AS THE NEWSPAPERS SEE THE PRESENT CAMPAIGN.

The Cumberland Times:

"Now is the time, more than any other time, that every real Democrat should turn out to give his heartiest support to Mr. Gorman, a man courageous enough to stand before the people committed to the sanest and best platform ever presented to the voters of this State, a man of such a high moral equipment to urge and aid in every way the most rigid investigation of election officials. Again we say, young men, whoop her up for Gorman! He stands for progressive Democracy. He stands as every one who has read his platform must know, for everything modern thinkers have voted as best to purify primary and other election voting; he stands for a business man's administration of Maryland; for the improvement and economy of the good road building; for the betterment of our public school system; he advocates the most economic management of the State's finances to keep down the tax rate. Gorman is a man of the people, not a silk stocking aristocrat, but a plain speaking Democrat."

The Salisbury Advertiser:

"Though Mr. Gorman's high character is sufficient to justify confidence, yet it must not be overlooked, that he is a Candidate for higher political honors after his term of Governor expires, which of itself makes it highly improbable that he would fail in carrying out his promised program. He is frankly a politician—proposes to make politics his life work, and if he is to win, must keep faith with the people. His political future will largely depend upon his course while Governor. The close result of the last primary will have convinced him, if he had any delusions before, that the people now hold the reins and propose hereafter to do their own driving. If he fails to keep faith with them, it would not be in the power of any organization, no matter how well entrenched, to save him from their wrath. Mr. Gorman is as well aware of this as is any man, and can be depended upon to 'cut his cards accoridngly.' Favored with enough of this world's goods to lift him above the slightest suspicion of monetary gain; blessed with an open, manly heart, endowed with a capacity far above the average, possessed of courage to fight his own battles; ripened by experience, and filled with a sincere desire to serve the people, Mr. Gorman will make a Governor that future generations can point to with pride."

The Times Crescent, LaPlata:

"All this talk about bossism from the Republican Party is ridiculous. How many Republican candidates, either State or local were nominated by the voice of the people of that party? And indeed what would be the complexion of those candidates if they had been so nominated should the colored element have decided to use their power in the primary in their own behalf."

The Easton Star-Democrat:

"The Democratic nominees are responsible for their nominations only to the people, while the Republican nominees owe their nominations only to one or two men and if elected they would be under the domination of these party 'Bosses.' The Democratic nominees after their election will be under the domination of no man or set of men but can give an account of their stewardship direct to the rank and file of the Democrats, who nominated them. They can, of course, be freer to give the people better service and cannot be dictated to by any one."

The Great New York American:

"It is a gallant name in national and Maryland Democracy which leads the State ticket in this campaign. Arthur Pue Gorman, the candidate for Governor, is the stalwart son of a great sire whose brains and energies were Democratic History in Maryland for twenty years. Arthur Gorman, Jr., is sincere and brave, progressive in creeds and deeds. The fact that the machine which has controlled the party is in disrepute should not handicap or prejudice the success of this honest and fearless Democrat who has repudiated this corrupt machine and leads with a clear record the progressive Democracy of the State. The American trusts that the Maryland Democrats will add Arthur Gorman to the list of progressive Governors elected in this Democratic year."

The Cecil Democrat:

"As the campaign progresses and the personnel of the Candidates is brought more clearly into view, the exceptional excellence of the Democratic ticket becomes more and more apparent. The three gentlemen who constituted the State ticket, Gorman, Harrington and Poe, are making a decided impression as they come into contact with the voters of the State, and Senator Gorman in particular, is impressing the people with the force of his personality. The public opinion of Mr. Gorman has undergone a marked change in the last few weeks, dating from his speech of acceptance. He is recognized now as a man of strong individuality; of positive opinions and the courage to express them in an emphatic manner. He has been subjected to X-ray of a keen public scrutiny, and has stood the test as only an honest, sincere man could, with the result that he has thoroughly qualified as a safe and reliable candidate, and one well worthy of the confidence and support of the people of the State. Then too this ticket is the product of a fair, open primary, in which all Democrats participated There is not the slightest shadow of ring rule; of Bossism about it. It is the people's ticket in every sense of the word, and as such, ought to receive the support of all voters who believe in the elevation of good men and the approval of direct nominations."
