WM. C. RIDGAWAY.

Another Swindler Caught.

A man who calls himself Abraham Duvall, came to my house about ten days ago, stating that he was a chemist and offered to sell a cement answering the purpose of glue. After remaining with me 7 or 8 days and running up a bill to the amount of 20 or 30 dollars, he run off and I followed him. He was caught in the lower part of this county, trying to get across the Bay. Strange suspicions are entertained that he has fled from justice for some offence. He is about 5 feet 10 or 11 inches high, prominent features, talks very fast, says he is from New York, drest genteely, with a blue frock coat, light corded pantaloons. His friends, if he has any, can see him on application to the jailor of this county. Wm. C. RIDGAWAY,

Inn keeper, Dorchester co'y.

N. B. If he is known to any person who may see this advertisement, who can tell who and what he is, and where he is from, a line directed to me will be attended to. W. C. R.
