Marshall Presses for Arrest Inquiry

fail to do your duty in this case," Bumpus was quoted as admonishing the all-white panel, "it will be up to the good white citizens of Maury County to defend themselves against these outrages."

Klan Methods

"Ku Klukers don't have to wear the bed sheets, they can just in a beating by her husband at 185 Oakwood Ave., Orange.

Deceased Officer Named

Mrs. Chabel Beale of Jamaica, L.I., who was a roomer when the petitioner and her husband resided at the Orange address, testifying on the Jan. 16 fracas, said a conference with several leaders, when they noticed a police car in which four officers were riding, pass slowly by their car.

Crowded to Side of Road

Later, after the defense counsel had started driving on the main highway back to Nashville from Columbia, they heard a police siren behind them. A few seconds later three police cars drove up and crowded their car, driven by Mr. Marshall, to the side of the road.

One of the cars remained behind, the second crowded their car at the side, while the third blocked the road in front. Eight officers, representing Columbia police, State Highway patrolmen and deputy sheriffs, piled out of the cars and walked to the car.

One held up a search warrant and demanded the right to search the lawyers' car. Looby said they insisted on reading the warrant and, after finding it in order, got out and allowed the policemen to conduct their search.

Arrested After 3rd Pursuit

Finding no whisky, the officers allowed them to drive off. Mr Looby said, only to overtake them two more times. On the third occasion, the officers placed Mr. Marshall under arrest, charging him with operating an automobile under the influence of whisky.

The men first demanded to see Mr. Marshall's driving license, Mr. Looby said, and after finding it in order, insisted that he get in their car and accompany them to jail.

Possible Tragedy Averted

"The officers drove off with Mr. Marshall, but instead of proceeding down the main highway, turned off into a side road headed toward some woods. Mr. Looby said he and Weaver proceeded to follow the police car.

Becoming aware that they were being trailed, the officers turned back to the main highway and headed for the magistrate's office.

Just as the magistrate was about to sign a warrant holding Mr. Marshall under arrest for drunken driving, Mr. Looby said he and Mr. Weaver suggested that perhaps it would be wise to examine Mr. Marshall to determine whether or not he had been drinking.

No Evidence, Released

The magistrate, J. J. Payne, ordered Mr. Marshall to blow his breath, and after detecting whisky, freed the NAACP special counsel.

Leaving the magistrate's office, the three lawyers, noticing a large number of police officers milling around outside, decided to return to Mink Slide, fearing that they would again be stopped should they start back to Nashville.

They were successful in borrowing another automobile in the colored section, leaving Mr. Looby's easily identifiable maroon-colored sedan overnight. They returned to Nashville without further molestation.

"This sort of intimidation of defense lawyers charged with the duty of defending persons charged with crime cannot go unnoticed. Therefore, I demand immediate investigation and criminal charges against the officers who participated in the outrage," the telegram read.

Patrol Mere Spectators

State Safety Commissioner Lynn Bomar, white, said Wednesday that the Highway Patrol did not participate in the arrest, but merely stopped to see what was going on.

"No statement could be further from the truth," Weaver declared. "The State patrol car sounded its siren which caused us to stop in the first place. A county car drove alongside our flashing lights into our automobile.

"When we got out of our car, the patrol car was back of us. While our car was being searched, the patrol was present and participating by looking into the trunk of our car." Weaver emphasized.

No Race Indignity

"Searching under such circumstances is not a new thing to the State Highway patrol, or to Commissioner Bomar as his testimony of illegal searches carried on in February against colored citizens in Columbia, will verify," he added.

"This outrage against American Freedom calls for an inquiry by Attorney Bumpus and responded to by officers of the law, is in the best Ku Klux fashion imaginable."

At Columbia, Sheriff Flo Fleming said, "The warrant for the search was obtained by City Constable A. M. Butts on information given by some of the colored people here. Marshall was arrested but released by a magistrate who found he was not drunk."

Retrial Motion Filed

Mr. Looby told the AFRO that a motion for a new trial has already been filed in the case of Lloyd Kennedy, who was convicted and that Judge Ingram set Dec. 6 as the date for the hearing.

ball and football have been nationally acclaimed.

"The fact that he has been able to do this on an exceedingly small budget and without any gymnasium at all should be a perpetual challenge to Morgan students in the future to excel in health and athletics when the proper buildings and equipment are provided."

Dormitories Named

Other recommendations of the 8-man committee appointed to select names for campus buildings which were approved by the trustees were that:

Girls' dormitory No. 2 be named Truth House for Sojourner Truth; girls' dormitory No. 3 be named Harper House for Frances Ellen Watkins Harper; boys' dormitory No. 1 be Banneker House for Benjamin Banneker, and boys' dormitory No. 2 be Douglass House for Frederick Douglass.

Mrs. Harper, probably the least well known of persons for whom these buildings will be named, was a Maryland-born abolitionist and pre-Civil War school teacher.

Bishop Hughes Honored

The stadium is to be known hereafter as Hughes Field for the late Bishop W. A. C. Hughes; the library as Morris Soper Library, and the dining room as Memorial Refectory.

Judge Soper is present chairman of the board of trustees, was chairman when Morgan was a church school and headed the commission which recommended that the State take over the college.

War Sacrifices Noted

The refectory, dedicated to war veterans, will be dignified by a plaque bearing the names of all Morgansters who served in World War II.

The new classroom building will be Holmes Hall in honor of the incumbent president, D. O. W. Holmes, and the auditorium will be called Ira Aldridge Auditorium for the Bel Air-born Shakespearean actor who won world acclaim in the 1800's.

Goal Salaries

The trustees are asking the Mother, Daughter Contested for Man

A mother of four children, who put her 12-year-old daughter out of their home because she was jealous of the attention her boy friend displayed toward the girl, was sentenced in Juvenile Court, Wednesday, to two years in the women's penitentiary.

The woman, Mrs. Catherine Tates, 40, of 2047 Llewellyn Ave. was given the sentence by Judge Charles E. Moylan on a charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Policewoman Carolyn Robinson, of Northeastern District, testified that the case first came to her attention about three weeks ago, when Mrs. Tates approached her to register a complaint about the girl.

Had Put Daughter Out

She said Mrs. Tates told her she had put her daughter out of their home because the girl had "stolen" her boy friend. She wanted to arrange some other place for the girl to stay.

The "boy friend" in the case was described as being a neighbor, who had been intimate with the girl, a junior high school pupil.

Mrs. Tates was said to have been separated from her husband for some years and was employed as a domestic. She has two other daughters ages 15 and 17 years and a son, 10 years old.

Six Buildings New

If the application is approved, these buildings will be moved by the government from some Army camp to the campus to serve the needs of veterans—particularly.
