THE FIRST STEP
to baby's health must be taken before baby's birth. The child can have no more health than the mother gives it. A healthy mother, strong of body and cheerful of mind, will endow the child with her own physical health and cheerful disposition. Many a wife who had dreaded motherhood because of past experiences of prenatal misery of mind and body has found a new era open to her with the use of Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It gives physical strength, soothes the nerves, and induces refreshing sleep. It gives vigor and elasticity to the organs of maternity, so that the birth hour is practically without pain or suffering. It enables the mother to provide a plentiful supply of healthful nourishment for the healthy child. It makes weak women strong and sick women well.

There is no alcohol in "Favorite Prescription" and it is absolutely free from opium, cocaine, and all other narcotics.
Sick women are invited to consult Dr. Pierce by letter free of charge. All correspondence strictly private and sacredly confidential. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.
"I gladly recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription," writes Mrs. J. W. G. Stephens, Mila, Northumberland Co., Virginia. "Before my third little boy was born I took six bottles. He is the finest child and has been from birth, and I suffered very much less than I did before in confinement. I unhesitatingly advise expectant mothers to use the 'Favorite Prescription.'"
Dr. Pierce's Pleasant Pellets are a pleasant and effective laxative medicine.

A BUSY REPUBLICAN AND A WHITE ILLITERATE.

From the Rockville Advocate.

Rather an amusing and at the same time instructive incident occurred in Rockville on the first day of court. An ardent Republican, greatly incensed at the prospect of the Democratic party ruining itself by amending the election law, met with an old-time Democrat, who, while a taxpayer and a worthy citizen, was unfortunately born at a time and with surroundings that made it difficult to obtain the most rudimentary education. Here was a rich field to work, and the Republican missionary proceeded at once to show the benighted Democrat the full front of the Democratic effort against the latter's rights as a man, a citizen and a christian. The unconstitutionality of the proposed amendments was argued just about as intelligently as Mr. McComas would have, or has done; but the main point that the time-beaten Democrat would lose his vote was brought out in all its startling enormity. The old fellow listened with avidity, and his eyes hung intently upon the mouth of the Republican protector as the pearls of wisdom fell from his lips. The argument was finished, and to the satisfaction of the Republican, who surely counted upon the discontent of the worthy old gentleman. But the Democratic "illiterate" moved away without uttering a word, and nearly reached the Court House door, when he turned and hailed his friend. The latter approached eagerly, and when within easy speaking distance he heard these words from the moss-back: "If I come to the polls now and any Democrat tells me that if I don't vote he can keep three niggers from voting, why I just naturally get into my fix and ride home, thinking I've done a pretty good day's work. That's about what the new law will bring about in Montgomery county and I've got no kick that I can see." It is needless to say that the Republican was disappointed, but he had another arrow, for he remembered that the stubborn Democrat had once failed in party fealty because of Mr. Gorman. The arrow was quickly—"I am surprised that you should fail to see that it was Gorman's work." It was well aimed, but the old man escaped with the remark: "Bob Ingersoll objected to Eve because it was said she was made from Adam's rib; people generally think Eve was about the best put up piece of work on record. I am mighty glad to learn that Gorman has done something for his State."

"He Leadeth Me."

A little girl and her papa were on their way home, hand in hand, when the child in her playfulness said, "Now papa, let's play I am a poor blind girl, and you must let me hold your hand tight, and you must lead me along and tell me how to step and where to go."

So the merry blue eyes were shut tight, and the walk began. "Now step up;" "Now step down;" "Here we go around the corner," and so on, until they reached home, when the little one said: "Wasn't it nice, papa? I never peeped once."

"But," said her mamma, "didn't you feel afraid you would fall, dear?" With a look of trusting love, came the answer: "Oh, no, mamma; I had tight hold of papa's hand, and I knew he would take me safely over the hard places."—Selected.

Keep The Children Busy.

Teach the children to do little things about the house. It trains them to be useful, not awkward, in later and more important affairs; it gives them occupation while they are small, and it really is an assistance to the mother in the end; although she always feels during the training period that it is much easier to do things herself than to show another how. The last excuse has done much to make selfish, idle, unhandy members of an older society, and should be remembered in its effects, by the mother, while her little ones are beginning to learn all things, good and bad, at her knee. Occupation makes happiness, and occupation can not be acquired too young.—The Ladies' Home Journal.

Slandering An Oyster.

C. H. Spurgeon was severe on ministers who undertake the duties of their calling without proper qualifications. He made the following remarks in one of his lectures to his students:

"I heard one say the other day that a certain preacher had no more gifts for ministery than an oyster, and in my own judgment that was a slander to the oyster, for that worthy bivalve shows great discretion in his openings and knows when to close.—Methodist Protestant.

She Hadn't Read It.

A little girl of four years, having written a letter consisting simply of waving lines, asked her father to mail it. "What did you say?" asked papa. "I don't know," said Rosamond. "Why, you wrote it!" exclaimed papa. "Yes, but I did not read it," was the innocent reply.
