The Bell is Tolling

Many of us remember the days of the big city political bosses, the big industrial bosses ,and the big financial bosses. No wwe have the big bosses of labor.

Whenever bosses became so powerful and venal that they rode roughshod over the general welfare, their dictorial powers were curbed by law except in the case of labor bosses. After these labor bosses have not seemed to profit by the history of boss elimination. Not satisfied with using their powers to improve labor's wages and workng conditions, they are following the pattern that eventually dooms all bosses and dictators, namely a "public be damned" attitude to gain their ends—as witnessed in the paralyzing steel strikes, coal strikes, railroad strikes, public utility strikes and maritime strikes.

The same urge to safeguard the public interest that brought about anti-trust laws, "blue sky" laws, public regulation of utilities and similar egislation, is going to bring about stiff curbs on labor osses and their activities. The people have been long-suffering, but you can see the worm turning in the passage of state laws against labor excesses and in court decisions upholding them.

No group or combination can be allowed to take a "public be damned" attitude in this country. The bell is tolling now for the labor bosses.

Great Logic

A few weeks ago President Eisenhower discussed, at a press conference, certain cuts in defense expenditures he is recommending. He vividly described the philosophy that governs his thinking in these words: "I have always . . . believed that there is a great logic in the conduct of military affairs. There is an equally great logic in economic affairs. If these two logical disciplines can be wedded, it is then possible to create a situation of maximum military strength within economic capacities.

"If, on the other hand these two are allowed to proceed in disregard one for the other, you then create a situation either of doubtful military strength, or of such precarious economic strengh that your military position is in constant jeopardy."

The President thus said, in effect, that a sound government economy is as important to our defense and survival as actual military power—and that reckless, unbridled spending can be as dangerous as a foreign foe. That is as refreshing and as important an attitude as we have seen in high places in government in many a long year.
