The balance on hand of $6.21 has been turned over to the Sunday School.

FLAGMAN SLIPS ON FROSTY CAR, CRUSHED BY TRAIN

Falls From Freight Car Which Passes Over His Body

Slipping from the top of a freight car at the Centreville Depot of the Pennsylvania Railroad, last Wednesday morning about 7.45 o'clock, J. G. Queck, flagman, was killed instantly when the car loaded with coal from which he had fallen passed over his body. He was badly mangled and was dead when assistance reached him.

The man was riding the cars of the freight train, while it was in the act of switching, and just prior to the time that the early morning freight leaves the local station when the accident occurred. He is believed to have lost his footing due to the slippery condition of the car from frost. F. W. Smith, conductor and C. B. Pritchett brakeman on the freight, who saw the man fall, stated that he fell backward from the car.

C. S. Thomas, Station Agent, summoned Coroner J. W. Thompson and Dr. H. F. McPherson. Mr. Thompson, after viewing the body, stated an inquest was not necessary.

Mr. Queck was born in Chesapeake City, Md., and was about 48 years old. He had been a resident of Wilmington since he was nineteen years old, where he lived at 312 W. 36th street. He had been an employee of the Pennsylvania Railroad for twenty-six years, and had been coming to Centreville at different periods for a great many years, where he had become quite well known and made a host of friends.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Mina Hirzil Queck, of Wilmington, and also leaves an aunt, Miss Mary Queck, of Chesapeake City.

Barton Brothers, Undertakers, took charge of the body, which was sent to his home in Wilmington early Wednesday afternoon, where funeral services were held.

In 1833 the cost of matches to the consumer was 37 cents per box of 100 matches. They were ignited by pulling them rapidly between two sheets of sandpaper.

HUNTERS, ATTENTION!

The Red Cross aimed a volley of advice today at the American hunter, who last year sent many a shot into his fellow nimrods.

"Hunting accidents," said Vice-Chairman James L. Fieser, who has suggested a 10-point program to prevent them, "caused 2,000 deaths in 1936."

Here are his recommendations:

1. Don't pull a gun carelessly from an automobile, help it out as if it were your lady love.

* * *

2. Remove shells before crawling through a fence, they can cause more pain than a rip in the pants.

* * *

3. Don't use a gun to club game from brush, bringing it out with bare hands is less dangerous.

* * *

4. Don't carry you gun cocked. It's always closer to you than any game.

* * *

5. Never point a weapon at anyone in fun. There is too little difference between comedy and tragedy.

* * *

6. Don't deploy ahead of inexperienced hunters. Be polite and let them go first.

* * *

7. Don't leave a gun where children can reach it. All weapons are popguns to them.

* * *

8. Don't leave a loaded gun in the house. Bears are not coming through the living room this year.

* * *

9. Don't allow the gun muzzle to clog with mud or snow. Clean it as you would your teeth; the bite is 1,000 times worse.

* * *

10. Deer hunters should wear red coats or hats because—deers don't.

Lottery Victims Object To P. O. Department's Ban

With the thriving increase of gambling devices, Barnum's cryptic remark, "A sucker is born every minute," may today be amended to read, "A sucker is born every second."

From the amount of mail the Post Office Department has received criticizing it for the fraud order issued some weeks ago barring the use of the mails to the National Baseball Statistical Bureau of Birmingham, Ala., and Atlanta, Ga., the Department officials are doubtless convinced that suckers will be suckers.

The Bureau, which was charged by the Department with operating an "endless chain" lottery, is one of some fifty schemes of the same general character that have come to light during the past few months, all of which are similar to the ten-cent chain letter craze of a few years ago.

William C. O'Brien, attorney in charge of the fraud section of the Post Office Department, estimated the gross receipts of the National Baseball Statistical Bureau had reached a total of about $2,000 per week, and netted the promoters between $700 and $800 per week.

The inference is that the letters received by the Post Office Department criticizing it for issuing the fraud order were from participants in the schemes, or rather the victims, who were being deprived of their so-called "rights" to chance a little to win a lot.

An expert mathematician who testified at the hearing in the Post Office Solicitor's office showed up the fallacy of the scheme so conclusively that, it was said, only a hopeless sucker would participate as a player and only a greedy person of corrupt, unsocial tendencies would operate.
