THE hundreds of people who travel to Tolchester in teams, as well as those who go in automobiles and wagons, have been put to great inconvenience by the unnecessary tearing up of the road from Skirven's hill to Tolchester Lane woods. A traction engine has been used to plow the road from ditch to ditch, and it was impassable for sometime. The bayshore road has also been greatly out of repair, and automobilists have been compelled to use the Georgetown road to reach Tolchester. This is the busiest season of the year to farmers and the traveling public, and of all seasons of the year this is the most inconvenient to be working our roads, especially the kind of work that is being done on them. There is great complaint from the traveling public and shippers about the unnecessary working of the public roads at this season of the year.

NOTICE TO PUBLIC.

The public is hereby notified that since Chester bridge has passed under the control of the State Good Roads Commission, the Board of County Commissioners will not be responsible for any supplies purchased for same.

TIT FOR TAT.

When the State Convention was over, the Organization crowd came back home and said the Antis who said at home that they were for Wilson first, last and all the time had "lined up" and voted for Clark. They knew it was false when they said it, for, if they were at the convention, they heard Mr. Harry Davis, chairman of the delegation, when he arose and voted three votes for Woodrow Wilson. What our delegates did do was to ally themselves with the city organization in an effort to organize the convention just as they had a perfect right to do, and the Beck crowd came back home and sought to make political capital out of our stand for Gov. Wilson by deliberately telling a falsehood as to how Messrs. Kibler, Davis and Ayres voted for the presidential nominee. But now it is our time as to the National Convention. During the last primaries, the Organization at home were apparently for the nomination of Governor Wilson for president. Oh! Yes, at home. But when they got to the National Convention in Baltimore, every man of them who lays claim to leadership, and there are a lot of them who do that, you know, was whooping things up to beat the band for the nomination of Champ Clark for president, and were giving Mr. Bryan "particular thunder" for opposing the election of Judge Parker for temporary chairman. They have been with the moneyed interests against the people in every move, and have been doing everything they could in their weak way against the nomination of Gov. Wilson. We dare them to deny the truth of this statement. They are good boys at home, but oh, my, when they think that the people here won't hear about their actions, they can whoop her up, and praise Champ Clark, and berate Gov. Wilson and Mr. Bryan. We simply refer to this because we do not intend that our friends shall be placed in a false position by those who do the same thing they accuse us of doing when they think "nobody is looking".

MR. BRYAN.

The results of the great Democratic National Convention, which has been one of the most remarkable National gatherings in history, have demonstrated beyond question that William Jennings Bryan is one of the greatest statesmen and one of the most courageous fighters that this country has ever produced. In the face of the most tremendous odds, and against one of the most powerful combinations known to political gatherings, Mr. Bryan has made a brilliant fight for the people's rights, and for the establishment of a great moral principle, and he has won a great moral victory. Mr. Bryan's acts have completely overshadowed all other acts of the great convention, and while those who are politically opposed to him are even more bitter in their denunciation of him, he has won the undying friendship of thousands upon thousands of the great mass of the people throughout the county and he is more than ever to-day the great Commoner, the champion of the people against the moneyed interests. Mr. Bryan's course in the convention has, in our judgment been exactly correct. He believes in a government of the people and for the people, and is forever opposed to the domination of the Democratic party by the same predatory influences which have controlled the Republican party for years. We admire Mr. Bryan because of his unquestioned sincerity and honesty. He is a man who has the courage of his convictions, and he is just brave enough to express his convictions even to the extent of calling names of persons when the necessity demands it. It has been said that Mr. Bryan killed Gov. Wilson's chances of nomination when he introduced his memorable resolution last week. That was the greatest thing that ever occurred in a National Convention and was simply the promulgation of a great moral principle. It was putting the Democratic Convention on record as to whether it was a convention of the people or of the moneyed interests and Mr. Bryan, as the champion of the people, has won a most remarkable moral victory. All honor to Mr. Bryan. Would that there were many more men in the country just like him. Then would the power of the great predatory interests be banished from the earth, and the people would come into possession of their heaven-born rights and privileges.

THE MENACE OF NARROW-MINDEDNESS.

The monumental blunder of the political and business allies who have fought under the Clark banner in the Baltimore Convention was their insistence that the temporary chairman should be Judge Parker and no other. They knew they had the necessary majority and they used power for power's sake. People in "big businesss" are always making little-minded mistakes of this character. If the great corporate interests had their way, they would so inflame popular feeling as to invite dire consequences. It is the men who are denounced as "demagogues" who are often instrumental in saving the large business interests of the country from the calamitous results into which their lack of sagacity and breadth of view would plunge them. Let the chaplains pray hard that the Lord may deliver the convention from the overreaching of self-interest disguised as conservatism—the greatest single menance to business prosperity in this country.—Baltimore Sun.
