CHAPTER 255.

AN ACT to amend section one of article seven of the Constitution of this State.

SECTION 1. Be it enacted by the General Assembly of Maryland, Three-fifths of all the members of the two Houses concurring, That the following section be and the same is hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution of this State, and if adopted by the legal and qualified voters thereof as herein provided shall supersede and stand in the place and instead of section seven of article two of said constitution.

SECTION 17. To guard against hasty or partial legislation, and encroachments of the Legislative Department upon the co-ordinate, Executive and Judical departments, every bill which shall have passed the House of Delegates and the Senate, shall before it becomes a law, be presented to the Governor of the State; if he approve, he shall sign it; but if not he shall return it, with his objections, to the House in which it originated, which House shall enter the objections at large on its journal, and proceed to reconsider the bill; if after such reconsideration, three-fifths of the members elected to that House shall pass the bill, it shall be sent with the objections to the other House, by which it shall likewise be reconsidered, and if passed by three-fifths of the members elected to that House, it shall become a law, but in all such cases the votes of both Houses shall be determined by yeas and nays, and names of the persons voting for and against the bill shall be entered on the journal of each House respectively, if any bill shall not be returned by the governor within six days (Sundays excepted) after it shall have been presented to him, the same shall be a law in like manner as if he signed it; unless the General Assembly shall, by adjournment prevent its return, in which case it shall not be a law, the Governor shall have power to disapprove of any item or items of any bills making appropriations of money, embracing distinct items, and the part or parts of the bill approved shall be the law, and item or items or appropriations disapproved shall be void unless repassed according to the rules or limitations prescribed for the passage of other bills over the executive veto.

SECTION 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the said foregoing section hereby proposed as an amendment to the Constitution shall be at the next general election held in this State, submitted to the legal and qualified voters thereof for their adoption or rejection, in pursuance of the directions contained in article fourteen of the Constitution of this State, and at the said general election the vote on said proposed amendment to the constitution shall be by ballot, and upon each ballot there shall be written or printed the words "for the constitutional amendment" or "against the constitutional amendment" as the voter shall elect, and immediately after said election due return shall be made to the Governor of the vote for and against said proposed amendment, as directed by the said fourteenth article of the constitution.

quitable Life Assurance Society OF THE UNITED STATES.

Before assuring your life, or investing your money, examine the Twenty-Year Tontine Policies of The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the U. S.

Policies maturing in 1891 realize cash returns to the owners, of amounts varying from 120 to 176% of the money paid in, besides the advantage of the Assurance during the whole period of twenty years.

The following is one of many actual cases maturing this year:

Endowment Policy No. 61,925.
Issued in 1871, at age 27. Amount, $5,000.
Premium, $239.90. Total Prems. Paid $4,798.

RESULTS
at End of Tontine Period in 1891:

Cash Surrender Value, $8,449.45
(Equal to $176.10 for each $100 paid in premiums, which is equivalent to a return of all premiums paid, with interest at 7¼ per cent. per annum.)
Or, in lieu of cash,

A Paid-up Life Policy for $19,470
(Equal to $405.80 for each $100 paid in premiums.)
Or,

A Life Annuity of $633.55

One fact is worth a thousand theories. There is no assurance extant in any company which compares with this. The Equitable is the strongest company in the world and transacts the largest business.

LITERARY NOTES.

Choice Bits From the Literary Table of Our Friends.

The barbarous treatment of the Jews in Russia is the subject of an article in the November number of the North American Review, by the Chief Rabbi of the United Hebrew Congregations of the British Empire. The Chief Rabbi was induced by Lord Rothschild to write the article for the Review.

Wm. T. Coleman, the chairman of the famous San Francisco Vigilance Committees of 1851, 1856 and 1877, in account of their work which he has written for the November Century, refers to the recent lynching at New Orleans, and tells what he thinks the people of California would have done under the same circumstances. They would have organized in full force, he says, formed a court, appointed a judge and selected a jury; called for evidence, analyzed it carefully, put on tria the people who had been discharged by the perjured jury, given the accused good counsel and the benefit of every doubt, and finally would have executed with due deliberation those whom they found guilty.

Harper's Magazine for November will open with an entertaining story—"The Inn of the Good Woman," by Hezekiah Butterworth. It is a Thanksgiving story, delightfully original in that the usual accessories and accompaniments of Thanksgiving are but lightly touched upon, and an amusing comedy of errors is introduced instead. It will be fully and appropriately illustrated from drawings by W. T. Smedley.

The loveliness of our Southern women is proverbial, and every Southerner feels a national pride when their beauty is lauded; but very few have had the pleasure of seeing the most famous of our Southern beauties, as they live in so many different localities. Demorest's Family Magazine has, however, brought them all together in a superbly illustrated article in the November number (just received). These portraits must have been extremely difficult to procure, as the originals are all representatives of the higher social circles; and the handsomely executed pictures form a valuable and artistic collection, that every Southerner should possess. While a prime attraction, this is by no means the only one of this attractive number. Of especial interest is a paper on "The Romances of Pre-Columbian Discoveries," illustrated by Beard; every woman should be interested in the papers on "Woman's Dress Hygienically Considered," by Susanna W. Dodds, M. D., the topic for November being "The Unequal Distribution of Clothing;" there are charming stories, and nearly 200 fine illustrations, including a handsome photogravure, "The Song of Love," which is a gem. This typical Family Magazine is published by W. Jennings Demorest, at 15 East 14th street, New York, for 20 cts. a copy, or $2.00 a year. Any of our local newsdealers will supply it.

The following story is told of the writing by Count von Moltke of that volume of his Memoirs which relates to the Franco-German war of 1870, and which has just been published by Harper & Brothers: "The Count has again and again been entreated to make use of his leisure at Creisau by noting down his reminiscences of the great struggle. But, with that modesty and dislike of parade which were among his most striking characteristics, he refused to write anything in the shape of memoirs, saying that they only served to gratify the writer's vanity. Still, the idea of compiling an account of the war, which should be less detailed and technical than the official history, took root in his mind, and after a little more judicious persuading, he consented to enter upon the task. He begun it in the spring of 1887, working at it for three hours every morning, and placed it in his son's hands completed in January, 1888. Characteristically, he never alluded to the matter, but left its future to his son's, Major von Moltke's, discretion.

Mrs. Gladstone has contracted to write a series of articles for The Ladies' Home Journal, of Philadelphia, especially intended for American women. The series will be called "Hints From a Mother's Life," and in it the great English statesman's wife will tell the method which she adopted in bringing up her children. As Mrs. Gladstone is one of the most practical women in England, and her children have all attained positions of eminence, her articles for the Journal will have a peculiar interest to every mother in the land.

Bridegroom's Eccentricities.

Ministers have amusing experiences in marrying people, says the New York Morning Journal. Many couples are so nervous that they hardly know how to behave, and in their efforts to appear self-possessed say and do funny things. A clergyman in Connecticut occasionally lets fall an anecdote of his early "marrying days."

At one time a man and woman came to his house to be married. As they were waiting in the parlor for the minister's appearance, the man, without saying a word, got up and left the house.

When the minister came in there was no bridegroom. They waited and the would-be bride began to grow uneasy, though she tried to appear unconcerned. At length some one said to her:

"He must have left you."

"Oh! well, then," was the reply, with a toss of her head, "it will save me a deal of trouble," but her voice faltered and tears began to flow.

A half hour later the missing man returned, wearing a new hat and bringing a ring, which he had gone out to purchase. Tears then gave way to smiles and the wedding went on.

On another occasion the minister asked the groom what form of service he would prefer should be used.

"What?" was the curt response.

The minister repeated the question.

Then, with a glance at his bride, the man replied, "both together and for life."

The marriage fee often reveals odd traits of character. Once the bridegroom presented to this clergyman a bit of paper on which was written, "a wife is a crown to her husband. If she turn out to be a good one in ten years, I'll give you twenty dollars."

The minister pocketed the paper, thinking that the woman would "turn out to be a good one," and that the man would never remember the promise.

But time brought a surprise. Before seven years had passed the clergyman received a gold double eagle and a note, saying:

"She is good clear through. There is no need of waiting any longer. I ought to have paid you on the spot."
