Artist's Version of Highway Slaying

Photo shows scene on Old Annapolis Rd. near Fort George Meade Rd., where police found the dead body of Eddie Mason, South Baltimore truck driver's assistant, late Sunday. Life was blasted out by a 12-gauge shot gun. Neither the motive, actual scene of the shooting nor the slayer is known to police. The AFRO's staff artist shows how the body presumably was tossed from an auto before the killers sped away.

trousers pocket to a South Charles St. establishment, only to learn that the receiver, during the transaction had been destroyed recently.

A passing motorist, en route to his home in Ferndale, sighted the body lying on the heavily traveled Old Annapolis Rd. a short distance from the Fort Meade Rd., and notified police.

Body Still Warm

Upon arrival the officers found the body, still warm, lying on the shoulder of the road within full view of passing motorists.

Life was gone, but a thin stream of blood slowly trickled from wounds on the chest and under the left arm.

A cursory examination by a local county physician revealed that death had been caused by a blast from a 12-gauge shotgun.

Kneeling When Shot

The location of the wounds indicated that the person with the gun had stood above his victim, causing the shot to follow a downward path.

Police were slightly inclined to believe that Mason had been on his knees as if in a dice game. Supporting this theory was the fact that $2.72 in loose change was found on his person.

Blood Trail to Body

Officers found a stream of blood approximately 40 feet long leading to where the body lay.

They assumed that the murderer was attempting to drag the body to an opening in the shrubbery when the headlights of an oncoming automobile frightened him.

The fact that Mason's body was still warm gave rise to the belief that the man had been shot in South Baltimore and dumped from a truck at the spot, approximately 10 minutes ride from the city.

Widow Puzzled

The widow, Mrs. Eunice Mason, discounted the belief that her husband was shot while gambling. She told the AFRO that her husband took and occasional drink but did not shoot dice.

Her story was that shortly after 8 p.m., Sunday evening, Mason and a friend of three years' standing, John Hill of Centreville, the Eastern Shore of Maryland, had a few drinks together and then left the Briscoe St. house in Hill's car.

She said the pair had often gone hunting together and when her husband failed to return that night she assumed he had gone on another of those trips and would return within a day or two.

No Reason Advanced

Mrs. Mason said the two men were the best of friends and that she could think of no reason why Hill would do anything to her husband.

On Thursday, police were looking for Hill, while the widow planned funeral arrangements. The Masons, married for 18 years, have two daughters, Marguerite, 13, and Ida, 12.

The dead man had been steadily employed, his widow said, and had been working recently as a trucker's assistant.

Burglar Given 12-Yr. Sentence

Accused by a Division St matron of climbing into her bedroom window, criminally assaulting her and stealing her purse, John King, 34, was convicted and sentenced Tuesday, to 12 years in the penitentiary.

He was found guilty by Chief Judge W. Conwell Smith of charges of burglary and assault with intent to commit a criminal attack.

Intruded in Morning

According to the matron, King whom police said was living in an empty house at 1616 Pressbury St., broke into her bedroom about 5:30 a.m., on Nov. 11, in the midst of her preparations for bed.

Although he denied the charges at court on Tuesday, King, in a statement reportedly made to police, admitted climbing through the window and taking the purse so after watching the woman undress. He did not admit, however, the attack charge, police said.

Rev. D. Ormonde Walker Strong Man of Conference, Writes Up New Rules

By RALPH MATTHEWS

LITTLE ROCK, Ark.—The Rev. D. Ormonde Walker, former president of Wilberforce and now pastor in Buffalo, N.Y., emerged as the strong man of the special AME General Conference, completely dominating the session with his forceful personality.

Dr. Walker, who had the confidence of both clergy and layman, was given the delicate assignment of driving through the reforms needed to correct conditions in the Bishops' Council.

12 Major Changes

He was author of the changes in the discipline governing the conduct of bishops. The changes were as follows:

1. The Bishops' Council shall elect one of its number president of the Council.
2. No bishop shall serve as president of the Council for longer than four consecutive years.
3. A vice president shall be elected in the same way and manner as the president, and shall serve for no longer than four consecutive years.
4. A secretary shall be elected annually, and shall serve no longer than four consecutive years.
5. An assistant secretary shall be elected annually, and shall serve no longer than four consecutive years.
6. In the event that the president or any elective officer of the Council fails to perform the duties of his office, in keeping with regularly established custom and law, said officer may be removed by a majority vote of the Council, and the vacancy or vacancies thus created shall be filled in the same way and manner as described for the election of officers.
7. Each bishop shall present to the Bishops' Council a printed report of all monies received and spent with the Episcopal district over which he presided, together with his rulings and decisions in points of law.

This report shall be distributed to all ministers and laymen of the Episcopal district, and made available to such other members of the church who may request the same.

Calling of Extra Sessions

8. An extra session of the Bishops' Council may be called at any time by the expressed desire of a majority of its members, but the purpose of the call shall be definitely stated so that the Council may have before it only such matters as are contained in the call.
9. The Bishops' Council shall hear complaints and petitions against any of its number and shall have power, by majority vote, to remove or transfer a bishop from an Episcopal district or any part thereof, if the good of the church demands it, or give such directions, as it, in its judgment, deems best.

10. The title of Senior Bishop shall remain as heretofore, without discipline; that is, the oldest bishop in point of election, shall be known as the Senior Bishop.
11. The presiding elder of the district in which the said crime is alleged to have been committed shall notify the president and the secretary of the Bishops' Council.

The president shall appoint a committee of trial composed of one bishop and four elders, over which the president shall preside, but shall have neither voice nor vote in making up the verdict. Should the president be accused, the vice president shall perform the said function.

In the event that a bishop is accused of any of the aforesaid during the interim of the General Conference, said accusation shall be sent to the president and secretary of the Bishops' Council, who shall furnish charges and specifications to the accused at least 30 days before the date set for the trial.

The president shall call the committee to meet at a given place and time, shall summon the accused in writing, giving in his hands the bill of complaints or charges at least one week before the date set for the trial.

12. The committee recommends that these changes shall become effective immediately.
13. All laws or parts of laws in conflict herewith be and are hereby repealed.

Edgewood Unveils Plaque to 400

A bronze plaque, mounted on a granite base honors the 400 civilian employees of Edgewood Arsenal who lost their lives during the recent war.

The memorial was dedicated before approximately 3,000 persons last Friday, and the first wreath placed upon it by William E. Cromwell of Abingdon, Md.

Employees Bought Plaque

It was in the production division where Mr. Cromwell works that losses of civilian personnel were greater than in any other department on the post.

The plaque was presented by the Employees Welfare Association of the post. Formal acceptance was made by Brig. Gen. E. F. Bullene, commanding officer of Edgewood Arsenal.

3rd College Fund Distribution Made

NEW YORK—The third distribution of proceeds of the 1946 campaign of the United Negro College Fund was made among its 33 member colleges this week. W. J. Trent Jr., executive director of the fund, has announced.

This distribution of $250,000 makes an aggregate of $700,000 allocated to the member colleges since June. The final distribution from the 1946 campaign will be made in February.

With the resources of the member institutions taxed to the utmost by the largest enrollments ever, these funds will help the colleges provide the needed additional services and staff," Mr. Trent said.

Maryland Homefront Heroes Honored

W. Edward Cromwell, of Abingdon, Md., an employee of the Production Department of the Army Chemical Center at Edgewood Arsenal, Md., places the first wreath on a memorial erected in honor of the 400 civilian employees who lost their lives during the war.

GOP's to Select Council Candidate

In the wake of political party confabs, Marse S. Callaway, Republican leader, announced this week that a committee has been appointed to select a likely candidate to run for the City Council from the Fourth District.

This four-man group, composed of John L. Berry, W. Emmett Coleman, George F. McMechen, and Linwood G. Rogers is to approach possible candidates to interest them in entering the Councilmanic race.

Two Already Named

Last week it was revealed that Mr. Berry, East Baltimore insurance company manager, and William I. Gosnell, attorney, were being considered as candidates.

Mr. Berry, active in civic affairs for years, was formerly on the board of managers of the Cheltenham School for Boys, and at present is a member of the Commission on City Planning.

Mr. Gosnell was defeated in the primary election of last spring for a seat in the State Senate from the Fourth Legislative District.

Charles A. Reid, after losing out in his bid for election as Republican nominee to the House of Delegates from the Fourth District, filed his application for the City Council. He is the first aspirant to file.

N.Y. CITY COUNCIL ASKED TO PETITION BILBO OUSTER

NEW YORK — A resolution asking the U.S. Senate to refuse to seat Bilbo, was introduced in the City Council last week by Councilman Eugene Connolly, aggressive jim-crow fighter.

Deplorable School Conditions May Be Studied in Court

Factual records relating to the deplorable conditions in the public schools have been submitted to attorneys representing the NAACP toward the possibility of instituting court action.

Last week, Joseph Waddy, representing Charles A. Houston of Washington, conferred with local citizens at the request of the NAACP. The group then made a personal inspection tour of Booker T. Washington Junior High School, Lafayette Ave and McCulloh St.

School Condition Rapped

The school, more than 50 years old, has been classed as a outmoded, overcrowded with its 2,200 pupils and a fire and health hazard. Conditions in the building were exposed through an AFRO survey and brought to Mayor McKeldin's attention after his personal visit to the school last spring.

The Fire and Health Department reports as well as the results of a survey conducted by the NAACP have been submitted to the Washington lawyers for study.

Legislation to Protect Minorities Urged

NEW YORK—Joseph L. Bustard, administrator of New Jersey's Anti-Discrimination Law, declared recently that legislation removing prejudice in employment of minority groups, will serve to reduce and curtail the spreading of "hate and un-American groups who feed on the underprivileged."

Mr. Bustard, speaker at a meeting of the New Jersey State Association of Overseers of the Poor and Welfare Directors, said further that such legislation would improve the economic status of minority groups, and remove them from the population of malcontents.

He added that it would also serve as a weapon against the "promised land" arguments of the Communists, and warned his audience of welfare workers against "quick generalizations" on the suitability of minorities for employment.

Facing Jail Term, Man Swears Off Drinking

For William Blanket, 630 W Saratoga St., it will be a dry Yule season or jail.

Blanket was given a choice between the two in Western Police Court this morning (Friday) when charged with being drunk and disorderly Thanksgiving Day at the Saratoga St. address

Magistrate Preston W. Pario administered the oath as Blanket pledged that he "would not imbide an alcoholic beverage within the City of Baltimore for the next 60 days."

The magistrate emphasized that any violation of the pledge would result in a jail sentence for the defendant.

Baltimoreans Take Over Morgan-State Classic

Clark in muskrat; and Mrs. Eddie Hurt in mink.

It was at this point that I ran into Dean George Grant and Mrs. Grant, with his sister, Hester, and her husband, Yancey Whitaker.

Edward N. Wilson and his daughter, Frances, motored down with Dr. and Mrs. Charles R. Campbell, who also fetched Sarah Prettyman, Morgan's famed soprano.

Scrambling for seats on the Virginia side were Mr. and Mrs. H. L. Payne, Mrs. Cumberland Jones, I. J. Greene and Annette Lovail, all of Culpeper, Va.

Following closely behind them were the U. P. Griffen's of Wilmington, N.C.

The Ernest (Cutie) Brown's of Baltimore traveled after the game to Gloucester, where they will spend the week end with relatives of Mrs. Morphelia B. Winston.

Faculty on Hand

Looking charming in black Persian lamb was Betty Williams, who came on behalf of the Morgan faculty, along with Mr. and Mrs. George Spaulding and their daughter, Gail; Ilene Jordan, wearing muskrat.

Others representing the faculty were Dr. and Mrs. Harold L. Gill, she in a three-piece tweed suit; and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Cornish with the misses Allison in smart black.

J. L. Whitaker, secretary of the CIAA, was there from Lawrenceville. Dorothy Brown strolled in with her sweetheart.

Norma Lewis was quite attractive in a gray outfit, with Ray Fuller at her side. It was good to see Clarence (Big House) Gaines, former Morgan football star, now coach at Winston-Salem Teachers' College in North Carolina.

Down from Jersey

Wearing beaver, Mrs. C. T. Lewis came from Hampton with her husband, Hyler Morgan, graduate of Morgan and now principal of Banga Avenue School in Asbury Park, where 15 of 32 teachers and the vice principal, are white, brought his wife along.

The parents of Mrs. Frances B. Hill, namely, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Berry, journeyed over from Lynchburg, which was well represented by Elizabeth Burnett; Mr. and Mrs. Sydney Harris, the Harper twins, and Merlin Kings.

Dr. Harry Penn, Vivian and Melvin Penn sailed from Roanoke. Lorraine Adams, who was crowned "Miss Morgan" this year, wore silver fox furs over her wine colored coat, all topped by a black velvet beanie with tassle which appeared quite smart.

Ruby Patterson was soooooooo svelte in a striking outfit of royal blue and black. Mrs. Roland Rogers wore muskrat, while the former Dorothy Pearle came on the arm of her husband, George Roberts.

Also Seen

Other Baltimoreans strolling about in the crowd which got so excited that they had to call the game when hundreds of spectators poured upon the playing field, were the following:

Thelma Smith, Gladys Byron, Billie Reid, Mary Reid, Catherine Pinkney, Annie M. Chavis, Madison Allen, Dewitt Howard, Alcie Williams, Lois Lansdowne;

Raymond Carpenter, Gloria Jordan, Luther Nelson, Walter Purnell, Ernest Green, Vivian Blake out. James Lattimore, Marshall Dawson;

Leon Bressant, Viola Valentine, Franklin Furr, Gloria Todd, Ernest Bradley, Mr. and Mrs. Kennard Bass, Carstell Stewart, Pauline Tittle, Eugene Lee and Thomas Ballard.

Pre-Game Cheerers

Some word must be mentioned about those "rooters" who arrived early, full of yells and whiskey, but who later sobered up and could not utter a cheer when the game started and both teams needed encouragement.

The Virginia cheer leaders had the advantage over their opponents in that all of them, except one, was able to sit together, while seen an overflow crowd migrated to the Morgan side, that the Bear rooters were split in the middle and unable to pull together.

Well, that just about does it, except for the Virginia quartet, back who muttered after the game, "We'll get 'em next year," and, oh yes, that tuba player in the Camp Lee military band which marched in . . . ooh la la!

Mrs. Kendrick Named Top NACW Secretary

WASHINGTON—(ANP)—Mrs. Ruby M. Kendrick was appointed executive secretary of the National Association of Colored Women last week by Mrs. Christine S. Smith, president, and will have her offices in the NACW headquarters building here at 1114 O St., N.W.

Mrs. Kendrick, who recently served as manager of research services here, is a graduate of Howard University, where she was in the office of public information.

Mutual Love Kept Them Together 60 Years

of Daisy, Md., who celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary Sunday at the home of a daughter, Mrs. Ida Bowman, in Baltimore. Mrs. Powell is 77 years old, and her husband, 78. When they were married in November, 1886, Grover Cleveland was President; the Statue of Liberty was being unveiled in New York Harbor; and shortly before that, the first electric street railway in the country began operation in Baltimore. The Powells are parents of 22 children, 12 of whom are living. Their advice to newlyweds is to "make up your minds to stick together, then do it."

East Coast Socialites Attend Harvard-Yale Clash

with Lula Jones Garrett

By RUTH A. JENKINS

Gobs of socialites trekked to Boston last week end to see Levi Jackson help Yale trounce Harvard 27-14, and to help highlight the associated activities.

Before the game, the Otis Galloways entertained on Friday night in honor of their houseguests, the Fletcher Martins (He's a Nieman Fellow at Harvard) of Louisville, and Gwendolyn Higginbotham of Blingfield, Va.

After the touchdowns, Dr. Silas (Shag) Taylor played host to 200 guests at his Crawford St. home.

Others Seen at Game

In addition to these, other folks seen at the game included:

John Francis Williams (former Yale man), Dr. William Warfick, Dr. William Brown, Dr. Charles Dorsey, Magistrate Hobson and Evelyn Reynolds, Dr. William Cerrick, all of Philly;

H. L. Murphy and his daughter, Patricia of Baltimore; Mrs. Hetty Pierce and son, Burke, brother and brother of Chet Pierce of the Harvard squad; Edward and Marie Goins of New Haven, Conn.;

Dr. Ernie and Bernice Martin of Bluefield; Dr. Tom Williston of Washington, Mollie Moon and Mollie Pickens of NYC.

Before dashing off to the Morgan-Virginia State turkey-day game at State, the localites held a round of gay entertainments to put them in the proper mood.

SUSIE WEST FETED

One such affair was the cocktail birthday party given by the Symphonettes' Club for Susie West on a recent Monday. The honoree was garbed in a sequin-studded black and red dinner gown. Attending were:

Virginia Parks, Bertha Richardson, Hilda Smith, Minerva Welling, Harryette Coleman, Elaine Tarter, Doris Tarter, all club members and Elizabeth Credit and Louise Henson.

The "Three B's," radio artists, rendered a few selections, including the appropriate birthday greeting song. Susie was showered with gifts of jewelry, perfumes and flowers.

BRIDGETTES MEET

The Bridgettes, as the Morgan faculty women and wives call their club, met Tuesday at the Morgan Christian Center with Frances Hill and Thelma G. Preyer as hostesses. A Thanksgiving motif and menu was used at dinner, after which contract bridge was played.

Members present were Mesdames Flossie Dedmond, Dolly Walker, Theresa Kennedy, Beula Davis, Beatrice Hurt, Hermine Hardin, Althea Cornish.

Guests were Gaynelle Spaulding, Olivia Dixon, and Appye Hurt.

Club prizes were won by Dolly Walker and Theresa Kennedy. Mrs. Gaynelle Spaulding won the guest prize.

A brief business meeting followed and officers were elected as follow: Thelma G. Preyer, president; Theresa Kennedy, secretary, and Hermine Hardin, treasurer. This is the second term for each of the officers except the new treasurer.

MRS. BODDIE, HOSTESS

Mrs. James Boddie and her brother, Leroy Fox, of 1816 W. Lafayette Ave., entertained at a gay dinner party after the Morgan-Hampton game in honor of Mrs. John O. Perry of Philadelphia.

Chrysanthemums were used to decorate the living room and as a center piece for the dinner table.

Guests were Mrs. Marie Fox, Miss Anna Caswell, Miss Jean Davis, Miss Thelma Preyer, and Dr McDonald Bands.

Mrs. Perry, the guest of honor, had just returned from North Carolina, where she visited her mother, Mrs. Evelyn Pearson, and stopped en route to her home in Philadelphia to visit her daughter, Dean Preyer, at Morgan.

This year's Charm Club, composed of all the freshmen women, is the largest in the history of the club at Morgan.

The club met on Tuesday and discussed the etiquette of the introduction. After discussing the topic, the students dramatized the various ways to present themselves to the average person.

Officers were elected as follows: Iria Boswell, president; Thelma Wilson, vice president; Jean Ghee, secretary; Cynthia Bayton, assistant secretary; Alithia Griffin, treasurer, and Mary Pinkett, business manager.

Dean Preyer, sponsor of the club, announced the next topic, which is "The Etiquette of Bereavement."

IDA GOINS, BRIDE

Cutest wedding of the week was that of Ida Goins, who teaches at Turners Station, and Geo. McKinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. George McKinney Sr., at St. James P.E. Church, Wednesday evening.

The bride selected a sequin-trimmed blue frock with a matching hat and a corsage of orchids while her sister and matron of honor, Gwendolyn Tucker of Washington, wore a white frock with chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom's twin brother, Samuel, stood as best man. The bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Goins, and another sister, Sarah, came down from Chester, Pa., for the ceremony. A reception followed at 1037 N. Fulton Ave., home of Mrs. Martha Harris, with whom Miss Goins lived. Accompanying the newlyweds on a short honeymoon trip, the entire group trekked off to the game in Virginia on Thursday.

MARK DUNBAR DAY

Many Dunbar High School grads returned to the institution Friday for the annual Dunbar Day observance, four taking part on the program.

Earline Gibson, Morgan student, gave a dramatic reading, as did Vonzella Miller, a newly appointed chalkwriter. Thomas Richburg, war veteran, rendered a baritone solo, and Robert Laws of the Howard University School of Music presented three tenor selections.

Loretta J. Harris is president of the alumni association, and Ruth W. Lighston, faculty sponsor.

DENTAL SOCIETY MEETS

The Ladies' Auxiliary to the Maryland Dental Society held its monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Nelson Williams, 1908 Madison Ave.

Present were Mesdames Florence Gloster, Jeanette Christmas, Waltye Dokes, Vivian Alleyne, Mary White, Mary Hairston, Mamie Jones, Llewellyn Walker and Eulie Mae Watts.

MINISTERS' WIVES MEET

The Ministers' Wives' Association of the North Baltimore District of the Methodist Church was entertained Wednesday at the home of the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Scott, 1317 N. Central Ave., with Mrs. E. L. Lofton presiding.

About were Bishop and Mrs. A. Preston Shaw, the Rev. Messrs. and Mesdames E. L. Lofton, F. F. King, J. B. A. Dyson, A. H. Whitfield, A. Hammond, M. M. Jefferson Jr., M. M. Jefferson Sr., O. T. Key and John Lindsay.

Guests included the Rev. M. C. Mack of Lynchburg, the Rev. E. L. Lofton Jr., and Frank Miller, nephew of the Scotts.

SOCIAL SMATTERINGS

Spotted at the Lincoln-Howard clash in Washington Thursday were the Bill Gosnells, a party from Atlantic City including Mme. Sara Spencer Washington, Charlie and Catherine Laws, Emma Anderson, Marshall Bright;

The Elmer Burgesses, Mrs. A. Smith, George W. F. McMechen, Dr. and Mrs. J. E. T. Camper, Dr. and Mrs. James White, the Lucius Butlers, the Edward Williamses.

Larry Reeves of Philly, "Stud" Banks, Violet Joyner, the Wendell Fludds of New York; and the following persons from Quakertown:

Evelyn Randall, Malinda Morgan, Marcella Smithson, Ruby Little, Johnny Goins, Harry Sheppard, Hank Anderson, Billy Thornton, Robert Farrell, and Alonzo Henry.

The sparkler which Pranksie Murphy is wearing on that certain finger is a gift from James Wood, Howard U. art student, and son of Mrs. Francis M. Wood.

The Gilbert L. Randfields were hosts at a Thanksgiving night farewell supper honoring Dr. and Mrs. J. Jeffrey Higgs 3rd.

Dr. Higgs, a former interne at Provident Hospital is assistant physician at Tewksbury State Hospital in Tewsbury, Mass., and is going to the Virgin Islands, as a municipal physician with the privilege of conducting a private practice.

Invited guests were Dr. and Mrs. James P. James of New York, Dr. and Mrs. James B. Carr and Mr. and Mrs. Tazewell Lewis, Dr. and Mrs. Maurice Adams, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Jackson and Mr. and Mrs. Avon Wright.

MRS. JACKSON ILL

Reported on the sick list are Mrs. Kelly L. Jackson and Mrs. Matthias Williams, both wives of Methodist ministers.

Passing through town en route to Philly and New York, Louise Rogers, who has served four years as Army hostess at Fort McClellan, Ala., spent two days of her leave with her sister, Mrs. Earl Gullins of 250 Robert St.

Louise has had several poems published in "Brown Thrush," an anthology of verses by colored writers. She's a graduate of Talladega College and the Atlanta University School of Library Science.

Don't forget the Guardsmen's affair at Morgan Hall come Saturday night, which is expected to be a highlight on the Thanksgiving week-end social calendar.

RAYMOND HALL FETED AT SURPRISE PARTY

A surprise birthday party was given Friday by Miss Mary Meekins in the club cellar of the Ideal Counts Club, 1239 Myrtle Ave., in honor of Raymond Hall, club vice president.

AUGUSTA BAILEY — met at the home of Mrs. Mary Bridges and Mrs. Katie Roseboro, 1843 Presstman St. Mrs. Vera Bagwell of 27 Silver Ct. will be the next hostess. Mrs. Martha Grice is president, and Mrs. Howell Parrish, secretary.

Sprightly Crowd Attends Howard-Lincoln Classic

By MABLE ALSTON

WASHINGTON

The Ole Spirit prevailed once again at the 41st annual football classic between Howard and Lincoln as thousands of cars bearing out-of-town licenses with visitors to attend the affair jammed traffic on historic Georgia Avenue.

Despite the high price for the official football flower, Chrysanthemums, $1.50 each, hundreds of fur-clad femmes wore them to complete their holiday attire.

In the crowd rushing into Griffith stadium were rich men, poor men, professional men and educators, doing something unusual for Washington — bringing their entire families out to enjoy a day of football.

Weather Ideal

The weather was ideal, just right for miladies to sport their new coiffeur, chapeau or fur coat, and did they turn out, en masse?

There were minks, so many of them one could have started a ranch with them. Opossum, a fairly new comer on the market, was very much in evidence.

Mouton Lamb, seem to be the favorite fur of the day for the collegiate set, and wit hits dark rich brown coloring, it made a perfect background for the bright yellow Chrysanthemum corsages.

Arkansan a Spectator

One of the many visitors coming the farthest distance to attend the classic was probably Mrs. Lula Curtis Howard of Hot Springs, Ark.

The happiest man in the Thanksgiving parade was non other than Archie Lescene of New Orleans, La., who had just received word that he had passed the Illinois bar.

He is a graduate of Howard and is married to one of Washington's most beautiful school matrons.

Homecoming "Queen" Reigns

Miss Loney Hammond, a beauty of Bryan, Texas, and queen of the homecoming game of Howard, reigned again as queen at the classic.

A funeral procession for Lincoln University, led by students of Howard was the highlight of the parade.

Clubs

NINE EXCLUSIVE — will present its ninth anniversary sermon at Orchard St. Methodist Church at 8 p.m. on Sunday. Mrs. Fannie Wycoff is chairman of the affair. Mrs. Mary E. Cooke, president. The Rev. J. J. Barnes is pastor.

SANS SOUCI — met recently at the home of Mrs. Myrtle Brown, 1735 Appleton St. Prizes at cards were won by Mrs. Bertye Whyte, Miss Avis Smith and Miss Ernestine Crump. Mrs. Beulah Davenport was a guest.

SO DIFFERENT — met with Sylvester Johnson at 1610 Biddle St. Mrs. Bertha Thomas is president.

BNAI B'RITH GIVES RANDOLPH $500 FOR FIGHT FOR FEPC

NEW YORK—A. Philip Randolph, president of the National Council for a Permanent FEPC, last week was presented $500 by Westchester Lodge of B'nai B'rith, and $25 by the Rev. C. M. Long of Bethesda Baptist Church, New Rochelle for the FEPC fight.
