EYE OPENERS---by Bob Crosby

Scientists attacking the problem of water temperature effect on the settling of sediment in the Colorado river, use a modern gas refrigerator, selected because it has no moving parts that might cause vibration and alter test results. Large test tubes containing samples of river water are placed in the refrigerator and checked at varied degrees of temperature.

Approximately 182 million cubic yards of sediment is deposited annually by the Colorado River below Yuma, Arizona—equal to the total soil excavated in constructing the Panama Canal.

A Grade "A" Answer

On a written quiz in a high school a science instructor asked the class to define a bolt and a nut, and explain the difference betwen thm.

On her paper a young lady wrote: "A bolt is a thing like a stick of hard metal such as iron with a square bunch at one end and a lot of scratching around the other end. A nut is similar to the bolt only just the opposite, being a hole in a little chunk of iron sawed off short with wrinkles around the inside of the hole.

The instructor marked her paper with a big bold "A."

Corduroy is truly royal fabric. It was first used to make hunting garments for French kings. They named it "corde-du-roi," which means "cord of the king."

American Oats Output Exceeds Other Nations

The United States' oats crop, like our corn crop, far outranks that of any other nation in the world. According to reports of the United States department of agriculture the American oats crop for 1937 totaled 1,146,258,000 bushels. This was 38.56 per cent of the world total of 4,429,000,000 bushels.

In the drouth year of 1936 the United States produced 785,506,000 bushels, or 19.4 per cent of the world crop of 4,043,000,000 bushels. In the preceding year domestic production reached 1,194,902,000 bushels, or 39.4 per cent of the world crop of 4,715,000,000 bushels.

Other leading oats producing countries in 1937 were Germany, with 404,304,000 bushels; France, 313,987,000 bushels; Canada, 291,622,000; Poland, 166,034,000; United Kingdom, 165,000,000; Czechoslovakia, 94,545,000; Sweden, 86,475,000; Argentina, 48,915,000; and Finland, 46,159,000. Accurate figures on the Russian oats crop are not available but it is generally considered to be among the largest.

In bushels produced the oats crop ranked second to corn, which totaled 5,050,000,000 bushels. The other principal crops were wheat, barley, and rye in that order.

Grain Feed For Chicks

Chicks shoud be given grain feed after the first seven to ten days. This should be fed two or three times a day on top of the mash. It is very essential that sufficient mash hopper space be supplied so that the chicks can all eat at one time. As early hatched chicks do not have access to range and direct sunlight or green feed, their ration should be supplemented with one and one-half per cent of straight cod livr oil that contains 85 U. S. P. units of vitamin D per gram and not less than 600 U. S. P. units of vitamin per gram.

Postage stamps were not used in the United States until 1847. Prior to that time, postage on mail was paid in cash either by the sender or receiver.

All the routes traveled by George Washington in an entire life-time recntly were covered by an airplane in a single day.

Contour Farming

The new type of farming, known as contour farming, appears to be a permanent acquisition for agriculture because it definitely reduces erosion losses. It makes for a more efficient utilization of the land, says a writer in the Missouri Farmer. One objection to it by farmers is, however, the point rows this type of farming makes when row crops are grown. The point rows result because the fields are usually square and the rows no longer follow the line or cross fences but follow the contour of the slope instead.

TAXES EXCEED EARNINGS

The tax bill of American corporations over a ten-year period exceeded their net earnings by about one-third The earnings totaled $20,687,000,000 as compared with $29,735,000,000 in taxes.
