

WOUNDED KILLER HANGED BY MOB; CORPSE BURNED

(Continued from page 2)

tory offices at 2:30 P. M. today, charging that his employer was robbing him by paying him only 15 cents an hour for his labor.

An argument followed, and Williams fired several times at Elliott, fatally wounding him. He then inflicted a slight wound on his own chest before hurling the gun to the floor.

Shot By Victim's Son.

A man to whom Elliott was talking over the telephone heard the shots and notified the authorities. But meanwhile, young Elliott had hurried in from an adjoining office and shot the colored man through the head with the latter's discarded gun.

Both Elliott and his assassin were taken to the hospital where the employer, who was 65, died a few minutes before the lynchers wrought vengeance.