—The season for shooting squirrels opened in this state yesterday. Squirrels are always plentiful in Kent Co., and are hard to kill in most cases. The law has been changed from the past two years, when squirrels were protected until the regular season began in November. However, they became such a nuisance that many complaints were received from farmers residing along woodlands to the effect that great quantities of corn were being destroyed. Then the law was changed.

BOYS' CONFERENCE MEETS

First Annual Session Was Held In Chestertown M. E. Church This Week

The first annual session of the Boys' Conference of Middletown District of the Methodist Episcopal Church was held in the Chestertown M. E. Church this week. About 125 were present from various parts of the district, consisting of ministerial delegates, lay delegates and boy delegates.

The session lasted througout Wednesday and Thursday and will be held next year in Smyrna, Del., which town secured the conference after a close fight with Middletown, Del.

The conference was opened by Rev. O. E. Jones, pastor of the M.E. Church, with a short devotional service. Rev. W. A. Wise, superintendent of the Middletown district, made an address on "Problems of the District." Dr. Wise stressed the need of the church for young men for the ministry and stated the purpose of this gathering is to create in the hearts and minds of the boys the great necessityof preparation for the ministry. Rev. Ransom P. Nichols, of Smyrna, addressed the conference on "Sunday School Work on the district," after which Dr. Perry, of the Methodist Board of Education, spoke briefly on the Centenary. At the evening service there was a half hour devotional service led by Rev. V. E. Hills, of Denton. Dr. W. A. Swartz, general secretary of the Centenary, gave an illustrated lecture on "Centenary Achievements and Needs."

Thursday was the big day of the conference, when the boy delegates, the laymen and the ministers held separate conferences.

A big banquet was held at Washington College in the afternoon and in the evening the various committees of the conference were elected, with Dr. Wise presiding. Resolutions from all three bodies of the conference were read and adopted separately and as a whole.

In the evening, notwithstanding the inclement weather, the church was packed to hear Bishop McDowell, one of the biggest men in the M. E. Church. delivered a lecture short speech to the boys on "Tomorrow, Where and What." Bishop McDowell made no attempt at either oratory or entertainment, but devoted his time chiefly to advise to Boys' Conference.

GOLDSBOROUGH SPEAKS

Congressman of District Makes Address Before Men's Community Club Of Easton

A goodly representation greeted Congressman T. Alan Goldsborough on Monday night in response to announcement that he would be the speaker of the evening. After a short routine of the general business, the speaker was introduced. Mr. Goldsborough held his audience for an hour, in which he discoursed upon the general unrest of the times, business depression, uncertainty and kindred attendants following unstable conditions. His note was for stabilization. He did not profess to know, but gave his audience the benefit of his deep study upon economics, the monetary upheavals, and the explosions between corporations and labor. Mr. Goldsborough is not afraid to tackle the questions which are most vital the welfare of America, and he deals with them form his angle fairly and conscientiously. He has made some telling speeches upon the floor of the House in spirited debates, and edified the club with casual reviews of proplems that Congress had to meet. The lecture did not savor of politics, nor was it staged to strengthen his chances for renomination. He poses more as a student who, being in position to help his constituency, desires to give them the best as he understands it. His speech was well received, applauded and a rising vote of thanks tendered.

"Johnnie, Get Your Gun"

"Johnnie, get your gun"—no, we don't mean gun at all. Johnnie, get your flags and drums, and your decorated bicycels, and your pet ponies, and your wagons, and your floats, and your Hallowe'en suits, and your horns and your whistles and any thing else to make up a costume, or add to a parade for this year's "Jolly Junior" Chautauqua parade is cut out on a large pattern.

Besides what you Juniors bring the advance representative, who will help you arrange the parade will have some flags, clown suits, etc.

No free tickets this year. We have come to the conclusion that every Junior is man enough to earn his own ticket, so we don't give them away. But for each boy that takes part in the parade, and each girl, too, we have planned a souvenir that will have fun written all over it. The boys' souvenir will be different from the girls' and each will be well worth getting.

So begin to use your heads now and plan your costume or float; then on Monday morning, at 9 o'colck, the parade will form at the school building.

Don't forget the time and place, and tell all the other Juniors of Chestertown to come, too.—Adv.

—The Baltimore and Eastern Shore Ferry Line, Inc., will have a notice of change of schedule next week. This new schedule willbe effective beginning Sept. 13, and will be as follows: Leave Rock Hall 7.30 a. m. and 3 p. m.; leave Bay Shore 9.30 a. m. and 5.00 p. m.
