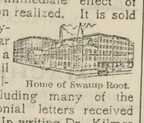
Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Kidney trouble has become so prevalent that it is not uncommon for a child to be born afflicted with weak kidneys. If the child urinates too often, if the urine scalds the flesh or if, when the child reaches an age when it should be able to control the passage, it is yet afflicted with bed-wetting, depend upon it, the cause of the difficulty is kidney trouble, and the first step should be towards the treatment of these important organs. This unpleasant trouble is due to a diseased condition of the kidneys and bladder and not to a habit as most people suppose.

Women as well as men are made miserable with kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one dollar sizes. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also pamphlet telling all about it, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper.



Home of Swamp-Root.

Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp Root, and the address, Binghampton, N. Y., on every bottle.

CHESTERTOWN, ONE OF THE MOST BEAUTIFUL COUNTY TOWNS OF THE EASTERN SHORE OF MARYLAND

Then the citizens of Chestertown, marching down by the Custom House in which the tax collectors perhaps were figuring how much money would be realized through the duty on the Geddes cargo, went out to the ship and upset her precious freight into the beautiful Chester river.

Chestertown was always patriotic. In 1775, when the French were making trouble for England's Colonies, the British generals in America undertook to recruit armies for the campaign in America, and it was announced that a recruiting officer would visit Chestertown for the purpose of enlisting a specific number of troopers. But upon the officer's arrival, even before his drummer had been able to beat the signal for attention, he was confronted with more than the requisite number of volunteers. A year later the citizens fitted out a ship to fight in the King's cause.

When, in 1774, the people of Chestertown decided to stand with other protestants in America against England's unjust treatment, from nowhere did there come a stronger word of encouragement to the people of Boston and other Northern towns in their stand against England than from the little city of Chestertown.

Before The Revolution.

Kent county, which originally comprised all of Maryland that lies on the Eastern Shore, has had but two county seats. The first was New Yarmouth, founded in 1680. This settlement was superseded by Chestertown as the county capital in 1707. Chestertown was at first named New Town, by which name it was distinguished during the earliest years of its existence.

During the days of the Revolution and those immediately preceding and succeeding the War for Independence, the Kent county settlement was much in prominence. Reference has already been made to the Chestertown "tea party" 1774. When the people of Maryland undertook to establish an institution for higher education this town was selected as the seat of the first college founded in the State.

Washington College was established in 1782, having been erected upon the foundation of a successful educational institution of less pretension, but whose history dated back to 1723.

Genetal Washington, in camp at Newburg in 1782, consented that the institution should bear his name, and he contributed liberally of his own means to the enterprise. The cornerstone of the college was laid in 1783 by Governor Paca, of Maryland.

Washington College Today.

In the early half of the nineteenth century the institution suffered from a season of financial depression. The buildings were burned in 1827.

The classes were for nearly 20 years conducted in inadequate quarters in Chestertown, but in 1844 the college took on new life. And since then—except during the years of the Civil War—it has progressed steadily.

Although Washington College throughout the century and more that it has been established has been an important public institution in the county seat of Kent, it is by no means the whole of Chestertown. Indeed, the visitor might go into the city and out again without seeing the college or knowing that it was there. Many other things of interest to be seen in the town, and the college occupies a site well on the outskirts.

The people of Chestertown have always been progressive—in their pleasures as well as their business. One of the earliest theatrical companies to perform in Maryland—if not the first one to come to the province—gave several performances in Chestertown, and thereafter dramatic and operatic attractions were offered more or less frequently to the people of the county seat.

The People Love Horses.

Chestertown has also been an important center for racing and the breeding of racehorses. Away back in the middle of the eighteenth century the county seat had its regular races every spring and fall, and this love for fast horses is still nourished by the people, for when there no more important racing event to be enjoyed then the residents of Kent will invite their neighbors of Queen Anne's to bring their fast horses over the bridge and determine whether the people of Kent or those of Queen Anne's know better how to breed and train and drive thoroughbreds.—Baltimore Sunday Sun.

No one is immune from kidney trouble, so just remember that Foley's Kidney Remedy will stop the irregularities and cure any case of kidney or bladder trouble that is not beyond the reach of medicine. Sold by all druggists.

George A. McDaniel & Co., owners, sold the Denton ice plant to Rev. G. S. Rairigh and son. The price paid was $6,900. The new firm will take charge on Saturday.

LOWER COURT SUSTAINED.

Federal Court of Appeals Disallows Attorneys' Commissions.

Mr. Alonzo L. Miles, attorney for Mrs. Catherine F. Walker, in a suit brought against her by the Chestertown Bank of Maryland to enforce the bank's claim for an attorney's commission of 5 per cent. on a mortgage note for $28,000, received from Richmond yesterday a copy of the recent opinion of the United States Circuit Court of Appeals dismissing the appeal of the bank from the decision of Judge Morris in the case disallowing the commission. Mrs. Walker was adjudicated a bankrupt May 20, 1907, on her petition. She asked on September 7, 1907, that the bankruptcy proceeding be dismissed as she had raised a sum sufficient to pay in full the claims of her creditors, with such costs as might be allowed by the court. Among the claims filed was that of the Chestertown Bank for the mortgage note of $28,000, with $1,124 interest and 5 per cent. attorney's commission, amounting to $1,456.23. Judge Morris disallowed the claim for 5 per cent. commission, and in lieu of it allowed a counsel fee of $250.

It was provided in the note that a commission of 5 per cent. should be paid for collecting it if it was not paid when due. "It is undoubtedly true," the opinion states, "that in a number of States it is held legal for a creditor and debtor to contract that in case the debtor shall fail to pay upon maturity the creditor may recover, in addition to his debt, interest and costs, a reasonable sum for attorney's fees for collection. And this has been held to be the law in Maryland. It is also true that in other States such contracts are held void, and in no State where usury laws are in effect are they permitted to be enforced, if such charges are unreasonable or made a subterfuge for usurious exactions. Recognizing that the law in Virginia and West Virginia, two other states in this circuit, in regard to this question is squarely opposite to that in Maryland, we here distinctly disclaim and purpose to determine to question as an original proposition because we are not required to do so by the conditions of this case. In the absence of all evidence to the contrary we must conclusively assume that the court below acted rightly."

Washington College
CHESTERTOWN, MARYLAND.

127th Session Begins September 16, 1908.

The College offers four courses of study—Classical, Latin-Scientific, Scientific (each leading to the degree of Bachelor of Arts,) and Normal (leading to the Normal Diploma, which entitles the holder to teach in any county of the State without examinations.)

Sub-Freshman and Sub-Normal Classes are maintained for the benefit of those who desire a thorough preparation.

In the Collegiate Department the elective system enables each student to select the studies suited to his particular needs.

Students are provided with good board and comfortable, well-furnished quarters. The buildings are equipped with every modern convenience—steam heat, electric lights, baths.

Here students may pursue their studies in a highly moral community, amid healthful and beautiful surroundings, under careful supervision of health and habits, at very low rates.
