Newspaper Week— October 1-8

Throughout these pages today you may find various references to the value of the newspaper to every American.

It is National Newspaper Week, and if we tend to boast a little just now perhaps we may be indulged. For the newspaper, which regularly devotes itself to bring news and the interpretation of news to your home, has a message of its own. We believe that message worthy of some attention.

The American newspaper occupies a unique place in the world. It's freedom to print is guaranteed by the Constitution. It has been considered from the beginning of the Republic and from even before that—an essential instrument in the lives of the American people.

Its basic purpose has been and always will be the same: To tell the happenings of the day. Here the function is of particular importance in regards to the happenings of government, which is but an instrument of the people's will.

Its next and amost inseparable function is to try to place the facts concerning these happenings in perspective—to give them meaning in the light of other events, past and present.

It has other important purposes—to serve as a medium for advertising, to entertain and amuse, to serve as a public forum.

You may, and undoubtedly do, on occasion become discouraged with your newspaper or even become angry with it. Yet it is an indespensable item for intelligent living, and in more cases than is generally realized it is the most constructive and most educational item in a family's existence.

Where newspapers are free from government restrictions, as they are in the United States, you are free to select the reading matter of your choice. You are privileged to have a voice of protest. You are favored by having news of importance to you, personally, collected, verified, edited and presented in readable and understandable form delivered to your home every day.

The modern newspaper is a swift and an accurate purveyor of important factual data and a medium of considered, moderte, and enlightened opinion.

The newspapers of America set aside this week, therefore, to call attention to the services they perform. But more than that they set it aside to remind themselves and their readers of the obligation they owe the American public.

It is their constant hope that the reading public will continue to trust the integrity of their services. It is their constant effort to maintain the standards which have made this nation, more than all others, a nation of newspaper readers.

National NewspaperWeek therefore, is not an occasion for self-praise by newspapers nearly so much as it is an occasion for self-appraisement. It is a time for newspapers over the land to rededicate themselves to the trust placed in them by the vast, intelligent, progressive and enlightened American public.

A bumper crop in telephones, too!

Every year, farmers set new production records, grow many new hybrid crops and develop new farming techniques. And speaking of records, here's one you may not have heard of: last year your telephone company expanded and improved telephone service at a greater rate than ever before! It added 6,600 telephones in rural homes of Maryland. Yes, farmers and the telephone company are working hard to meet the needs of the nation.

How many for dinner tonight, Mom?

You can bet there'll be plenty, Sis! Even today, farms need many men and women to keep them running smoothly. Teamwork does the job, just as it does with party-line telephone service. If everyone helps by considering the other fellow, then service is improved for all homes on the line. This means more useful, more valuable service — more for your telephone dollar.
