GOOD LIVING

Quite often results in bad health, because what is termed "good living" is usually the gratification of the palate without reference to the nutrition of the body. When the good liver is a business man and rises from a full meal to plunge at once into work requiring mental effort the result is almost sure to be disastrous, because digestion draws upon the same nervous forces which are employed in thought. In time the stomach becomes diseased, the processes of digestion and nutrition are imperfectly performed and there is a physical breakdown.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery cures diseases of the stomach and other organs of digestion and nutrition. It eliminates the effete poisonous matter which originates in the system as a consequence of imperfect digestion. It gives sound health to the whole body.

"I wish to say to the world that Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has proved a great blessing to me," writes Mrs. Ellen E. Bacon, of Shutesbury, Franklin Co., Mass. "Prior to September, 1897, I had doctored for my stomach trouble for several years, going through a course of treatment without any real benefit. In September, 1896, I had very sick spells and grew worse; could eat but little. I commenced in September, 1897, to take Dr. Pierce's medicine, and in a short time I could eat and work. I have gained twenty pounds in two months."

FREE. Dr. Pierce's Common Sense Medical Adviser is sent free on receipt of stamps to pay expense of mailing only. Send 21 one-cent stamps for the book in paper covers, or 31 stamps for the cloth-bound volume. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

ETERNITY.

A Little-Known Poem by John Greenleaf Whittier.

"This poem was written by Mr. Whittier in 1831, and was printed in the New England Review, which paper he was then editing. It was never collected, and I have never seen it copied. It was signed 'Adrian,' as were many of his early poems.'—S. T. Pickard." This is the note used in the Independent, from which the poem is now taken:

Boundless Eternity! the winged sands
That mark the silent lapse of flitting time
Are not for thee: thine awful empire stands
From age to age, unchangeable, sublime;
Thy domes are spread where thought can never climb.
In clouds and darkness, where vast pillars rest,
I may not fathom thee: 'twould seem a crime
Thy being of its mystery to divest,
Or boldly lift thine awful veil with hands unblest.

Thy ruins are the wrecks of systems; suns
Blaze a brief space of ages, and are not;
Worlds crumble and decay, creation runs
To waste—then perishes and is forgot;
Yet thou, all changeless, heedest not the blot.
Heaven speaks once more in thunder; empty space
Trembles and wakes; new worlds in ether flit,
Teeming with new creative life, and trace
Their mighty circles, such as others shall displace.

Thine age is youth, thy youth is hoary age,
Ever beginning, never ending thou
Bearest inscribed upon thy ample page,
Yesterday, forever, but as now
Thou art, thou hast been, shalt be: though
I feel myself immortal when on thee
I muse, I shrink to nothingness, and bow
Myself before thee, dread Eternity,
With God coeval, coexisting, still to be.

I go with thee till Time shall be no more,
I stand with thee on Time's remotest verge.
Ten thousand years, ten thousand times told o'er;
Still, still with thee my onward course I urge;
And now no longer hear the endless surge
Of Time's light billows breaking on the shore
Of distant earth; no more the solemn dirge—
Requiem of worlds, when such are numbered o'er—
Steals by: still thou are moving on forevermore.

From that dim distance would I turn to gaze
With fondly searching glance upon the spot
Of brief existence, where I met the blaze
Of morning, bursting on my humble cot,
And gladness whispered of my happy lot;
And now 'tis dwindled to a point—a speck—
And now 'tis nothing, and my eye may not
Longer distinguish it amid the wreck
Of worlds in ruins, crushed at the Almighty's beck.

Time—what is Time to thee? a passing thought
To twice ten thousand ages—a faint spark
To twice ten thousand suns; a fibre wrought
Into the web of infinite—a cork
Balanced against a world! we hardly mark
Its being—even its name hath ceased to be;
Thy wave hath swept it from us, and thy dark
Mantle of years in dim obscurity
Hath shrouded it around; Time—what is Time to thee.

THE QUEEN CAROLINE READY.

Completion of a New 16-knot Day Excursion Steamer for the Queen Anne Line.

The new steamer Queen Caroline has been completed by the Baltimore Shipbuilding and Drydock Company, and was delivered on Tuesday of last week.

The new vessel is named after Caroline county, and is for the Queen Anne Ferry and Equipment Company, Edward Stabler, Jr., president. She will run in the service of the Queen Anne Railroad between Rehoboth, Del., and Cape May. The vessel is a steel propeller 200 feet long and 31 feet beam. She has a depth of hold of twenty feet and draws 9 feet of water. She has four boilers and triple expansion engines to develop 1,200 horse-power and a speed of 16 knots an hour. The vessel will accommodate 800 to 1,000 day passengers and is to go into commission in July. The saloon deck is decorated in white and gold. The vessel has 600 electric lights. Among other up-to-date fittings will be a steam steering gear, dumbwaiters to the dining saloon, a newspaper stand and a searchlight. As she is a day boat she has but six staterooms and a director's room. The vessel was the first to be launched by the firm that succeeded the Columbian Iron Works.

The completion of the Queen Caroline reflects great credit on the shipbuilders who have succeeded in constructing a splendid craft in a very short space of time. She was launched May 13 and had to be delivered by July 1.

Poor Young Man and Banker.

"Mr. Awlkash," said the trembling young man in the threadbare suit of clothes, "I have come to ask you for the hand of your daughter."

The rich banker wheeled around in his chair and looked at the presumptuous youth.

"Henry," he said, kindly, "you can have her, and I will see that she supports you in better style than you have been accustomed to."

ONCE IS ENOUGH TO SEE

Gustave Dore's portrait of Dante is worth seeing—once. But once is enough. Some such look you notice on the faces of those who have suffered, and still suffer, much physical pain; people subject to rheumatism, gout, neuralgia, periodic headache, lumbago, or pain from some old lesion. This pain-habit puts its marks on them, as the custom of handling ropes crooks a sailor's fingers; or as too much riding of a bicycle stamps a worried expression on certain faces. No wonder people said of the Italian poet as he passed along, "There goes

THE MAN WHO NEVER LAUGHS."

The complaints above named all yield to the action of Benson's Porous Plasters, and quickly too. Not only those, but colds and coughs, kidney and liver affections, all congestions and muscular strains, diseases of the chest, asthma and all ailments which are open to external treatment. It is frequently said that Benson's Plaster is Pain's Master. It cures when others are not even able to relieve. For thirty years the leading external remedy. The old-style plasters, as well as salves, liniments, oils, etc., have little or no efficacy as compared with it. Use it. Trust it. Keep it in the house. Ask for Benson's Plaster; take no other. All druggists, or we will prepay postage on any number ordered in the United States on receipt of 25c. each.
