PEACH CROP—ALSO THE PROSPECTS FOR PEARS AND GRAPES.

150,000 Baskets of Peaches—The Fruit Crop on the Peninsula This Season Will be Very Short.

Through the kindness of the railroad authorities at Clayton we are able to give figures as to the probable crop of peaches for the present season as presented below, and it is safe to say that the districts along the B. & E. S. and N. Y., P. & N. Railroads and water courses will not bring the estimate up to more than 150,000 baskets for the entire Peninsula.

This is what might be termed almost a failure of that luscious fruit.

The pear crop indicates a showing of 30,000 baskets, while the grape prospects are fairly bright.

Supt. Holliday states that the figures named by the railroad people fully cover anticipated receipts, while the veteran authority, Mr. I. N. Mills, assures us after a careful investigation, he does not believe the figures will exceed the estimate given for railroad territory.

MAKING THE MOST OF ICE.

A Few Points That Will Be of Value to Housekeepers.

"The amount of ice I wasted before I learned how to take care of it, was something amazing," said a young housekeeper to a writer on household topics. "I started in with the notion that ice had to melt about so fast anyway, and whatever I saw fit to do with it would make no particular difference. Therefore, I let it go to waste, and paid ice bills that almost took my breath away.

"One day an old fellow, who was, I imagine, a supply on the ice wagon, for I never saw him before or since, gave me some points. He showed me that ice has a grain, and if I worked with the grain I could split off pieces of almost any size or shape I wanted. I was comfortably handy with tools, and he showed me how to saw part way into a large cake, then with hammer and any pointed instrument crack off the piece the size I required. I discovered long ago that unless I have a very large family a large refrigerator is simply a useless extravagance, so I brought down to the kitchen a little parlor ice-box that I had when I boarded, and for a family of four it answers every purpose.

"The ice-man brings 50 pounds of ice twice a week. I put it into a large cloth, around which are wrapped some pieces of felt and a blanket. The porcelian tank in the ice-box is about 10x12 inches in size, and into this I put apiece of ice every morning, taking care to keep the rest well covered. I find this is all that is necessary, and am saved the trouble of looking after a large ice-box, than which I imagine nothing more taxing. The little box has a porcelain tank with a faucet from which the water is drawn as it melts. I find, by the way, that this water carefully strained through a thick cloth, the most luxurious article for my toilet. It is simon pure soft water, and all the year round I use it in preference to any other. Utilizing this sort of thing is, in my mind, among the fine points of housekeeping, and I often wonder that more women do not study the little ifs and ands of everyday life, and learn to turn to account everything that comes in their way."

Johnny's Guess.

Johnny had been studying his spelling lesson and learning definitions, particularly of words with prefixes from the Greek. He had defined monologue as a soliloquy, or "one man talking to himself."

"Now what is a conversation between two persons?" asked the teacher.

"A dialogue."

"And between more than two persons?"

"A pollywog," answered Johnny, promptly.

Nothing Stands as High,

as a remedy for every womanly ailment, as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Here is the proof. It's the only medicine for women so certain in its effects that it can be guaranteed. In every case, if it doesn't cure, your money is returned. Can anything else, though it may be better for a tricky dealer to sell, be "just as good" for you to buy?

"Favorite Prescription" is an invigorating, restorative tonic, a soothing and strengthening nervine, and a complete cure for all the fundamental derangements, painful disorders and chronic weaknesses peculiar to the sex.

For young girls entering womanhood; for women at the critical "change of life;" for women approaching confinement; nursing mothers; and every woman who is "run-down," tired, or overworked—it is a special, safe and certain help.

Dr. Pierce's Pellets cure constipation, piles, biliousness, indigestion, or dyspepsia, and headaches.

ODDS AND ENDS.

"Say, are you the boy I sent with a letter about three weeks ago?"

Boy—Yes, sir.

"Well, why in the mischief didn't you bring the answer back?"

Boy—You told me to wait for a reply, and the man won't be home until next spring.

Wife—Anything new in the sermon this morning?

Husband—I guess there must have been, I didn't get to sleeep until it was half over.

"So you have discharged your dressmaker. I thought she did beautiful work."

Mrs. Growler—That's just it. There was never an opportunity to find fault with anything.

Mabel—Do you think this hat is too old for me?

Madge—Pooh! how could it be, dear; and it's just awfully becoming.

He—Who is that dowdy looking girl over by the piano?

"The one in green is my cousin."

"No, no, the fright in pink, I mean."

"Oh, she is my twin sister."

A man spends most of his time around home in wondering where the women folks have "hid" the things he wants.

The Young Housewife—"Have you any nice chickens?"

The Poulterer—"Yes, ma'am."

The Young Housewife—"Well, send me a couple in time for dinner, and I want them with the croquettes left in, do you understand?"

Hobbs—"Doesn't it give you a kind of humble feeling to meet a girl you used to be engaged to long ago?"

Nobbs—"Yep. Always makes me wonder whether her taste used to be as bad as mine was."

A crank is one whose opinions run counter to your own. You may be a crank to the man who is a crank to you.

Purchaser—See here! you said this nag went a mile last month in 2.25, but I can't get a four-minute clip out of him.

Dealer—Well, sir, to be candid with you, he made that time coming through from Canada on a cattle train.—Judge.

Heroic Escape From a Wild Animal.

Not long ago an uptown young lady was lying half awake in bed. Suddenly she became wholly awake with the consciousness that a mouse was running over her bosom. She had presence of mind not to move, reasoning that the mouse would presently run away without harming her. But instead, the little creature crept onto her neck, and there nestled comfortably down, his back curled against the lower part of her cheek, which lay on the pillow. The lady's blood was simply frozen with horror, but she did not dare to move, fearing that the mouse would bite her if she did.

Collecting her wits, she resolved that she would by a sudden and mighty effort jump sidewise in the bed away from the mouse, leaving him high and dry on the pillow, and then get quickly up and out of the bed on the other side. She would count three and jump. She counted one, two, three—and then she did not jump. The mouse nestled comfortably closer to her neck. It was now or never! She began again and counted one, two, three! This time she jumped sidewise, downward, upward, and everywhere, and screamed besides at the top of her voice. What became of the mouse could not be learned, for when all the family came, with lamps and pokers and various other weapons, to her aid, no trace of the poor little creature could be found.

Men and Their Clothes.

Men, continues Miranda, are so helplessly conservative and so hopelessly unimaginative about their own clothes. They go on wearing articles of attire year after year that differ in fashion from each other only in the most trifling details. They are terribly afraid of adopting any really new ideas, and, indeed, they never seem to have any beyond folding a necktie this way or that, or widening or narrowing their hat brims. Now, we women are always full of imagination. We are not always happy, I admit, in the fashions our busy brains evolve, but we generally manage to be attractive, often extremely picturesque, and at all events we never have to publicly confess that we do not know how to dress ourselves when we have our portraits painted, so that we cannot make a picture. I think it would be really kind if some enterprising lady journalists started a "men's pictorial" just to teach the poor helpless things how to dress.

EDWARD SANFORD MARTIN says in one of the charming essays that make up the little volume that has just appeared under the title of "Windfalls of Observations:" "Love is the great sweetener that makes living tolerable, and dying a great deal more comfortable than most people think, but after love is there any other corrective of existence that is fit to compare with humor? It greases the wheels so! It makes so many burdens endurable that must have been crushing without it." Indeed, the author thinks the sense of humor so essential to man's well-being that he urges the founding of asylums where unfortunate persons who have not this sense may be treated for their defect, as persons are who have lost their sense of seeing or hearing.

It May Do as Much for You.

Mr. Fred. Miller, of Irving, Ill., writes that he had a severe kidney trouble for many years, with severe pains in his back and also that his bladder was affected. He tried many so-called Kidney cures but without any good result. About a year ago he began use of Electric Bitters and found relief at once. Electric Bitters is especially adapted to cure of all Kidney and Liver troubles and often gives almost instant relief. One trial will prove our statement. Price only 60c. for large bottle. At M. A. Toulson's Drug Store.

for Infants and Children.

MOTHERS, Do You Know that Paregoric, Bateman's Drops, Godfrey's Cordial, many so-called Soothing Syrups, and most remedies for children are composed of opium or morphine?

Do You Know that opium and morphine are stupefying narcotic poisons?

Do You Know that in most countries druggists are not permitted to sell narcotics without labeling them poisons?

Do You Know that you should not permit any medicine to be given your child unless you or your physician know of what it is composed?
