GOP Leader Plans to Enter Candidate for City Council

Marse S. Callaway, Republican leader, this week announced plans to enter a candidate in the Fourth District Councilmanic race for the municipal election of next spring.

"Unlike so many previous campaigns, we plan to consolidate our forces behind one man who should be elected to represent the voters in the Fourth Councilmanic District," Mr. Callaway stated.

Two Candidates Considered

The politician revealed that John L. Berry, manager of the East Baltimore branch of the North Carolina Mutual Insurance Co., and William I. Gosnell, attorney, are being considered to enter the race.

Mr. Berry was formerly on the Board of Managers of the Cheltenham School for Boys and at present is on the Commission on City Planning.

Mr. Gosnell was defeated in the primary elections of last spring when he ran for the State Senate from the Fourth District.

Both he and Linwood G. Koger lost to Daniel Ellison. The latter defeated E. Milton Altfeld for the spot in the general election three weeks ago.
