MANY SETTLED IN THIS STATE

Biennial Report of The Immigration Commission—Immigrants Were Induced to Buy Farms Here Have Prospered and Added to the Material Wealth of Maryland—More Legislation Needed to Make Work More Effective.

The Board of Commissioners of Immigration, Dr. W. Frank Hines, superintendent, have submitted their biennial report to the governor. This contains a resume of the work accompanied in the past two years and furnishes statistics that are very valuable to the farming interests of the State. The report says:

We can state with pardonable pride that as a result of our work we brought many strangers into the State who invested nearly $3,000,000 in farm lands and who will help to make the State a beehive of industrious farmers. The increase in the work of the office is best shown in the correspondence; nearly 10,000 letters have been received and answered during the first biennial term of our office. We also assisted our home farmers in obtaining suitable farm labor and domestic help.

During 1909 there had landed up to December 1, 751,786 immigrants, and of these 4,286 came with the intention of settling in Maryland. Referring to domestic help the report says:

DOMESTIC HELP.

The great need for domestic help has never been relieved and has informed the bureau that it is most difficult to bring female help from Europe to the United States, but that efforts in that direction should not be lost sight of and that it would be necessary to make the advantages for girls in this country in comparsion and those in Europe better kown.

From our observation we have come to the conclusion that the farmers suffered very little this year on account of scarcity of farm labor and are now in a better condition than before.

We have noticed the peculiar fact that a number of famiiies who arrived here from Europe and declined to listen to the appeals to invest their money in Maryland have not only come back from the West, but have induced their friends in Europe to stay here and buy land and farms.

NO MALARIA HERE.

The commission also takes occasion to deny the false report circulated in the West that there is much malaria here, and a statement from Secretary Price, of the State Board of Health is given to disprove the report.

The report contains a table showing the number of new settlers in Maryland and the farms they have purchased. In conclusion, the report says:

"We desire to recommend suitable legislation in regard to the appropriation for the use of this office. The term of the members of the board and the bonds of the superintendent and the secretary begin May 1, and the appropriation is not available until six months later."

To give an idea of what the Bureau of Immigration, under Superintendent Hines, is doing in bringing good farmers into the State, Mr. Chas. F. Gumm bought a 312 acre in Wicomico for $1,150. Last year he raised 10 000 bushels of white potatoes, and this year he raised 32,000 bushels. This show what Maryland land will do without any forcing. 200 bushels of white potatoes is not an extraordinary crop. But by intensive effort nearly 400 bushels have been grown from one acre. The members of the Commission are Dr. M. Whitehill, president; Dr. W. Frank Hines, superintendent, and Mr. J. Boone Dukes, commissioner.

BREEDER'S EXTRA NUMBER.

The Christmas number of that ever excellent journal, the American Horse Breeder, Boston, Mass., has come to hand and it is a real gem, both in artistic execution and the matter it contains. The covers are in colors and the frontispiece is a very striking illustration and reflects credit on the artist, Mr. W. L. Duntley. The paper, from cover to cover, is brim full of good things. There are numerous full-page illustrations. The leading horses of the year are shown, both trotters and pacers, and one specially notable page is entitled "Darn That Toot," a sequel to the celebrated illustration which accompanied the Christmas Breeder of 1907, and for which there has been a most unusual demand, over 100,000 having been sold. In the forty-odd pages devoted to reading and statistical matter there is something to interest and entertain every single lover of the horse,—stories, special articles on breeding and kindred topics; statistics of great interest and value, including tables of the new standard performers. The price of the number is 25 cents, and if you are unable to get from your newsdealer write the American Horse Breeder, 161 High Street, Boston, Mass.
