A Progressive Local Business Man

One of our most progressive business men is Mr. John H. Clendaniel, Jr., whose automobile garage and business is located near the depot. Mr. Clendaniel's April business in repair work and the storage battery business tripled in April to that done in March. He states that it is impossible to get autos fast enough for the sale of them. He received a Jewett auto on Thursday last and sold it on Friday, which demonstrates how fast they are moving. He sold $15,000 worth of autos in the month of April. Mr. Clendaniel's repair work is not confined to the cars that he handles, but he is prepared to handle all kinds of auto repair work and guarantees satisfaction. His reboring work is giving satisfaction also. Mr. Clendaniel handles the Overland, Willis-Knight and Paige-Jewett automobiles.

Mr. Clendaniel identifies himself with every progressive movement that looks to the progressive and uplift of Chestertown and Kent county and can always be counted on to aid in whatever project that will further the interests of this community.

WEDDINGS

Miss Sarah Hadaway and Jacob F. Crowding, Jr., were married in Elkton Thursday of last week. After a short honeymoon, they have returned to Chestertown to reside. Both are well and favorably known among a wide circle of friends here.

The marriage of Miss Julia Claypoole Brown, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Comegys Brown and E. Everett Lowe, son of Mrs. Helen Marr Lowe, of Reisterstown, took place Wednesday of last week.

NEW PLANT A MARVEL

Gill Brothers, Progressive Young Firm Of Chestertown, Making Rapid Progress—New Plant A Marvel Of Neatness And Efficiency—A Big Capacity

The Gill Brothers, who succeded Mr. A. C. Loud in the ice cream business in Chestertown a little over a year ago, have come forward during the past 18 months with giant strides and are preparing to manufacture ice cream in what is perhaps the best equipped and the most efficient plant on the Eastern Shore.

This firm increased the business to such an extent in a few months after its purchase that they found they would not be able to supply the increasing demand for their products. Consequently, they set about to make arrangements to meet the demand. The first thing they did was to purchase the old houses on Cross street, next to Fireman's Hall, tear them down and erect thereon an attractive and a substantial brick structure, easily one of the best buildings in Chestertown. No pains or expense was saved in making this building substantial and attractive and it is a monument to their energy and their foresight and progressiveness.

As the building neared completion, they immediately began to install and equip the same with the most up-to-date apparatus known to the ice cream manufacturers of the country. A visit to the plant will surprise if not amaze the average reader of this paper with the wonder machinery that is used in the modern manufacture of ice cream. As no efforts were spared in the construction of the building, no efforts or expense have been spared in the equipping of the plant for the manufacture of a first-class line of frozen products. The plant will be sanitary to the very highest degree, the cans and containers receiving the same treatment as they are accorded in the biggest plants of the country. Their capacity will be 300 gallons a day, with the equipment at hand to double the same if found necessary.

The Gill Brothers Ice Cream Plant is equipped with electrically driven machines, five motors being necessary to operate the various devices. The cooling room, where ice cream is kept, is said to be capable of being driven to a point far below zero by the means of numerous tubes, through which chemicals are run. The lower floor is entirely of cement, with all the water connections from the various machines running to the sewer.

This plant, thoroughly equipped as it is with modern machinery, and owned and managed by young men with the energy and the enthusiasm of the Gill Brothers, should be a big success, and will, doubtless, manufacture frozen products as good as can be purchased anywhere.

CONVENTION OF THE DIOCESE OF EASTON

HELD IN EMMANUEL CHURCH, CHESTERTOWN, MAY 1, 2 & 3

A LARGE ATTENDANCE MARKED EACH DAY'S SESSIONS

MANY INTERESTING ADDRESSES AND MUCH PROGRESSIVE BUSINESS ACCOMPLISHED

The fifty-fourth annual convention of the Diocese of Easton, which embraces the nine counties of the Eastern Shore, began in Emmanuel Church with sessions Monday evening at 7.45.

TUESDAY

Bishop George William Davenport, in his address Tuesday morning to the fifty-fourth annual convention of the Diocese of Easton of the Protestant Episcopal Church, in session at Emmanuel Church, Chestertown, told his listeners of the danger of not satisfying the unrest now sweeping the world.

"In this unrest there is something encouraging because there is so much that is human," he asserted. "There is a longing for some larger revelation of God in the human life than is at present manifest. If the longings are not satisfied a reaction may set in. Should the reaction come it will no doubt mean rebellion against existing order."

He said much of the lawlessness is attributed to prohibition. It is always easy to find an external cause for internal conditions.

"It is entirely possible that the Volstead act may have temporarily aggravated a condition, but this lawlessness was here long before the adoption of the Eighteenth Amendment," he said.

In urging the parishes to keep up with the times he said publicity of the right sort is most important.

"The present-day use of advertising uncovers the psychological effect of publicity," he said. "By all means advertise, not yourself but your service. Let the people know that every Sunday the church is open for the worship of God and that "they are invited."

He directed attention to the large number of automobiles that pass each Sunday and suggested the erection of boards directing the traveler to the church, mentioning the historical interest, for, he said, "the day of isolation is past. Let us not hesitate to keep the church before the public."

He strongly urged the establishment of a county diocesan paper. It is freely said in the convention that such a paper of 24 pages, one-half reading matter, the balance in advertising, can be successfully carried on and show a real profit to the church.

He called attention to the death of two ministers during the year, the Rev. Alexander W. Seabrase, of St. James' Church, Port Deposit, and the Rev. Conrad R. Birnbach, North Kent parish.

At the evening session it was decided that under the direction of the Rev. F. Virgin, of Crisfield, the first camp for boys of the age from 10 to 15 will start June 14, upon the estate of J. R. Speer, at the mouth of the Choptank river, three miles below Trappe. This will be followed two weeks later by the Boy Scouts, and at the expiration of another fortnight the camp will be taken over by girls from 10 to 16. The ground is loaned to the same service of the diocese by Mrs. Speer. The collection of expense money is well under way. Mr. Virgin has handled 16 camps and is very enthusiastic over the prospects. The camp will take care of 60 children at each period.

A bit of spice was injected into the day's proceedings by the offerings of a petition from Denton and Sudlersville churches asking equal representation in the convention to women. The president read an opinion by the chancellor of the convention to the effect that the vestry law amendment passed this winter by the Maryland Legislature would not become effective until June 1 and the convention could not grant the privilege until after that date. The petition was denied.

To defray the partial expenses of Bishop Davenport and four ministerial delegates to the triennial general convention at Portland, Ore., next September, $1250 was appropriated. The lay delegates will pay their own expenses. The invitation of the Easton Cathedral congregation to hold the next session of the convention there was accepted.

This afternoon a large assembly of women were in conference, under the leadership of Mrs. John Keas, of Berlin, Md. At the evening session rural work was the subject, and addresses were made by the Rev. George B. Gilbert, professor of rural work at Berkeley Divinity School, and the Rev. Jas. L. Ware, field secretary of religious education for the province of Washington.

WEDNESDAY

The convention today defeated a resolution adjourning the convention to meet at Ocean City on June 26 to confirm the necessary vestry law, made an act of the Maryland General Assembly last winter, giving to women all the rights of men in the Diocese of Easton. The resolution was discussed for an hour and then was voted unfavorably. The convention adjourned without setting a date for the next assembly.

It is a rumor, however, that a special meeting of the convention will be called to meet at that date at Ocean City.

J. Warfield Hobbs, editor of "The Sunday Sun," this afternoon held a conference with the men, while the women of the diocese were entertained by Mrs. Julius Freeman, persident of the Church Service League of the Diocese of Maryland.

Mr. Hobbs' theme was, "Chins Up." He boasted that he could boast of his church. He explained that business associates would talk of everything under the sun except their church.

Mr. Hobbs expressed the thought that the pessimist was having "a lovely field day just now," but it would be displaced by optimism later. He asserted that it was an indictment against men that the boys are taught by young women.

"It is hard," he said, "for me to come here and boast that not a boy in my Sunday School is being taught by anything but a man he looks up to and respects. The church is like the bank on the corner. Before you can take anything out you must put in something.

Later in the summer, somewhere in Talbot county, the conference with Mr. Hobbs will be resumed under the shade of trees and the whole diocese will be invited to join, according to action taken at the close of the meeting.

This morning delegates to the triennial general convention, which will convene at Portland, Oregon, in September, were selected. Those selected to accompany Bishop Davenport are the Rev. Franklin J. Bohanan, the Rev. William D. Gould, the Rev. S. S. Hepburn, the Rev. William C. Marshall, together with the four laymen, W. Dudley Roe, Thomas W. Perkins, Thomas Massey and Travers Ruark.

The newly selected executive council will be composed of the Rev. W. C. Marshall, the Rev. Charles L. Atwater, the Rev. Franklin J. Bohanan, the Rev. William D. Gould and John L. McDaniel, Dudley G. Roe, E. Thomas Massey and Sidney Webb. E. S. Shannanan will be the secretary during the coming year, closing out a round of a decade in this service. Judge William H. Adkins again will be treasurer and these will constitute the standing committee: the Revs. George C. Sutton, S. S. Hepburn, Sidney Potter, Mr. Adkins and W. Dashiel.

The sentiment of the convention was informally expressed this morning, in the absence of Bishop Davenport, that the Protestant Episcopal Church, through the Diocese of Easton, under the leadership of Bishop Davenport, has become a vital force in the civic life and a real influence for betterment of life. It was pointed out that during the past year the Bishop had confirmed 287 persons, and that the church had emerged from its apparent decadent state. Before adjourning the local parish, its women and all who had extended their hospitality were thanked, and the secretary ordered to write to the "Baltimore Sun" thanking it for the full and accurate accounts given of the convention. The convention having accepted the invitation to meet at Easton next year adjourned at one o'clock without date. The young people's conference this eevning was addressed by the Rev. Dr. William Page Dame, Memorial Church, Baltimore, and the Rev. Fred W. Clayton, Princess Anne Church.

In Memoriam

The following resolution and preamble was presented by Dr. S. S. Hepbron and adopted by the Kent County Pomona Grange, in meeting assembled at Worton, April 29, 1922:

At the ripe age of seventy-three years, our brother patron, James T. Anthony, has been called upon to render an account of his stewardship. His passing away has made a tremendous gap in our ranks. For forty years he was an enthusiastic member of the grange. No member in the state was more widely known or more highly appreciated. For many years he was State Organizer and did wonders toward building up the order in the state. He was also an honored member of the Executive Committee of the state. To him, perhaps, more than to any other member of the order we are mostly indebted for a revival of interest in grange work. His last office was that of State Chaplain. His earnest piety and reverent manner highly fitted him for this position which he filled with great credit to himself.

Kent County was proud of her citizen. Our Pomona Grange will sadly miss him in its quarterly meetings. His thorough acquaintance with grange work made him an authority among us. His sound and ripe judgment enabled him to give the best counsel in the matters which came before us. The advice of Bro. Anthony could always be safely followed. In all the duties in life, as a citizen, as a patron, a Christian, he set a most wholesome example.

I move you, Worthy Master, that this Pomona Grange suspend its business for five minutes and that expression be given by a standing vote, of the deep sorrow which we feel for ourselves and his bereaved family over the loss which they and we have met.

That a copy of this resolution and preamble be sent to his family.
