TO TRY OFFICER IN MARYLAND SLAYING

When the Kent County Circuit Court convenes here October 19, for its fall term, a murder case removed from Talbot county, will be tried. Change of venue to the local court has been granted Constable Granville Downs, of Ridgely, Caroline county, accused in the slaying of Arthur Wooters, of Cordova, upon whom he was serving a warrant charging larceny.

Defense counsel, Owen Knotts and W. Mason Shehan, did not believe their client would secure a fair trial at Easton and prayed for a change which was granted.

Wooters was shot through the chest last March 25, while allegedly resisting service of a warrant. Constable Downes, a veteran of seventeen years as a law enforcement officer, had called at the victim's home, with a warrant charging him with having stolen $100 from a woman resident of near Goldsboro. Three Negroes, his alleged accomplices, were sentenced to serve terms in the Maryland Penitentiary in connection with this robbery. The officer has been out on bond of $5,000.

Suitor—Sir, I would like to marry your daughter.

Old Man—No, young fellow, you are too young—you are scarcely 20 and she is 28. Wait 10 years, then you will be 30—and my daughter will still be 28.

Do you enjoy bowling? There are few of us who don't like this sport and those of you who do will have a fine opportunity to bowl and bowl this Thursday afternoon at Betterton, The Dragon is beginning to get started and that always spells money. Miss Riches had the idea that at 15 cents a game many people would bowl and thus raise money for The Dragon. And a grand idea it was too, wasn't it? Elmer Brice, business manager of The Dragon, had it all arranged. So come to Betterton Thursday afternoon, all ye readers, and find out how many ten-pins you can knock down.

P. S.—Please don't forget that it's fifteen cents a game.

DID YOU KNOW—

That the Commercial Department has six brand new typewriters to accommodate some of the new students?

When I went to Mary Margaret Eliason for the program of the 10A History Club she did not have them ready. "However," she told me, "I'm going to be downtown this afternoon and so I'll leave the minutes in your store. You see, then I shall have time to get them in order.

When I came home from school mother gave me the paper that Mary Margaret had left. At first I intended to simly copy the program, but that certainly would be losing the interesting manner in which she has written it. And so I shall just cop what she has given to me.

I don't know what to call this. It was a sort of roll call, I guess. I passed out slips of paper with names of historic places and people, and then called on people to tell what they knew about the thing they had selected. I think everbody was called on.

Announcements of engagements are running 20 per cent above normal in the Chicago newspapers. Almost any girl with a good job can get married now.

The Aztec word for postage stamps is "amatlocullolitquiticatlaxlahulia." We had felt the same way many times until the government put more glue on them.

BETTER THAN IT APPEARS

Many farmers are disheartened because the milk price was cut recently. No producer was pleased because the cut in price was necessary. Probably no one was pleased because no new basis is to be made this year. However, good reasons for this situation were presented and must be accepted.

On the other hand, many farmers are apparently better off than they realize. Many think of present price — especially surplus price — and mourn for the dollars that might have been theirs had no restriction on quantity been necessary. Do such farmers take out their pencils and compare the milk price against the labor and feed bill. These two main items in the cost of producing milk are down relatively as much as the milk price. Then also, there is this other encouraging fact that the cow furnishes a much better market for your corn, wheat, barley, oats, hay, fodder, etc., than the cash market.

You save marketing costs which are considerable—you have the manure to return to the fields to maintain or increase their fertility. You can buy in concentrated protein supplements much more economic than you do with out them. Home mixed feeds solve your marketing problem and (assuring proper amount and kinds are used) enable you to produce milk more economically than buying ready mixed feeds to solve a Western farmer's marketing problem.

Remember the well fed cow is the one that produces milk economically and profitably. If you have too much surplus milk remember that culling out your boarder cows to cut down total production, is much better economy than half-feeding all of the cows. The latter plan makes culls out of good cows and upsets them so much that it takes a long time to get them back to normal and profitable production.

No—the milk situation is not "too bad." You can do much to improve it if you will. Someone has said "Dairymen set their own wages by the cows they keep and how they keep them."

A DOCTOR who runs a syndicated advice column in the papers says "the way to keep young is to live with young people." And the way to age quickly is to try to keep up with them.

the RIGHT OIL makes any gas a better gas!

YOU can't get more power out of a gasoline or motor fuel than there is in it.

But it takes proper lubrication with the right grade of the right oil to get all the available power out of any gas.

That's why the right oil--Amoco Motor Oil--will make any gas a better gas.

No matter whether you use Amoco-Gas or Orange American Gas--fill your crankcase with Amoco Motor Oil (100% Paraffine Base).

Amoco Motor Oil is wax-free, has a low cold test, better heat-resisting qualities. And all of that means less sludge and carbon formation under any operating conditions!

Call for Amoco Motor Oil every time--whether it's a quart you need or a complete crankcase change
