SATURDAY, JULY 4, 1908.

BE CAREFUL about fire works today. The Fourth is usually a day of fatalities and accidents by carelessness on the part of some one.

MR. BEVERIDGE, secretary of the Maryland Progressive Democratic League, says that Bryan is absolutely sure of the nomination and the election. "No power on earth," he says, "can beat him out of it this time." That's the way to talk.

THE DEMOCRATIC National Convention will assemble in Denver on Wednesday to nominate candidates for President and Vice-President. If the Democrats nominate Bryan for President and Gov. Johnson, of Minnesota, for Vice-President, it will be a ticket hard to beat. Former Gov. Warfield, of Maryland, would also add much strength to the head of the ticket, if he could be induced to accept the second place.

THE REASON the Republican newspapers are making such an outcry about Bryan's nomination is because they are afraid of him. Any man who could poll such a tremendous popular vote in the face of a gigantic campaign fund filched from corporations and insurance companies, which thrive by governmental privilege, as Bryan did, is to be feared, and feared greatly. Roosevelt's popularity has been acquired upon Bryan's principles, and the people know all about it.

WE RESPECTFULLY call the attention of the authorities of Chester cemetery to the condition of many of the lots in the cemetery. We do this in order to silence many complaints that have reached us about the manner in which the grave yard is kept, and while we believe the company desires to keep the cemetery in excellent condition yet the grass in many of the lots is allowed to grow to hay before it is cut, and it is this practice to which so many of the lot owners object. The City of the Dead should be kept in the best condition possible all the time, out of respect to those whose ashes repose there, and we believe the company will use all possible means to give lot owners good service in return for the money they pay to have their lots kept in proper condition. Let us always remember our dead.

IT IS TO BE HOPED that the waterworks can be so managed and equipped that they may be made self-sustaining by a reduction in the rates to water users and the more frequent running of the street sprinkler. There is no necessity to charge the people unnecessary rates, and to deprive them of privileges which are their own. The members of the Water Board are primarily the servants of the people, and their efforts should be directed to giving the people efficient service at minimum cost. The town does not care to make the waterworks a money-making concern. Indeed, since it belongs to the people of the town, only such rates should be charged for service as will make the system a self-sustaining one, and if other towns on the Shore can supply water at less cost than Chestertown has received the service and be self-sustaining, the best service the Water Board can render the people is to lessen the rates as soon as it can be practically done. The cheaper the service, all other things being equal, the greater the consumption of the article served, and the greater the consumption, the greater the benefit to the community. This will be a question for consideration as soon as the necessary improvements shall have been finished.

Talbot Politics.

The Easton Ledger in its last issue says:

There is a newcomer in the political field, Mr. Walter J. Elliott, who announces his candidacy for sheriff. Mr. Elliott has interviewed a great many Democrats and has enlisted a strong following. He states that he has supported the Democratic ticket all his life and has never before had a political office and expects to make a fight to the finish for this one. He is not alligned with either Democratic faction.

Mr. Michael B. Nichols is announcing himself early as a candidate for the postmastership of Easton in the event of the election of Wm. J. Bryan, and has already interviewed a number of his friends and enlisted their support.

In case Mr. Bryan should not be elected Mr. Nichols states that he is a candidate for county treasurer to succeed Mr. Joseph B. Harrington. Mr. Nichols is friendly to the candidacy of Francis G. Wrightson for the clerk of the court, and will doubtless be alligned with him in the primaries of next year.
