Constitutional Amendments.

On page 7 of this issue of the TRANSCRIPT, are published in full the four proposed amendments to the State Constitution, to be submitted to the people for approval or rejection at the November election.

These amendments, if approved, provide home rule for Baltimore and the several counties in a large measure, a referendum, classification of property taxation for purposes and indeterminate sentences for prisoners.

Of the several amendments that enlarging home rule for Baltimore is the most important to that city. It also transfers the enactment of local bodies.

The referendum amendment, if approved, will enable voters to pass upon any measure enacted by the legislature. This amendment also provides that no local legislation shall become effective until June 1 after the adjournment of the legislature which enacted it; and further provides that within two months after the close of the legislature the people of Baltimore city or the county affected may ask for and obtain a referendum upon the measure. In the event that the home-rule amendment should pass at the polls, the referendum amendment, if adopted, would give a negative form of home rule upon local legislation to the city and the counties.

Another amendment would change the Bill of Rights so that property could be classified for taxation in accordance with the benefit which it derives from the State. In other words, instead of all property being equally subject to a given tax rate, the proposed amendment would permit the division of it for taxation purposes according to some theory of benefit received.

The fourth proposed amendment would permit the courts to give indeterminate sentences to those convicted of crine, so that the Board of Pardons and Parole could consider their cases from time to time and release the convicts when, in their judgment, the best interests of society and the convicts would be subserved thereby.

Resolutions of Respect.

In the death of Mrs. Hannah Gooding, Betterton M. E. Church, the Ladies' Aid Society, and a large circle of friends have lost a most faithful member and a valued friend. As a member of the church and the Aid Society she was always closely identified with every plan for their progress and welfare, being actively engaged so long as physical health permitted. With flowers, words and kind thoughts she showed the sweetness of her christian spirit and the thoughtfulness of her mind and heart for everyone, and especially those in trouble and sorrow. Therefore, be it

Resolved, That we will cherish with loving remembrance her noble christian life among us. That we extend our sympathy and love to her bereaved children in their great sorrow, and commend them to the Blessed Saviour, who alone can comfort in our times of greatest loss. Be it also

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved family, a copy spread on the minutes of the Ladies' Aid Society of the Betterton M. E. Church, and a copy sent to the county papers for publication.
