600 from 6 States Attend Adventist Youth Meeting

Youths Urged to Prepare for Post-War by Speakers in Three-Day Session

Approximately 600 delegates and visitors from Delaware, Ohio, Virginia, New Jersey, Maryland and D.C., attended the three-day Columbia Union Adventist Youth Conference at Berea Temple Seventh Day Adventist Church, Friday through Sunday.

Louis H. Bland, Jr., presided over the morning sessions, which were conducted entirely by youths, and Jonathan E. Roache was chairman during the afternoon meetings.

D.C., Girls' Choruses Sing

Speakers counselled the youths to engage in more activities and to prepare themselves for the post-war period when skilled persons will be needed.

Music was furnished by a chorus from Washington, conducted by Miss Monelda Johnson of Chicago, and two female choruses from Baltimore.

Among those attending the conference were:

Elder George E. Peters, national secretary of the Colored Department of North America; Elder J. H Wagner, secretary of the Columbia Union; Elder John Haynes, white, of the War Service Division of Columbia Union;

Howard E. Metcalfe, white, secretary of youth activities of the Chesapeake conference; William H. Robinson, Danville, Va.; Allen Anderson, Washington, D.C.; Miss Ethel Smith, Cleveland, Ohio; T. Allen, Washington; Miss Mildred Evelyn, Delaware; and Miss Monelda Johnson, Chicago.

Elder L. H. Bland is pastor of the church.

BHA Looks to F. D. for Funds

The Baltimore Housing Authority is awaiting President Roosevelt's signature on the bill which will provide funds for construction of a 650-unit permanent housing project at Cherry Hill.

While civic organizations continue to protest against this project as a permanent development, Yewell W. Dillehunt, white, director of The BHA, said that the area is still under survey and that architectural designs for the homes are being drawn.

The money for this project which comes under a different category from the wartime temporary projects, has been delayed because the President was out of the country. The bill is expected to be signed within the next few days, Mr. Dillehunt said.

To Complete 3 in 6 Months

The three temporary projects, including 200 units at Turners Station, 400 at Holabird, and 400 at Sparrows Point are scheduled to be completed within the next six months, he said. Construction will begin early in the New Year.

Construction bids for the Turners Station project were opened Tuesday, although the contract has not yet been awarded. Bids for the Holabird project will be opened on Thursday.

Proof That It Can Be Done

Tydings Calls Rebel Flag Bill Morale Measure

Maryland Senator Justifies Introduction of Measure Honoring Dixie Standards

WASHINGTON

Explaining his bill authorizing U.S. Army units to carry Confederate Civil War battle streamers, Senator Millard A. Tydings (D. Md.) this week declared that it would "bolster the morale of many young men whose forefathers took part in battles famous in American history."

Senator Tydings declared that military regulations permit the carrying of Civil War battle streamers by units which fought in the Union Army, but that this privilege is denied those units which fought on the other side.

"In many States," he said, "there are national guard and militia outfits which have glorious battle heritages dating back to every war in the nation's history."

Sons of Rebels in Army

"In times of war these units are absorbed virtually intact into the Army of the United States. In Maryland, it is the Fifth Regiment. How many others there are I do not know.

"In many instances, the young men who make up these outfits are the direct descendants of the men who fought with these units in the battles of the Revolution, in the War of 1812, and in every other war in our history."

Senator Tydings argued that the Civil War was long since over, that the hatchet had been buried, that continued denial of the right to carry Civil War streamers by former Confederate units does not serve but as a continual reminder of the schism created by that war.

War Department officials, questioned on the matter, stated that regulations now in the books under the Civil War permitted the carrying of Union Army streamers, but that in no case are these colors carried outside the United States.

Issue of Colored Jurors Raised by White Prisoner

Colored Men "Excluded Deliberately," Says Louis Berman in Plea Filed in U.S. Court

The contention that he was indicted and convicted by juries from which colored citizens were excluded deliberately was raised this week in Federal Court by Louis Berman, white, serving a sentence of life imprisonment for murder in a attempt to obtain his release through a writ of habeas corpus.

Berman, who was convicted in a Baltimore criminal court in 1928, contended that the grand jury which indicted him contained no colored citizens and that they were also excluded from the list of prospective jurors from which his trial jury was selected.

His petition was denied by Judge William C. Coleman, who ruled that it did not disclose any grounds that merited the granting of a writ.

Court Mufs Third Chance

This is the second time in four teen months that the Federal Court has had to rule on a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in which it was charged that colored citizens had been discriminated against in the selection of a murder trial jury.

A similar contention was raised in the case of three East Baltimore men — Freeman Holton, Frank Williams and Wilbur Jackson — who were hanged last June for the murder of a theatre owner.

The petition was dismissed by Judge W. Calvin Chesnut who, in a 21-page decision, ruled that counsel for the trio failed to show the existence of racial discrimination in the selection of their trial jury. This decision was upheld by U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals and U.S. Supreme Court.
