George T. Howard, Complaintant,
vs:
Blizabeth G. Howard, Defendant

In The Circuit Court for Cecil County, Equity No. 5339

The object of this Bill is to secure a decree divorcing the Complainant a vinculo matrimonii from the said Defendant.

The Bill states that the Complainant was married to the Defendant on the 26th day of March, 1907, with whom he lived in the City of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, until the ninth day of May, 1930; that the Complainant and Defendant have voluntarily lived separate and apart, without any cohabitation for more than five consecutive years, prior to the filing of his Bill of Complaint and said separation is beyond any reasonable expectation of reconciliation. That four children were born to this marriage. That the Complainant has resided in Cecil County, for more than two years before the filing of this Bill. The Bill then asks for a decree divorcing the Complainant from the Defendant a vinculo matrimonii and for such other and further relief as her case may require.

It is thereupon, this 15th day of December, 1938, by the Circuit Court for Cecil County, in equity, ordered that the Complainant cause a copy of this order with the object and sustance of the Bill to be inserted in some newspaper published in Cecil County once a week for four successive weeks, before the 16th day of January, 1939, giving notice to the Defendant, who is a non-resident of the State of Maryland, to appear in this Court either in person or by solicitor on or before the 6th day of February, 1939, to answer the premises and to abide by and perform such decree as may be passed herein.

The Indian War Bonnet

The head-dress or war bonnet originated among the plains Indians and later spread in all directions. The names by which it was known varied with each tribe. A more common headgear was a narrow band of skin or leather which was made to hold one or more feathers. The following are names used by the tribes indicated for headgear in use by them and their immediate neighbors: Ostoa, Onondaga; Gestowa, Seneca; Ucnura, Tuscarora.

BUILDING BREVITIES

Mineral wool is the mostly widely used form of modern fill insulation in the world.

The first asphalt strip shingle — the most widely used roof shingle— was suggested by the notched cardboard strip used in egg boxes. It was first made about 1909.

More than 90 percent of all the mineral wool used in this country is made in 27 plants in 12 states.

Asphalt shingles are surfaced with crushed mineral granules colored with baked-on pigaments. These give the asphalt shingle its color and add to its fire-resistance.

Besides insulating 90,000 homes a year against both heat and cold, mineral wool is also used to protect bakery ovens, high pressure boilers, airliners, underground steam mains and automobiles.

OR ON THEIR STOMACHS

Though Americans prefer to roof their homes with asphalt shingles, the natives of Burma live in houses without any roofs, because of the superstition that roofs are offensive to their gods. When it rains, they sleep under trees.

ROUGH ON RATS

A veterinary college in Ithaca, N. Y., has found that rats die after eating mineral wool insulation. The use of mineral wool in side walls and second floor ceiling of the house frequently rids it of mice and other rodents

ATTIC VENTILATION

"Ventilation louvres should be provided for all enclosed areas under roofs, such as in attics and over porches," the Pracitcal Builder reports in a recent issue. "Circulation of air in these spaces will make the house more comfortable and avoid possible rotting of the roof timbers and decking."

WOOL FROM MINERAL

Ten minerals, including crushed limestone, slag and silica, are used in the manufacture of mineral wool home insulation. The minerals are first melted, then poured through a jet of steam which converts the molten mass into fluffy, fireproof fibers.

THAT'S PRETTY HOT

Mineral wool insulation is the only home insulation ever to receive a fire endurance rating from the National Bureau of Standards. To obtain such a rating, the material when installed in a wood stud and plaster partition had to withstand a temperature of 1700 degrees for over one hour.

HINTS ON STEPPING OUT

If you are old enough to go to a dance, you are old enough to dress appropriately—is the advice of Henrietta Ripperger, staff-writer for Pictorial Review. In the November issue of the magazine, Miss Ripperger goes on to explain "that a dress should enhance a girl's looks by sheen and color. Black won't do a thing for you, and you're apt to appear scrawny in a dress there isn't enough of. Soft colors and fullness are what you need."

"Before buying a dress for a dance we think every girl and her mother ought to sit on the sidelines and look over the dresses on a dance floor. What do they do for the wearer?" Miss Ripperger writes. "Dark colors, however smart, tend to make a girl look old—especially the navies and wine reds. White is often characterless, no matter how pretty the gown may be; but a colored detail might heighten its effectiveness."

People Are Paying Treasury To Borrow Money From Them

Washington, Jan. 10—Everybody knows it's a topsy-turvey world financially, but here is striking new proof. People are paying the Treasury of the United States to borrow their money from them. The Treasury doesn't have to pay interest. It gets paid.

For the third successive week, this situation has prevailed with an issue of short-term Treasury bils, but it has never occured before in the history of Government finance, Treasury officials say.

On an issue of $101,341,000 in Treasury bille to be dated tomorrow, the Government is getting a net profit of $276 and does not have to pay a cent of interest.

The explanation is that around the end of the year taxes of numerous sorts fall due in various parts of the country. Some states and localities tax intangible assets on hand on a given date. Others have a tax on cash deposits in banks. Government securities are exempt from state and local taxes. Hence it is worth while for some individuals and institutions to pay a little money to acquire such securities, thus avoiding local taxes.

EASTWARD IN EDEN

THE dining room of the Plaza Hotel buzzed with astonishment as a young man whipped a sword out of its scabbard and handed it to his companion at the luncheon table.

It was David Garth showing Artist E. M. Jackson the 300-year-old silver-filigreed Damascus sword which suggested the plot of his exciting new serial, "Eastward in Eden."

Garth adventures in the far corners of the earth like one of his own heroes. He has gone through tropic storms and Latin revolutions. He has dodged bullets and hostile officials. He had to smuggle the sword through turbulent Palestine, where arms are forbidden and in this rip-roaring serial of intrigue and mystery on three continents, he brings Cosmopolitan readers even more thrills than he did in "Four Men and a Prayer."

The Man In The Glass

When you get what you want in your struggle for self
And the world makes you king for a day,
Just go to a mirror and look at yourself,
Just see what THAT has to say.

For it isn't your father or mother or wife
Who judgement upon you must pass;
The fellow whose verdict counts most in your life
Is the one staring back from the glass.

You may be like Jack Horner and chisel a plum
And think you're a wonderful guy,
But the man in the glass says you're only a bum
If you can't look him straight in the eyes.

He's the fellow to please, never mind all the rest,
For he's with you clear up to the end,
And you've passed your most dangerous, difficult test
If the man in the glass is your friend.

You may fool the whole world down the pathway of years
And get pats on the back as you pass.
But your final reward will be heartaches and tears
If you've cheated the man in the glass.

Bronchial Coughs Need Creomulsion

Just a common cough, a chest cold, or a bronchial irritation of today may lead to serious trouble tomorrow. They may be relieved now with Creomulsion, an emulsified Creosote that is pleasant to take. Creomulsion is a medicinal combination designed to aid nature in soothing and healing infected mucous membranes by allaying irritation and inflammation and by aiding in loosening and expelling germ-laden phlegm.

The Medical Profession has for generations recognized the beneficial effect of Beechwood Creosote in the treatment of coughs, chest colds, and bronchial irritations. A special process was worked out by a chemist, for blending Creosote with other ingredients so that now in Creomulsion you get a good dose of genuine Beechwood Creosote which is palatable and may be taken frequently by both adults and children.

Creomulsion is one preparation that goes to the very seat of the trouble to help loosen and expel germ-laden phlegm. When coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles—due to common colds—hang on, get a bottle of Creomulsion from your druggist, use it as directed and if you are not satisfied with the relief obtained, the druggist is authorized to refund your money. Creomulsion is one word, ask for it plainly, see that the name on the bottle is Creomulsion, and you'll get the genuine product and the relief you want. (Adv.)

Stop and Go Signals

The Keystone Automobile Club interested as always, in the safety of the automobilists, in answering the question—What to do when you come to a signal light that is out and shows neither green or red?

The ruling is simple—logical and safe—

"IF IT'S OUT—IT'S RED

Such a condition should cause a motorist to approach carefully under full control and prepared for any eventuality.

The club calls attention to the fact that winter is here and any day now we may expect it to follow its natural course, so all motorists should be prepared, brakes in condition, battery up, light connections looked over and steering wheel, tires and chains all in condition.
