Farmers are complaining of being much disappointed in their yields of corn. Of course, after the heavy hail and wind storms of August had passed over, no one whose field was so stricken expected a full crop, but some of those who believed they would still have eight or ten barrels an acre say now they will not get more than five. They account for the shortage by the theory that heavy rains while the corn was in tassel washed the pollen from the blossoms. This, they say, accounts for the fact that many perfectly healthy stalks bear no ears.

Combines Style and Beauty with Accuracy

This is a rare combination for it has been a generally accepted fact that, to obtain thinness in a watch, a certain amount of accuracy must be sacrificed.

But the South Bend Watch represents a new epoch in watch construction.

"The South Bend Watch"

It possesses both of these qualities to such an extent that we are glad to guarantee it to keep accurate time or refund your money.

You certainly will like its trim-shapely build.
