SATURDAY, JUNE 29, 1907.

IF the automobile "chefs" are as careful as they should be the horses in Kent will soon become unmindful of the noise.

THURSDAY next will be July 4th and Kent farmers will be in the midst of wheat harvest. They can celebrate "Independence Day" when they sell their crop at $1.10 per bushel.

IN another column will be found a note of the many launches owned in Chestertown. Washington College should own a boat house and a crew organized for fine sport on the water. Chester river affords a splendid course for aquatic sports. Even under present conditions a creditable show could be arranged for commencement week or for some summer evening. The merchants would do well to get up a carnival on the water. Try it.

THE good impression made at the time the Democratic ticket was nominated is being strengthened with each passing day. The nominees are men who will bear inspection and will grow in favor as the campaign progresses. Their fitness for the respective positions for which they have been nominated at once impresses those whom they meet in their canvas, and the cordiality with which they are greeted proves that no mistake was made in their selection. Backed by a united Democratic party the entire ticket is sure of a handsome majority. Many solid Republicans have already pledged their support to the ticket.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The increased consideration being given by Democratic leaders to the question of the advisability of nominating Mr. Joseph D. Baker of Frederick for Governor has stirred up the latter's friends in Western Maryland, and a compact organization is being formed there to present Mr. Baker's claims at the State Convention.

Chief Judge James McSherry, of the Maryland Court of Appeals, says:

"In my judgement, the wise thing the Democratic State Convention could do would be to nominate Mr. Joseph D. Baker for the office of Governor of Maryland. I have known Mr. Baker for many years, and I do not hesitate to say, with emphasis, that he is most eminently qualified to fill the high office. He is a prudent, calm, broad-minded and capable man. He is a genuine Democrat. If made Governor, he would be Governor of the whole State, and would reflect great credit on our Commonwealth. The people of Frederick county are a unit for him."

Ex-GOV. BROWN and Gov. Warfield held a conference this week and it is reported that they agreed to join in the efforts to get a winning candidate for Governor. It is said the former is in favor of Mr. Baker.

THE Republicans in Kent are feeling around for candidates. Hon. James H. Baker, Azariah M. Kendall, Wilbur Eliason, Jr., and others are mentioned for the Senate, Robert R. Hill for commissioner in the second, John C. Davis in fourth and Bert DeCorse for Treasurer. John D. Urie, Esq., can have most any place he desires on the ticket, but says he doesn't want any.

THE most interesting event in local political circles this week was the announcement of Wm. T. Warburton, Esq., that he would accept the Republican nomination for Judge in this District, if it came his way. Mr. Warburton says he will make no contest for the nomination, but if the party sees fit to offer it to him, he will accept it and "make the fight."

IT was our privilege while at the National Editorial Association meeting at Jamestown to hear that brilliant cheerful editor John Temple Graves and that optimistic writer, Jacob Reis, each deliver excellent addresses on making the world brighter and happier. We also heard a band of sixteen blind boys discourse excellent music, but to all who can see the beauties of nature this message from Miss Minnie E. Hicks, Kent's blind poetess, is like the sweet zephyrs of a June day and chimes harmoniously with the above addresses and sentiments expressed to us by the musicians.

"I wish you would tell the world" said Miss Hicks, "that I have a little message to give everyone about living. When I became totally blind, after years of weakness of the eyes, but after I had enjoyed the privilege of sight, I grew despondent. It was natural for despondency to follow a loss of sight, and for a time I refused to go anywhere or take any part in the general affairs of life. But before it became chronic with me I began to see that I was letting my personal grief cast a shadow on all around me, and I determined to overcome my selfishness for their sake. So now I am happy, perfectly happy, and it makes me so glad to know that I do not make others unhappy by yielding to my own sorrows. I think it is the greatest thing in life to know—to realize—that you are not living alone, and that you have no right to spread despondency. I cannot see, but I have many loving and good friends to see for me, and their sight is so much better because it is the sight of love."

TEACHERS AT JAMESTOWN.

Dr. James W. Cain, President, Makes an Address—Fire Outside the Exposition Scares Many.

The Maryland State Teachers met in annual convention at Jamestown this week. On Tuesday night they heard the able addresses of Gov. Warfield and Dr. James W. Cain, of Chestertown, and President of the Association.

Among those present were: Examiner Milton Melvin, Misses Grace Newnam, Edna A. Bryan, Ethel B. Clements, Jeanette Peterson, Mary L. Wise, Evelyn and Julia Brinsfield, Prof. Greenwood and son, Arthur and others.

After roaming all over the Maryland Building the teachers started out for other fields. They went through the various buildings and were very much interested, especially in the portions of the state exhibits that showed the educational work. Some of them, however, found their way to the Warpath and some to the Streets of Cairo, where they amused themselves riding the camels and doing other "stunts" much to the amusement of themselves and the spectators.

A fire broke out Wednesday near the Exposition known as Pine Beach. Several temporary hotels were destroyed and a total loss of $200,000 suffered, It was near the Inside Inn and Kentucky building and caused quite a scare for a time. These hotels are built of Virginia pine and a fire makes rapid headway when started.
