AWARDING THE TICKETS.

Convention Committee Will Have 12,000 to Give Out.

100,000 APPLICANTS FOR THEM.

Army of Employes to be Appointed and Contests Among Delegates to be Settled.

Within the next few weeks final preparations will begin for the Democratic National Convention, which will meet in Baltimore on June 25. The committee on arrangements, which has charge of all details, will assemble about June 1 and will likely remain there until after the convention adjourns.

It will pass upon the alterations made to the Fifth Regiment Armory and make such other arrangements as are necessary for the gathering of the Democratic hosts.

ALLOTING THE SEATS.

One of the important duties of the committee will be the allotment of tickets, by which alone admission to the convention hall can be secured. On account of the large number of visitors expected this promises to be a more difficult undertaking than usual.

Space for delegates and alternates will be allotted first. There is always a contest among the State delegations to secure the more favorable positions. The committee usually makes these allotments secretly, and until the hall is opened on the morning of the convention no delegation knows where it will be seated. The choice places are usually reserved to the important Democratic delegations like New York, Texas, Illinois, Indiana, New Jersey and Ohio. Maryland as the host of the convention will likely receive a choice place.

12,000 TICKETS TO GIVE OUT.

There will be about 12,000 tickets to allot. The seating capacity of the hall will be somewhat in excess of 15,000. Of these about 2,200 seats are reserved for the delegates and alternates and 1,000 for representatives of newspapers and press associations.

The other seats are divided into classes according to their locations and tickets for them are distributed pro rata among those entitled to receive them. The city convention committee, of which Robert Crain is chairman, will receive about 3,000 tickets for distribution. Each delegate and alternate, besides the ticket for his own seat, receives three to give away.

The remaining, between 3,000 and 4,000, are allotted to members of the National Committee and prominent Democrats throughout the country. The problem that will confront those who have the distribution of tickets is how to divide 12,000 tickets among 75,000 or 100,000 visitors.

The appointments of the hundreds of employes of the convention doorkeepers, pages, messengers, assistant sergeats-at-arms and other attendants is in the hands of Col. John I. Martin, sergeant-at-arms, but they are made upon the recommendations of the National Committeemen and are subject to their approval.

TO PASS ON CONTESTS.

About a week before the convention opens the National Committee meets for the purpose of passing upon contests between delegates and to select the temporary officers. Though Chairman Norman E. Mack has not issued the call for the committee meeting, it will assemble in all likelihood on June 18, one week before the convention opens.

All contests must be presented to this committee in writing, and both contestant and contestee may be represented by counsel.

In case of a close contest between two or more candidates for the Presidency, the National Committee has much influence. It selects the temporary officers, and rarely has the convention refused to accept its choice.

Bad Apples Can be Easily Prevented.

According to Prof. C. A. McCue, of Delaware College, State horticulturist at the Delaware Experiment Station, there are thousands of apple trees scattered throughout Delaware that never produce perfect fruit. Year after year these trees produce nothing but wormy and diseased fruit that is unfit for human consumption. All this waste is unnecessary, he holds, as a very small amount of labor and expense will cause these unprofitable trees to produce the clean, beautiful, luscious apples for which Delaware is rapidly becoming famous.

Now is the time for the owners of these unprofitable trees to take the steps necessary to produce perfect fruit. Prof. McCue says wormy apples are caused by the larvæ of the codling moth, an insect that can be easily controlled if treated at the proper time. The worms enter the fruit at the blossom end and eat their way into the core and out again through the side of the apple, rendering the fruit unsightly. The remedy is to take advantage of the fact that in almost every case the worm enters the blossom end of the fruit, by placing a drop of poison in the little cup at the end of the apple. When this is properly done, the worm takes its first meal off the poison and dies.

The following treatment, if properly carried out, he says, ought to give 95 per cent. to 100 per cent. worm free apples. Place two pounds of arsenate of lead in 50 gallons of water and spray the trees thoroughly just as the petals have fallen. The work must be done before the little lobes at the apex of the young apples have closed. The spray should be applied with considerable force and the trees should be well drenched. About two weeks later repeat the treatment and the owner can rest assured that he will have apples that are practically free from worms. Eight to ten ounces of Paris green may be used instead of the arsenate of lead, if the owner so wishes.

There are many other troubles other than the worms that make unsightly apples. The majority of these troubles can be controlled, if five quarts of commercial lime sulphur be added to the 50 gallons of poison and water, described above. The complete treatment then would read as follows: Arsenate of lead, 2 pounds; lime sulphur, 5 quarts; water, 50 gallons. Spray just as the blossoms fall and repeat two weeks later. "Do it now," sayf Prof. McCue.

The Extension Division of Delawnre College invites correspondence upon all fruit and vegetable troubles. If necessary a representative of the department will visit orchards that need attention.
