Roads Commission Pushes Road Project Across Shore

The State Roads Commission is pushing towards the construction stage the 35 miles of modern highway across the Eastern Shore which will be a last link in the great arterial route from Boston to Richmond.

Utilizing the Bay Bridge, the route by-passes cities and large towns. Construction costs will be approximately $10,000,000. It is slated for completion during the first four years of the State's 12-year program.

Although only one ribbon of the eventually dual highway will be built at this time, rights-of-way for both ribbons are being acquired at a cost estimated at $1,500,000, including surveys.

The route starts at the eastern end of the Bay Bridge, from which construction of a modern road has been completed to Queenstown.

From the latter point, construction now is under way of a 4.19 mile stretch to Route 213, near Centreville.

Surveys have been completed for continuation of the entirely new road for the 35 miles from Centreville northeastward to Warwick, at the Maryland-Delaware line.

From Warwick, the State of Delaware will improve the already good 8-mile road between that town and Odessa, on the du Pont highway.

The new route will be shorter than the one now used, which leaves the du Pont highway at Smyrna Del., and, in Maryland, followsRoute 300 and Route 213 by way of Church Hill, to reach Centreville, Queenstown and the Bay Bridge.

Commission officials said the growth of traffic on the Bay Bridge and on the Potomac River Bridge have demonstrated the utility of the new route.

State 4-H Club Week Begins August 3

Some 1,200 4-H boys and girls are expected on the University of Maryland campus for State 4-H Club Week, August 3 to 8. Club Week is the annual get-together of 4-H Club members from the 23 counties in the state.

According to Mylo Downey, state 4-H Club agent, and Dorothy Emerson, associate state 4-H Club agent, boys and girls attending must have passed their 12th birthdays. All 4-H'ers planning to come to Club Week should obtain registration cards from their county Extension office.

During Club Week 4-H'ers will take part in homemaking and agricultural classes. Boys, 12 to 14, are scheduled for to agricultural classes of their choice each morning. For girls there is a dress review group, home economics demonstrations, song leading, personal development classes and demonstrations by 4-H Club girls.

Club members 15 and older will be organized into interest groups with programs on u-to-date agricultural and homemaking subjects. They will also have a chance to attend such discussions as grooming, personality development, social relationships, recreation leadership and music.

For those interested in recreation leadership, song leading and crafts, special training is offered. Special activities and meetings are planned for local 4-H leaders who will attend to help with Club Week.

In the late afternoons and evenings, after classes and assemblies, boys and girls will take part in games, contests, musical activities and campfires. Vesper services will be held on the University campus several evenings at sunset.

Thursday, August 6, is set aside as Older Youth day for older club members who cannot attend the entire week's program. On Friday parents and friends of 4-H are invited to see Club Week in action. A dress review that afternoon, a Club Week talent musical, and the All Star Consecration Friday evening climax the week's activities.

It's Fine To Be Fooled -Sometimes

Handy Peters entertained for the ladies of the Auxiliary the other night—and had the ladies believing for a while that he's the best marksman ever.

Handy put on a great act. He set up a whole bunch of balloons on a muslin backdrop and then took out his pea-shooter. He shot blindfolded, standing on his head, every which way—and broke a balloon every time!

No wonder Handy impressed the ladies. What they didn't know—till the show's end—was that Buck Mulligan was hiding behind the backdrop improving on Handy's aim with a hatpin.

From where I sit, we all get things "put over" on us now and again. When it's good-natured—fine! But, some folks would like to fool the rest of us into believing it's wrong to enjoy an occasional glass of beer—just because they prefer something else. For real American tolerance and neighborliness these people are simply "off target."
