Pennsylvania Ave. No Drawback to AMEZ Church

Emotionalism Held Basis of Expansion in 103 Years

Nearly 1000, Less Than Half of Total, Told by Rev. Edwards to Read Bible Without Question

If anyone was seeking the Holy Spirit last Sunday morning, he could have found it in Pennsylvania Avenue AMEZ Church!

Located near Dolphin Street, the red brick edifice, with over 103 years of AMEZ history behind it, fairly rocked with the emotions of nearly 1000 persons who jammed the auditorium and balcony.

Draws Many Passers

The fact that the church is on the famous Pennsylvania Ave. has in no way retarded its development. In fact the advantages outweigh the possible disadvantages.

REV. G. M. EDWARDS

Those who stop reverently to listen to the services over the loud speaker system far outnumber others who carelessly toss their bottles into the church yard.

At the conclusion of the morning sermon Sunday by the Rev. G. M. Edwards, pastor, and a candidate for the Bishopric in 1948, one young veteran walked to the pulpit and fell sobbing to his knees to embrace the Faith.

Perhaps it is this sort of spirit which has led the church from its beginnings in 1843 to a membership today of 2,311 who plan a $60,000 construction program.

Withdrew From Methodists

Pennsylvania Avenue AMEZ was organized under the name of First AME Zion by a small group of persons who withdrew from a p.m. Methodist Episcopal congregation.

Its history during the period following, when the church moved from Howard and Montgomery Streets to a smaller building on South Eutaw Street, has been lost.

In 1880, under the Rev. John H. Butler, a new site was selected at Cross and Warner Streets, and in 1904, with the Rev. B. J. Holding, some 200 members moved into the Pennsylvania Avenue structure, purchased for $16,000 from a white Methodist group.

Tribute to Present Pastor

Electric lights, a pipe organ, new windows and a heating plant were installed during the pastorate of the Rev. J. W. McCoy, but improvements really began when the Rev. Mr. Edwards took over two ministers later, or rather 16 years ago.

The church's modernization program at this time included the additions of two business offices, lavatories for men and women, an ushers' room on the second floor, a kitchen, and rooms for the choir and chorus.

Four houses and one lot in the block were purchased; the front yard was cemented, and the Rev. Mr. Edwards planted shrubbery and erected a lighted cross bearing the words, "Jesus Never Fails," atop the church.

Last June, the church windows were destroyed by fire, but were replaced at a cost of $5,100, with stained glass structures.

Further Expansion Planned

The energetic minister, however, does not intend to stop at this point. Blueprints have been drawn, extending the building back 35 feet.

There will be a Gothic type of stairway, bordered by two lamps, leading from the ground front of the church up into the chapel, a choir loft seating 100 above the pulpit (this group now sings from the balcony), a baptismal pool beneath the pulpit and a recreation center.

Men's Day Nets Only $1200

Burnt debt-free (a $7,000 mortgage was burned in 1939), the church can easily look forward to this program, since $30,000 was raised by members last year.

On Sunday, approximately $1200 was raised for Men's Day, a figure less than others obtained on this occasion for the past 10 years, the minister revealed.

Responsible for Over 2,000

At present, the auditorium seats 660 persons, and the balcony holds 300. Of the 2,311 members, the Rev. Mr. Edwards can take credit for all but 150.

Superintendent of the Sunday School with 277 members is Miss Esther I. Lyons, who has been church clerk for 14 years, and is

By CHURCH REPORTER

"Daddy" Grace, head of the House of Prayer, is white.

This revelation was made Wednesday by his young public relations manager, Norman W. Grace, who says he, too, is white because both are native Portuguese.

The bishop, and a staff of assistants, were in town for a day while negotiations got under way for the building of an extensive new House of Prayer to contain a factory, several concession stands and community facilities at Pennsylvania Ave. and Preston St.

The bishop's race was revealed as the young man explained that because Daddy Grace is white, it is easy for him to purchase properties in exclusive neighborhoods. These properties may then be put at the disposal of his followers.

Daddy Grace Plans Vacation

Mr. Grace revealed that he is doing a series of articles on the religious and economic projects operated by the House of Prayer, and that the bishop is planning a 90-day vacation at his Finga Sarella estate near Havana, Cuba.

Noting the similarity in names, the AFRO reporter asked whether the public relations manager was related to the bishop. This the young man refused to answer because he considered it a "personal" question.

He did say, however, that he is a war veteran having served with three white Air Corps units.

Gov. to Speak at Unveiling

Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor is scheduled to speak at annual London's day services Sunday, Nov. 24, sponsored by the women's auxiliary of the George F. Bragg Church and School in Catonsville. A painting of the late Dr. Bragg will be unveiled during the services.

Thomas Stockett is the artist.

Others to participate include: Bishop Noble C. Powell of the Diocese of Maryland; the Rev. Cedric E. Mills, pastor of St. James PE Church; the Rev. David E. Croll, chaplain, Bragg School Chapel;

The Rev. Arthur Payne, pastor of Enon Baptist Church; Dr. George B. Murphy, vice-chairman, board of managers; and John R. Procope, superintendent of Provident Hospital.

Friends Extend Invitation

Intermediate class of the Sunday School of Friends Meeting House invited members of Ames Methodist Church and its interlocutors to meet with them Sunday.

Under the leadership of Mrs. Andrew Simon, the group discussed "Sowing the Seeds of Peace." Participating from Ames Sunday School were Valerie Smith, Cecilia Smith, Mabel Cole, Carolyn Shaw, Connie Rice, Felicia Thornton, Emily Pollen, Margaret Wilson, Rochester High and Dasi Chase.

They were accompanied by Misses Louise Mason and Gladys Smith; and John Branch. Clarence J. Roberts is superintendent.

Expanded Planned Parenthood Services Sought by Churches

The demand for expanding planned parenthood services in the Baltimore area, as called for in a national resolution signed by 3,200 of the nation's religious leaders, presents a challenge to hospitals, health and welfare agencies.

According to the Rev. Torrie Speers, minister of Brown Memorial Presbyterian Church, the document endorses the position of the Federal Council of Churches, on the "elementary importance of planned babies for the health and security of the family."

It calls upon Protestant and Jewish clergymen to insist that child spacing services be made available to all who desire them, he added.

Lack of Counsel Perilous

"The failure of community services to offer expert guidance and counsel in planning parenthood is a peril to community health and welfare," the Rev. Mr. Speers asserted.

Since its inception 30 years ago when Margaret Sanger opened the first birth control clinic, the planned parenthood movement has grown to a federation with 33 State leagues and more than 250 local committees.

National Scout Leader to Speak

A. J. Taylor, national field director of interracial service of the Boy Scouts of America, will be guest speaker at a public meeting of all adult scouters and friends of scouting in the auditorium of Pratt Library at 8p.m., Friday, Nov. 22.

Mr. Taylor will launch the city's "One Thousand for One" membership campaign that ends Oct. 31, 1947. The drive is in honor of Dr. Stanley R. Harris.

30 Years in Scouting

The veteran scout leader, who will retire on that date, will have completed 30 years of scouting, 20 of them as head of the national interracial service.

Under Dr. Harris's leadership, colored scouting has grown from 5,000 to over 120,000.

Mr. Taylor is a graduate of Henderson Institute, N.C., and of Knoxville College. As assistant to Dr. Harris, he is the highest ranking colored professional scouter in the country.
