Praise For Bryan and Wilson

We endorse every word of the following very strong letter published in the People's column of the Sun last Saturday:

"TO THE EDITOR OF THE SUN—Sir: Your issue of the 9th contained and editorial under heading "Mr. Bryan." May I add to your splendid article a slight tribute as evidence of the respect and admiration which I personally entertain for the great Commoner?

"Mr. Editor, without in any way wishing to unfairly disparage the great daily press of the United States, it is truly refreshing at this period of our history, when unbiased judgment of a faithful public official seems at a discount, to find a great newspaper like THE SUN willing to stand in the open and unselfishly defend the right. I sometimes feel that the press of our country is more or less unconsciously yielding too much to the spirit of commercialism at the expense of sound principle. But, sir, howéver that may be, the very realization that your appropriate and timely indorsement of Mr. Bryan is the exception, rather than the rule, I find myself all the more strongly inclined to second your action and, further, to say that the existence of such a coudition (as seems to characterize the press) is truly a sad commentary to be made as to those sources of information upon which the public so implicitly relies.

"It does seen to me, sir, that after long and patient service in the interest of the masses, covering 20 or more years of perhaps the best of his life, Mr. Bryan might at least be shown that respect which is due him, even though speaking truthfully of him may be wholly at variance with the seared consciences of many of his critics.

"Mr. Bryan may not need defence at my hands, and I am quite certain that nothing I can say will in the slightest degree add anything to his already world-wide fame. I nevertheless esteem it a privilege to raise my voice in his behalf.

"Quoting from your editorial above referred to, I note you, in part, say: "We like him for the part he took in the National Convention of 1912; we like him for the splendid support he has accorded Woodrow Wilson, both before and since the latter became President, and we like him for himself," etc.

"The reasons assigned by you, Mr. Editor, for your kind feelings toward Mr. Bryan are all certainly happy, in their application and appropriateness, and will doubtless touch a tender chord in the hearts of and be approved by the many thousands of your readers.

"Yes, remembering the powerful influences which he had to combat in the Baltimore convention, well may we all say "we like him," remembering in that connection his fearless and matchless leadership in the cause of the people. And I doubt not that every liberty loving and sincere sympathizer with sound constitutional government will applaud his efforts and unbegrudgingly will accord to him full credit for the nomination and final installation of the greatest President since the days of Thomas Jefferson. There may be those, and doubtless there are many, who feel justified in criticizing the President, but in my humble opinion (with the possible exception of a seeming disregard by the Postoffice Department of the law governing civil service appointments) the Wilson administration will go down in history as one of the most effective and irreproachable that the American people have ever enjoyed, and especially ornamented by the presence of the distinguished Secretary of State.

"But, after all, speaking of Mr. Bryan's relation to the National Convention of 1912, it merely shows what even one man can do when endowed with a great mind and clad in the armor of justice aud right. As to his support of the President, that, under the circumstances, was but natural after the convention had acted, and was but consistent with the man's whole career, and none but his ever-ready traducers ever forecast or professed to expect otherwise.

"But, Mr. Editor, let Mr. Bryan do what he may, there are those who are ever ready to speak slighingly of his efforts and to detract from what he does. Especially is this true of a certain type of self-aggrandizing men to which the late Mr. Roosevelt belongs, the gentleman, who, while holding office, distinguished himself chiefly by vilifying and abusing every other public man who happened to entertain an opinion different from his own.

"The pages of American history will in the future of our country be adorned with Mr. Bryan's name as one among the greatest of our statemen; and whatever else may happen, he is secure in the confidence and affection of the honest yeomanry of America, his detractors, the Roosevelts, Wattersons, Hearsts and others of that stripe to the contrary notwithstanding. A. D. KELLY.

Remington, Va., Dec. 18.

Wait for Her, Boys!

The girl who is unkind to her mother isn't worth a tinker's dog gone. This isn't written in any part of the Bible, but its written in the history of thousands and thousands of misfit homes. If one of you boys ever run across a girl with her face full of roses; with eyes that would dim the lustre of a Colorado sky and with a voice that would make the song of an angel seem discordant, and she says, as she comes to the door:

"I can't go for a few minutes, I've got to help mother with the dishes," don't give her up. Stick to her like a burr to a mule's tail. Just sit down on the door step and wait. If she joins you in two or three minutes, so much the better; but if you have to stay there on the doorstep for a half hour, or an hour, you just wait for her. If you don't somebody else will and in time you'll be sorry. For you'll realize what you have lost.

Wait for her, boy. She's worth it.

In the General Fund there is shown a balance in the Saving's Bank of $4,051.57 and in the Millington Bank of $719, 45, making a total balance of $4,771 02.

The Board found it necessary to borrow $6,000.00 (which sum is not yet paid) in order to pay the Teachers Salaries, so that instead of an actual balance of $4,771.02, the Board has a deficit of $6,000.00 less $4,771.02 or $1,229.98.

We hereby certify that we have examined the foregoing report of Jefferson L. Smyth, Treasurer of The Kent County School Board, and the books and vouchers upon which it is based and find it correct.

The above report includes discounts of	$28,695 00
Interest paid by County Commissioners	216 50
Interest paid by School Board	90 00
Total	$29,001 50
This deducted from total receipts and total expenditures would make net receipts and net disbursements for year	$92,883 12
Less discount and interest	29,001 50
Net Receipts	$63,882 62
