Mr. Ancient — "I tell ye, the good old days were the days for me—when you could go in the streets without being knocked down with these old automobiles and living didn't come so high!"

Anty Drudge — "Yes, and you could slave from morning to night, and then not get your work done. I'll take these days, when I can have all the modern helps for women."

Anty Drudge takes little stock in "the good old days." These days are good enough for her, because these days she can get Fels-Naptha Soap to make her work easy.

Every woman has a chance to see how Fels-Naptha Soap makes dirt disappear. It's wonderful! No hot water or elbow grease needed. Fels-Naptha Soap is the only soap that does its work best with cool or luke-warm water without hard rubbing.

Easy directions on the red and green wrapper.

THE COLONEL VINDICATED.

COLONEL ROOSEVELT, at the trial of the Michigan editor of circulating stories that he was addicted to the excessive use of liquor, contended that he was fighting for a vindication and he got it handsomely, as the defendant admitted that he had no substantial evidence with which to prove his statement

The Jury was instructed to render a verdict for Colonel Roosevelt carrying with it nominal damages, and thus the case came to a sudden end with the Colonel as the victor.

For some months stories such as that published were circulated from mouth to mouth by those who claimed to know, but when called upon to "make good" they were unable to do so. Mr. Roosevelt determined once and for all to put the stamp of falsehood upon the idle gossip.

The verdict should teach a lesson to others who carelessly bandy report that if believed would damage the character of a man. How often in daily life do we hear persons accusing others of misconduct? If called upon the slanderers would find themselves in the same predicament as that which confronted the Michigan editor when he heard the overwhelming testimony of witness for Colonel Roosevelt showing that he is a temperate man.
