STATE GRANGE AT TOLCHESTER

500 Farmers In Attendance—Lecturer Advises That The Boys And Girls Be Given a Share In Farm Products.

An enthusiastic crowd of farmers and their families, 500 in number, gathered at Tolchester Friday from all parts of the State for the summer meeting of the Maryland State Grange.

State Lecturer Reuben Brigham presided at the afternoon meeting, introducing the State master, B. John Black, of Baltimore county, who declared it to be the purpose of the grange to work for the improvement of the country community, and that it would do its solving of the market problem.

L. B. Flohr, of the office of markets of the United States Department of Agriculture, discussed the relation of the post to the marketing of farm products and its bearing on the cost of living problem.

Cannot Abolish Middlemen.

"We cannot do without the function of the middlemen," he said, "but we should reduce their number and use every channel that opens to us for getting the producer and consumer in contact. There seems to be a mutual distrust between them that must be overcome. As his share the producer must supply a high-grade product that will command a fair price and give the consumer a square deal."

Robert L. Graham, of Baltimore, president of the State Horticultural Society, urged those in attendance to visit and exhibit at the Maryland Week Exhibit to be held in Baltimore, beginning November 16, which, he said, will be the largest show yet held. It is planned to have a model dairy with real cows as a part of the exhibition.

Urges Co-Operation.

Dr. H. J. Patterson, president of the Maryland Agricultural College, made a strong address on the need of co-operation and profit sharing in the home. "If you are unfair to your sons and daughters," he said, "in letting them share with you in both the profit as well as the work of the farm, you cannot expect them to co-operate with their neighbors or trust them in marketing and selling their produce. Neither should co-operation be attempted at first in a wholesale manner. Let two farmers in a neighborhood or grange co-operate successfully together and others will soon join them."

The agricultural college, he asserted should be equipped to study and lend aid in solving the market problem, as it is the problem of greater production.

Dr. Augustus Stabler, State Demonstration Agent, spoke on the forming of a co-operative producers' association. The thing he considered essential to its success were an equality of vote, the limitation of interest in shares and the division of profits in proportion to patronage. He was followed by George Wayson, of the Produce to Consumer Co-Operative Association of Baltimore, who concluded the program.

The sentiment prevailed among those attending the meeting that the grange should lead in solving the problem of the high cost of living on the part of the Maryland producer.

Kent Horse Still Winning

The Leonard Wilson horse, Dixie D., won his race at Tasley last week in 2.18¼. The Wilmington Every Evening, in speaking of him, says:

"Biggs & Peacock, the Chestertown horse-training firm, have been successful so far this season. Fi Fi, their young pacer, by Barnet B. and Elsie G., has started three times and won each time. Dixie D. started three times and added the second victory to his score at Chestertown, Md., Wednesday, by winning the 2 18 pacing stake race for a $500 purse. Previous to winning the race Dixie D. was sold to M. F. Hayden, of Wilmington, for $1,350. Mr. Hayden, after the race, placed him in the hands of Frank Barnes, of Baltimore, who is driving Astrolla, Charlie K. and several other good ones.

This is one of the best pacers that was ever raised on the Eastern Shore of Maryland. He was discovered and developed by John M. Mallalieu, of Millington, Md., and was owned by a banker at Centreville, Md. He was used as a road horse by him and his family, and none of them knew he could step until one night hooked to a family carriage, when he beat one of the fastest trotters of Queen Anne's county.

From that time he was not a family horse, wanting to race everything he saw hitched to a wagon. His owner turned him over to Mr. Mallalieu to train last year, and on July 4, 1913, the writer timed him, separately, a mile in a race in 2.16, last half in 1.06, last quarter in 33 seconds, and advised Mr. Peacock to buy him instead of Pony Boy or Belton K., which he afterwards bought for John Toy, of Philadelphia.

Mr. Hayden has bought a horse that can pace a mile on any good half mile track in 2.10 and come back and pace some more of them. He is a handsome sorrel gelding sired by Victor Russell and is as sound as a nut."
