party as one of their candidates for that office, and my election was of course owing to their strength in the County.

The recent measures of the party as well as some of the doctrines of President Jackson, as their chief in relation to the nature and extent of the powers of the Executive Department of the Federal Government being in my humble opinion repugnant to the constitution of the United States; and having a tendency to change the nature of our institutions, prevent my continuing to be any longer one of its members.

Under these circumstances I cannot reconcile with my own sense of propriety the further occupation of an office which was obtained through their means & which they may suppose would be still within their controul if it were an open question. I therefore, Sir, here by resign my seat in the Senate of the State of Delaware.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully,
Your ob't servant, R. H. BAYARD.
JOSHUA BURTON, Esq.
Speaker of the Senate of the State of Delaware.

From the Baltimore Chronicle of yesterday.

The Senate have passed Mr. Clay's joint resolutions. This was anticipated. But the vote given by Mr. McKean, of Pennsylvania, is worthy of notice. He has heretofore sustained the experiment; and we presume that his vote to the same effect was calculated on in the present case; but if so he has disappointed his party. The reasons given by him for supporting the resolution to restore the deposits to the Bank of the United States, are sound, and such as should govern all members of Congress, who desire to represent the public interests fairly

The passage of the second resolution brings the question of the Secretary's reasons directly before the House of Representatives; and there can be no escape from the responsibility of a direct vote. Mr. McKean views the resolution as a proposition of relief, and it now remains with the Jackson majority of the house to say whether this relief shall be given to the people. On them rests the responsibility of continuing the present disastrous measures; and. if they shall resolve that the pressure shall continue, the people will understand to whom they are indebted for their grievances.

We rejoice that the question is thus presented to the house, because it will enable the people to separate true patriots from false pretenders There can be no skulking, or if there be; the delinquents will be made to feel the consequences of their pusillanimity. Mr. McKim must now make his selection between his constituents and the President. If he decide in favour of the latter, to preserve his "influence," he will no doubt be called upon by the former to surrender his trust forthwith. We shall note his vote, & not fail to make it known to our readers. If he obey his instructions, he will act discreetly, & save himself much mortification, for we assure him, that so long as he shall continue to misrepresent his constituents, and we shall be able to hold a pen, his conduct shall receive that exposure and reprehension which it deserves.

Cruelty Unparalleled.—A most extraordinary trotting match was performed on Saturday last on the Centerville track. It was a match against time by two horses belonging to Mr. R. B. Thiell, of this city, for $1500, to trot in a light four wheel carriage, one hundred miles in ten successive hours; and was won, having two minutes thirty five seconds to spare. If what we have heard be correct, the later part of the match was a scene revolting to humanity. The horses performed wonders for the first eighty miles, but evidently flagged the ninth hour, and on the tenth, became so completely worried, that, during a portion of that time they were whipped with a degree of cruelty unheard of in this country or in Europe. One of the morning papers states that men with whips had to drive them around the last mile, and that there is little hope of the recovery of one of these fine animals—should he even survive, he will never be fit for the road again. We shall be glad to give contradiction to this statement if it be untrue. If it be true—and we had the story from the lips of a gentleman who was on the course—the authors deserve strong public censure, and, it is the duty of the grand jury to indict them.

N. Y. Com Adv.

Valuable Cargo.—The Columbia Spy of Saturday says—"An ark arrived at this place a few days ago, loaded with 5000 rakes; 600 bench screws; 120 bedsteads; 1000 hoe handles, 1000 cradle sneaths; 2000 window blinds, and 12 or 15,000 slats for venitian blinds. These articles came from the manufactory of Mr Edward L. Paine, of Bradford County, Pa and reflect much credit on the enterprise of that gentleman. In addition to the above, we are told that on the passage down the river, about 2000 rakes, 1000 blinds, 500 screws, and 25 bedsteads, were disposed of. When the ark left Bradford County, the cargo must have been valued at between two and three thousand dollars. It will proceed to Baltimore.

For the Easton Gazette.

MR. GRAHAM:

My Dear Sir:—I was much pleased at first sight, on seeing in your paper of Saturday a publication, which I supposed from its commencement bid fair to be a review of the ever memorable "Fair," which has been the engrossing topic of conversation throughout our county for the last three months, the glorious result of which I doubt not, will remain for a long time, fresh in the recollection of many, often bursting forth the most enthusiastic praise; but I was sadly disappointed, in finding it only to be an invitation from your worthy and much admired correspondent, "Benedick" to several of your other correspondents, to take from off his hands, a task which his well arranged publication evidently shews him so ably qualified to perform.

As nature has deposited in my brain, but a small portion of that admirable of Talents, namely, the talent of fanciful description, I should fear, it would be doing injustice to the public, were I to attempt a discription of the "Fair," whilst there was the least possible chance of enlisting in the cause, talents and learning, such as I doubt not is possessed by your correspondent "Benedick," and where such a field would be opened for the display of his fanciful imagination. And I should be the more loth to do it, whilst I was aware, that his rod of grammatical criticism was held over me, as a chastisement for my non-performance of the task. To him I would say go on, the cause is a good one, and as others have failed to do their duty, public opinion demands it of him, let him disappoint them not, but show them that when his invitations is given, if not accepted, that the honor and the fame shall be his.

I would attempt a criticism of his publication, but as I am informed that "little Billy Beardisss" has returned from his visit to the West, and as I doubt not, he would like to have an opportunity of exercising his recruited wit, which I know to be as heavy as a broad axe, and as sharp as a two edge sword, I fear not to pass "Benedick" over into his hands—being well assured that he will handle him with that adroitness and skill, which has always so plainly characterised his criticism.

Peter Noster I presume will say something to him when he gets his mind a little calmed from the turbulent commotion, in which it has been thrown by the bustle of our town for some time past.

Yours truly
ABSALOM DOOLITTLE

TO THE PUBLIC.

THE undersigned having been appointed GEOLOGIST to the State of Maryland, deems it advisable to make known to his fellow citizens the duties which under such appointment he is required to perform, and to inform them of his readiness to satisfy their inquiries as well as of the most convenient mode in which their application to him may be made.

It is the duty of the Geologist "to make a complete, a minute geological survey of the State, commencing with that portion which belongs to the Tertiary order of geological formation, and with the Southern division thereof, and progressing regularly with the course of the waters of the Potomac and Chesapeake through that region, and thence through the other subdivisions of the State with as much expedition and despatch as may be consistent with minuteness and accuracy, and he shall prepare and lay before the Legislature at the commencement of every session a detailed account of all remarkable discoveries made, and the progress of the work."

"It shall further be his duty at those seasons not suited to the active prosecution of the geological survey, to analyze and ascertain the qualties and properties of all specimens of mineral substances or soils left at his office or residence, for that purpose, by any citizen of the State, and taken from any portion of the Territory of the State.

In pursuance of those duties, the undersigned is about to proceed immediately to the Eastern Shore of Maryland, where he will remain until the end of June, after which he will visit the counties lying between the Patuxent and Potomac rivers, proposing to make his examination of this portion of the State during the months of July and August. His cabinet duties cannot therefore be commenced before the month of September. Desirous, however, that no avoidable delay should be experienced by such of his fellow citizens as are interested in the subject of his investigation the undersigned has made arrangements with Mr. Philip T. Tyson, of the firm of Tyson and Fisher, No. 192 Baltimore street, to receive during his absence the specimens of mineral substances, soils, waters, &c. which may be submitted. Any information concerning these, not requiring to be determined on an elaborate investigation or analysis, will be furnished by Mr. Tyson; further information will be communicated by the undersigned himself at the earliest convenience.

PROPOSALS

FOR PUBLISHING THE

EASTON GAZETTE

In an extended and improved form,

BY the generous offer of a gentleman well known throughout the State, to superintend the Agricultural and Political departments of my paper, I am enabled to propose to publish a Journal particularly devoted to Agriculture and Politics, which I flatter myself will merit and receive an extended patronage.

From the irritations long produced by political warfare, it has been hitherto thought best to separate these interesting subjects by giving them possession of distinct papers—as it was supposed that all parties would unite in the first, whilst none but partizans of one cast would be likely to take an interest in the other.—Where political discussions and commentaries are marked with personal offence and rude intrusions upon feelings, there seems to be a necessity for this separation. But if a paper maintains its own principles and views of public men and things fearlessly and with decorum, the union of these interesting topics would only enable those of a different political way of thinking to hear the other side of the question.

Without meaning however to press this view of the subject, I must say, that the real design in uniting these two highly interesting topics is to give greater interest to the paper, and to make it more worthy of general attention.

How far the plan can be made acceptable to the public taste must be left to the sequel, in case a sufficient patronage is extended to justify the increased expenses to be incurred in wages for additional labour, type and other materials—as well as in procuring the most interesting papers and works relating to Politics and Agriculture, which cannot be had by the ordinary interchanges among Editors—and the procuring which, cannot be risked until I can ascertain the public opinion in relation to the plan, and their disposition to sustain it.

That the plan can be rendered acceptable I have no doubt, if adequate encouragement is given.

It may perhaps be thought by some, that the depressed and reduced condition of our country at the present time renders it an unsuitable occasion to put forth proposals for a Journal, that is to require patronage at the hands of the people—The remark is obviously a plausible one, and would be irresistible, if the Journal itself did not mainly contemplate an agency in furnishing to the People the information and the aids necessary to meet the crisis, and to enable them to restore that state of comfort and prosperity from which they have been so wantonly, so causelessly, and so lawlessly ejected. Pressed down as the people are in their pecuniary concerns by measures equally ruinous and absurd—excited and indignant as they ought to be at the high handed, unconstitutional, and arbitrary course that arrogant and stimulated power has adopted, patience for a moment under such suffering would be construed into acquiescence that would tend to swell the list of their grievances, and embolden daring ambition in its usurpations and abuses. The People must resist or they are degraded and ruined—The People must resist or their Republican Institutions, their Liberty, and happiness will be annihilated—The People must resist now early, or they will have later to seek through blood and slaughter the reparation of a loss too great to be borne, involving all that is dear to the heart of man. The crisis calls forth the proposal—it is necessary to act—the loss of time may be the loss of all—the object is to prepare the means to make known to the People their real condition, the causes that have produced it, and the way to resist it.

Let not this language be misinterpreted—we speak in all we say in the spirit and under the sanction of the Constitution and the Law—it is the triumph of these we aim at as the means under Heavens merciful behests, of restoration to happiness and peace.
