THE MODEL WIFE.

She rises every morning,
Just when the roosters crow;
She gently splits the kindling—
Makes the stove puff and blow.

She puts the breakfast on to cook,
And sings, as if at play;
And while the battercakes are made,
Her husband snores away!

The children show her gentle care,
Their nightly slumbers o'er;
She dresses half a dozen,
And she whips a dozen more.

Then to the room she doth repair;
Her husband hears her say:
"I've almost worked myself to death!
Are you going to sleep all day?"

OUR RELIGIOUS COLUMN.

Choose for yourselves your place in life where Jesus often comes, and where He loves to be. That is your first lesson, is it not? I say choose, because you have the power of choosing. If you were a plant or flower, you would, of course, have no choice. Then, if you grew in the wilderness among thistles and nettles, you would just have to remain there and share their fate, unless the Gardener took pity on you and transplanted you among His flowers. The Saviour loves very much to be where His children are, and He often comes among them with special love and grace, and it will depend very much upon yourself whether He finds you amongst them or not.

Of all the lines of character that are to be met with in the garden of the Lord, modesty and humility are the safest and the best. Jesus, the Son of God, our dear Saviour, is meek and lowly in heart, and all His children should be clothed with humility. The seraphim veil their faces and their feet when they stand before the Lord; how much more should we cover our infirmities with the veil of true humility!

You love the flowers that are not only beautiful, but that also emit the sweetest fragrance. And while modesty and reverence make character so beautiful, and bring it into favor with God and man, love to God in the heart and to man for His sake is the sweetest fragrance of your life. And children, I know, can love God very truly and very dearly. Give Him your love, dear child, and very often will He stop and bend over you with fondness, even when you do not know He is so near. When He comes into His garden He is sure to notice you.

"We noticed the other day the report of the organization of an Endeavor Society of young people," says the Herald and Presbyter. "Twenty members had entered, 'all active.' We were reminded of a conversation between two ministers. One said: 'My church is growing. We have now two hundred and some odd members.' 'Ah, brother,' was the answer, 'you are happy. I have two hundred and all odd.'" Happy the minister who knows his people's oddities and can turn even the oddities to good account.

If sin is done up in lavender, or glorified with a halo, or allowed even to pass into forgetfulness by the community in which it is committed, the sinner will argue that neither heaven nor earth punishes wrongdoing. Having no need to regard man and man's laws, he will promptly dismiss all fear of God from before his eyes and become a law unto himself.

While sentimental views of law-breaking and sentimental petting of thieves, anarchists, murderers and criminals generally, are dishonoring to God and opposed to the best interests of any community, they are also contrary to the best welfare of the sinner himself. Punishment to be effective must punish, otherwise it will never prohibit. Moreover the man who realizes that respectable people are busy making his crime any less horrible-looking than it really is, will lose any sense of penitence which prompt and sufficient punitive measures would be likely to produce. There seems to be no doubt that murderers who have been enabled by somebody's weak sentimentality to put off their day of doom have again and again been deluded into the expectation of escaping execution altogether. The concern of such has centered itself upon the escape from punishment in this life rather than upon preparation for eternity, a preparation already too long delayed. When sentimentality has done its best and failed in rescuing its object from death, who will say that it has not been responsible for the sinner's neglect of his opportunity for seeking and finding pardon and life eternal through repentance towards God and faith in our Lord Jesus Christ?

She Took a Car.

The story of how a portly woman stopped and caught a one-horse car on Lehigh avenue, near Germantown avenue, recently, though not as amusing as the actual occurrence, has its points of interest.

The driver-conductor had just let out a woman passenger when the fleshy female appeared behind the car, wildly gesticulating in a manner calculated to be understood for "Stop that car!" A masculine passenger rang up two fares on the register; but the car went on. Then another man pulled the right bell cord and lectured the driver; while a third, supposing that the lady who had just alighted had left a basket in the car, rushed with the driver's lunch basket to the signalling fat woman, who, of course, didn't know what he meant; but just boarded the car, paid two fares, and independently spread herself on a seat.—Philadelphia Record.

It is the pretty Christian legend that the aspens quiver with shame because from its wood the cross was made. Observers of nature have discovered, however, that the quivering of the aspen's leaves is due to the fact that the leaf stalk is flat on the sides and so thin about the middle that the slightest breath of wind sets all the leaves a-wagging horizontally. A single leaf plucked off and taken by the end of the leaf stalk between the thumb and the forefinger admirably illustrates the peculiarity of the aspen.

To reach the North Pole an architect, M. Hauin, has proposed to the Geographical Society of Paris the construction of wooden huts one or two days' journey apart. He considers Greenland the most favorable locality for an experiment of this kind. Each of the huts would become in its turn a base of supplies for the construction of the next. As the distance to be covered is about 900 miles, a score of huts would be necessary to establish a route to the pole.

The Discovery Saved His Life.

Mr. G. Cailloutte, Druggist, Beaversville, Ill., says: "To Dr. King's New Discovery I owe my life. Was taken with La Grippe and tried all the physicians for miles about, but of no avail and was given up and told I could not live. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in my store I sent for a bottle and began its use and from the first dose began to get better, and after using three bottles was up and about. It is worth its weight in gold. We won't keep store or house without it." Get a free trial bottle at M. A. Toulson's Drug Store.

The Rice Test for Crime.

The "rice test" for crime is a favorite method in the Indies for detecting criminals when other means fail. When a theft, for instance, has occurred in a house where there are a number of servants, the medicine man or Indian detective is sent for. He comes; the suspected servants are marshaled into his presence, and to each he gives a spoonful of rice and a palm leaf. They are required to masticate the rice into flour and spit it out on the leaf. The innocent, conscious of their innocence, chew vigorously, and at the end of the required time generally reject a white pulp, but it frequently happens that the guilty one, conscious of his guilt and fearing detection, is unable to do so, fright preventing a proper flow of saliva, thus rendering it impossible to masticate the rice as it should be done. Absurd as this test may seem, it has proven efficacious in many cases.—Detroit Free Press.

Tons of Silver in an Altar.

A dispatch from Mexico announces that the erection of the magnificent canopy over the high altar of Our Lady in the shrine of Guadalupe has been completed. The pillars to support it are each a solid block of polished Scotch granite, weighing seven tons. The diameter of each pillar is three feet and the height 20 feet. The altar will be ready for dedication December 12 (Guadalupe Day), and will be the most elaborate and costly one in America. The additions to the church edifice will not be copleted fer nearly two years at the present rate of progress. When finished the shrine of the Lady of Guadalupe will be one of the most notable Catholic church edifices in the world. The solid silver altar railing weighs 26 tons, and many millions of dollars are in other ways represented in this palatial palace of worship.

Pay of New York Physicians.

The incomes of professional men can be discussed only in an approximate way. As the amount of money earned is considered by the public as a measure of appreciation of services rendered, there is a strong tendency to stretch the imagination in the direction of what should be, rather than what actually is. Physicians form no exception to this rule. The average annual income of a physician in full practice in a large city may be stated as $2000, and in the smaller towns and in strictly rural districts, $1200. Two or three physicians in New York make over $100,000 each year; five or six range from $50,000 to 60,000; 50 from $25,000 to $30,000; 150 from $10,000 to $12,000; about 300 from $5000 to $6000; 1500 from $2000 to $3000, and the remainder from $800 to $1000.—DR. GEORGE F. SHRADY in the Forum for September.

Florida Mosquito Guards.

"You may talk about mosquitoes as much as you please," said C. P. Burdick, "but the largest, fiercest and most numerous in the United States can be seen and felt in the northern portion of Florida, about Baldwin. It is the only place I ever saw men wear 'mosquito guards;' but there they are a necessity to those who work in exposed places. A sort of trap or coop is made, fitting around the neck and extending above the head. Around this is fastened as fine a mosquito bar as can be procured. Of course there is very little weight attached to it, and, while at first it bothers the eyes, yet it does not take a great while to get used to it. I wore one for a week there, and if I should return I certainly would not be without the protection of a 'mosquito guard.'"

The Smallest Painting in the World.

It is said that the smallest piece of painting in the world has recently been executed by a Flemish artist. It is painted on the smooth side of a grain of common white corn, and pictures a mill and a miller mounting a stair with a sack of grain on his back. The mill is represented as standing on a terrace, and near it is a horse and cart, while a group of several peasants are shown in the road near by. The picture is beatifully distinct; every object being finished with microscopic fidelity, yet by careful measurement it is shown that the whole painting does not cover a surface of half an inch square.—Boston Transcript.

Franklin wrote the following letter to a man to whom he was lending some money: "I send you herewith a bill for ten louis-d'ors; I do not pretend to give you such a sum, I only lend it to you. When you shall return to your country, you cannot fail of getting into some kind of business that will in time enable you to pay all your debts. In that case, when you meet with another honest man in similar distress, you may pay me by lending this sum to him, enjoining him to discharge the debt by a like operation when he shall be able, and shall meet with another opportunity. I hope it may then go through many hands, before it meets with a knave to stop its progress. This is a trick of mine for doing a great deal of good with little money."

A Woman's Burdens

are lightened when she turns to the right medicine. If her existence is made gloomy by the chronic weakness, delicate derangements and painful disorders that afflict her sex, she will find relief and emancipation from her troubles in Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. If she's overworked, nervous or "run-down," she has new life and strength after using this remarkable remedy. It's a powerful, invigorating tonic and nervine which was discovered and used by an eminent physician for many years, in all cases of "female complaints" and weaknesses. For young girls just entering womanhood; for women at the critical "change of life;" in bearing-down sensations, periodical pains, ulceration, inflammation and every kindred ailment, if it ever fails to cure, you have your money back.

DR. G. C. OSGOOD, Lowell, Mass.

"Castoria is the best remedy for children of which I am acquainted. I hope the day is not far distant when mothers will consider the real interest of their children, and use Castoria instead of the various quack nostrums which are destroying their loved ones, by forcing opium, morphine, soothing syrup and other hurtful agents down their throats, thereby sending them to premature graves."
