KENNDYVILLE LOSES GREAT GAME

Centreville defeated Kennedyville on Tuesday at Kennedyville in the best game of the league season before a crowd of about 500 persons in what was perhaps the greatest game of base ball in Kent county for many years. The game went ten innings and the score was 1 to 0. The contest was a pitchers' battle between the veteran Horsey, of Galena, and the youngster Gordy, last year's Washington College star twirler, who is only about 18 years old, but who is about six feet in height and promises to be large in proportion.

For nine innings Gordy pitched one of the most remarkable games of base ball that was ever twirled in Kent County and had the hard-hitting Centreville "Speed Boys" at his mercy. His twirling rivalled the pitching of Prof. Burris, Jack Townsend, Victor Hawke, Frank Jarman and Jack Enright—baseball stars who made marvelous pitching records that are still bright spots on the canvas of Kent's baseball history.

For nine innings only one Centerville man was allowed to trespass the coveted first bag. Not a sign of a hit broke the monotony of the nine innings, not a pass was given, and only one black mark found its way into the error column, and this miss play amounted to nothing.

For nine innings Gordy was putting into the game everything he had. His control was perfect, his speed good, while his curves cut across the plate like a bolt of lightning shoots across a clouded sky, and as the bewildered Centreville batters fanned wildly at the sharply breaking ball, the Centreville fans shook their heads, while the home team enthusiasts filled the air with shouts of joy and confidence. Fourteen of the vistors fell before him and went out by the strike-out road.

On the other hand, Horsey, the veteran of a thousand baseball contests, where players lost their heads and fans lost their money, was on the job for the Centreville team, of which club he has been the captain and manager all the season. This was not the first game where he had met a youth who was pitching phenomenal baseball and he knew what to do. While Gordy was throwing into the game, at all times, everything that he had, Horsey was saving himself for the crisis that he knew was bound to come, and as the innings rolled away with zeros being chalked into the columns for each team, the spectators marvelled at the endurance and steady manner in which both youngster and veteran held up under the strain.

But a break must come in all base ball games, and the history of the sport is replete with instances of how a heartbreaking contest was brought to a close by a Baker or a Mathewson. And in the tenth inning, true to tradition, the break came when Kennedyville's third baseman failed to handle cleanly a grounder and a man stood on the coveted first base, between which for nine innings had stood Gordy like an impassable barrier, throwing back an onrushing and persistent tide. The runner went to second on a wild pitch to the initial bag by Gordy. Then Gordy hit Usilton. Cook Orrell, formerly of Chestertown, came to the bat and smashed a screamer to center, and the first run and the only run of the game went onto the score card for Centreville.

Kennedyville came to the bat in the tenth inning with the determination to live up to their baseball record of the past, and to tie the score or win the game; and as an easy fly to second fell to the ground and a Kennedyville runner stood on first base, a roar of triumph from the half thousand Kennedyville enthusiasts murmured on the breeze. This bad play by his second baseman put Horsey in exactly the same predicament that Kennedyville's third baseman's error had put Gordy. Here Horsey was on his mettle and the batters that followed went down like wheat before the reaper, and the game was over.

The best single play of the game was a one-handed catch by Edward Blackway of a drive in the ninth that would probably have won the game for Centreville had it gotten past him.

The fielding of Fred Wallace, formerly of Washington College, who had thirteen chances without an error, was another decided feature of the game.

This victory gives Centreville a two-game lead over Kennedyville, but the Kent county team expects to make the "Speed Boys" hustle to win out. The season closes on September 6, with Centreville at Kennedyville.

Millington and Queenstown played on Tuesday at Queenstown with that club. At the end of the sixth inning Millington was ahead, 3 to 2, but the game was stopped in this inning, the score reverting to the fifth inning, the official score being 2 to 2. Capt. Carey Jarman and Mr. Lee Robinson played with Millington. One of the features of the game was the fact that Millington's twirler, secured from Wilmington, Delaware, had two artificial limbs. While being a great handicap to him, he nevertheless did well and would probably have won the game had it been finished.

One of the fastest players in the league is Sparks, of Millington. He can race the paths in great style and it takes a fast-fielded ball to catch him.

Cincinnati looks an easy winner in the National League, while it seems very likely that Chicago will win the race in the American League.

Today's games in the Peninsula League will be as follows, Kennedyville at Millington; Queenstown at Centreville.

Tuesday's games will be as follows in the league: Millington at Centreville; Queenstown at Kennedyville.

Saturday's scores were as follows: Kennedyville 5, Millington 2; Centreville, 5 Queenstown 1.
