ON THE OCEAN'S FLOOR.

How It Feels to Go Down Into the Sea In a Diving Bell.

How it feels to go down into the sea in a diving bell is described as follows by one who made the descent: "Putting on a pair of stockings, leggings and heavy boots, I jumped on to the seat when the huge bell—it weighed forty tons and was as large as a good sized room—was swung by the powerful crane over the staging, and gradually we were lowered into the sea. The sensation at first was very strange. As we entered the water, which was driven out of the bell by compressed air, there was a distinct buzzing sound in the ears and head. I was told to hold my nose and blow through it, and I did so. Slowly we descended and at last reached the bottom, some fifty feet below the surface. The bell in question was seventeen feet long and ten feet wide. There were six of us in it. It was lighted by electricity and was almost as bright as day. We first landed on a bed which the divers had previously leveled. The moment the bell touched the ground there was perhaps about two feet of water in it. This was quickly driven out by the compressed air, when we walked ou comparatively dry ground with the sea all around us.

"By sending signals up to the man in charge of the great crane to which the bell is attached the apparatus can be moved as its occupants wish. After inspecting the smooth bed on which the bottom blocks are laid we went out to sea and, landing on the bottom again, obtained some idea of the difficulties of digging a foundation on the floor of the ocean. It was ragged and rocky. Four men work in a bell under a pressure of twenty-seven pounds to the square inch for three hours at a time, digging up the ground until it is perfectly smooth and level. The material is thrown into a large wooden box swung in the center of the bell.

"Climbing to our seats again, the man gave the necessary signals, and away we went, all under water, of course, until we landed once more upon the stones just placed in position. The electric lights in the bell are placed close to the thick little glass windows. When we stayed on the bottom quietly for a little while the fish darted at the light, but at the noise of a shovel they quickly disappeared."

Ralph Waldo Emerson's Stove.

Ralph Waldo Emerson was a man of rare integrity and very particular about small things. One day a new cooking stove had been provided for his house, and, although the stove came very highly recommended, it proved thoroughly unsatisfactory and most provoking, as it did everything but what it was expected to do. After awhile the family was in despair, and some one suggested sending it to auction.

"What!" exclaimed Emerson. "Transfer our own perplexity to another pair of shoulders? No, never, unless the stove is labeled 'Imperfect.'"

And so "Imperfect" it was labeled and sold at a great discount.—Boston Herald.

The Oldest Book.

Max Muller said that the Brahmans in particular pride themselves on the age of their Vedas, which, according to some critics, date from 6000 B. C.; according to others, from 1200 or 1500 B. C. Even this more moderate date is far beyond that of the Old Testament or any other sacred book, so that to the Brahmans must be given the credit, if credit there be, of possessing the oldest, the most remote and consequently the most difficult of the sacred books of the world.

"The happiest moment of my life," answered the sage of Sageville, "is yet to come."

Right Now.

After all, what's the use? No matter how hard we may fight, we lose in the end; no matter how much we may seemingly conquer, in the end we are wretchedly beaten; no matter how much we are in the public eye, within two weeks after our death we are too dead to be talked about. There is only one time in the world, and that is now.—Lawrence (Kan.) World.

A Terrible Wreck.

The most terrible wreck in the history of the Western Maryland railroad occurred last Saturday afternoon at six o'clock a mile and a quarter east of Patapsco Station, Carroll county. The regular through passenger train which left Hillen Station, Baltimore, at 5 o'clock, collided while running at full speed with a heavy freight drawn by two engines. Twenty-six persons were killed and more than twenty others injured. Among the killed was Mr. Geo. B. Covell, engineer of the passenger train. Mr. Covell was the son of Mr. John Covell, the well-known and popular conductor of the Kent and Queen Anne's road, living in Centreville. Young Covell was well-known in Chestertown, where in his younger days he had frequently played baseball with the Centreville team. He was popular with a host of friends in Queen Anne's county. The action of young Covell in the presence of death was very heroic. He applied the emergency brakes when he saw the wreck was inevitable, and by so doing saved the lives of many of the passengers on the ill-fated train. He was 42 years old and leaves a widow and several children.

Among the injured was Mr. Walter Graham, son of Mr. W. R. Graham, of Easton, and well-known in Chestertown. Mr. Graham's injuries were only slight and he rendered valuable assistance to the physicians and surgeons in removing the dead and wounded from the wreck. The dead and wounded were principally employees of the railroad company who had been working down the road at Mount Hope and were returning to their homes. Most of the men killed were setting upon the steps of the baggage car and the first passenger coach, and they were horribly crushed and maimed.

Order of Publication.

In the Circuit Court for Kent County in Equity.

No. 1552.

Augusta M. Bowers, John S. Bowers, Lucy Bowers, Thos. D. Bowers, Mary R. Aldridge, Wm. R. Aldridge, vs.

John N. Dodd, Charles L. Dodd, Harry L. Dodd, Thomas S. Dodd, Mary H. Dodd, Richard D. Hynson, Jefferson D. Bacchus, The Second National Bank of Chestertown, Md., H. Clay Lusby, The Kent County Savings Bank, Whitely Johnson, Frederick Humbert, Andrew J. Hackett and Publishing Clearing House.

THE object of this bill is to procure a decree for the sale of certain Real Estate of which John T. Dodd died, seized and possessed and to have the proceeds thereof divided among the persons entitled according to their respective interests.

The bill states that a certain John T. Dodd, late of Kent county, deceased, by his last will and testament dated the 15th day of September, 1874, duly probated and recorded in Wills Records of Kent county in Liber E. C. No. 1, folios 130, etc., among other things gave and devised unto John N. Dodd a certain farm or tract or tracts of land, situate and lying in the Fourth Election District of Kent county and near Chestertown, commonly called the Dodd farm, to him and his heirs forever, provided nevertheless, that if the said John N. Dodd should die without issue surviving him then he devised the said farm over to his daughter, Augusta M. Bowers, for life, and at her death he gave and devised the said farm to his six grandchildren, Thos. S., Charles L. and Harry L. Dodd, John S., Thomas D. and Mary R. Bowers, (the said Mary R. Bowers has since intermarried with William R. Aldridge,) in fee simple, share and share alike, subject to six legacies of five hundred dollars each to the said Thos. S., Charles L. and Harry L. Dodd, John S., Thomas D. Bowers and Mary R. Aldridge,

John T. Dodd, by his last will and testament, directed that certain other real estate to wit, a lot of land with the improvements thereon, situated on High street in Chestertown, and another lot of land with improvements thereon situated on Calvert street in said town should be sold by his executrix, and the proceeds of the sale, together with the personalty, should be used for the payment of his debts, but the last mentioted parcels of real estate were not sold, and the said John T. Dodd was seized and possessed, at the time of his death of two other lots or parcels of land, not devised and not mentioned in his last will and testament to wit: a lot of land situated on High St., and commonly called the "Shop lot", and another lot of land commonly called the "Lumberyard lot."

And the bill further states that Mary J. Dodd, duly qualified as executrix of the said John T. Dodd, but has since departed this life.

And the bill further states that there are certain judgments against the interest of Harry L. Dodd and Thomas S. Dodd, in the real estate which said judgments liens will affect the title of any purchaser who may bid at the sale of the real estate, and the parties holding the said liens are hereby made party defendants hereto, as will appear by copies of liens filed as exhibits in this case.

And the bill further states that Charles L. Dodd has applied for the benefit of the bankrupt law, and his interest in the said real estate has been sold and those who purchased same and now hold interest therein are parties to this cause.

And the bill further states the plaintiffs are anxious to have the said real estate sold for the purpose of partition among the several persons who are interested therein and entitled to share in the proceeds of the sale of the said real estate.

It is thereupon, this 1st day of June, 1905, ordered by the Circuit Court for Kent County, as a court of equity, the plaintiff's by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper printed and published in Kent county, once a week for four successive weeks before the 3rd of July giving to the non-resident defendants Thomas S Dood and The Publishing Clearing House of the object and substance of the bill and warning said non-resident defendants to apper in person or by solicitor on or before the 17th day of July next to show cause if any they have why a decree should not be passed as prayed.
