L. D. Teacle

Cambridge Chronicle.

VOL. IX. NO. 14.

BY G. W. CALLAHAN. CAMBRIDGE, Md.---SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 5, 1835. WHOLE NO. 584.

TERMS.

The CAMBRIDGE CHRONICLE is published every Saturday morning, at Two Dollars and Fifty Cents per annum, payable half yearly, in advance. Subscriptions will not be taken for less than six months: No paper will be discontinued until all arrears are paid unless at the option of the editor; and the failure to order a discontinuance previously to the expiration of the time already subscribed for, will be considered as a new engagement.

☞ Advertisements not exceeding a square will be published three times for one dollar; and twenty-five cents for each subsequent insertion. Larger ones in proportion.

In cases where the number of insertions is not limited, advertisements will be continued until direction to omit them is received, and charged accordingly.

BARRON CREEK SPRINGS,

SOMERSET COUNTY, E. S. MD.

THE buildings and grounds of this ancient establishment have been recently repaired and improved for the reception of travellers or visitants, in search of health or pleasure; for whom the best means of entertainment and accommodation within the ability of the proprietor will be provided.

The situation, which is easily accessible, being within half a day's ride of White Haven, Cambridge or Easton, to which towns steam boats regularly resort, is one of the most airy and comfortable in this section of the country.

The waters of these springs have been recently analysed by Professor Ducatel, the State Geologist, and classed by him among the ALKALINE FERRUGINOUS WATERS. Many who have enjoyed the inestimable blessing of their healing and invigorating virtues, have pronounced them to be the best of their class in the United States. They are particularly beneficial in bilious disorders, as well as during convalescence from most diseases; and debilities, proceeding from protracted sickness, may be effectually relieved, and vigorous health in a short time restored, by their purifying and tonic powers.

The undersigned, in offering the benefits of these waters to his fellow-citizens, can only add that he will do all in his power to render the sojourn of ladies and gentlemen as agreeable as possible.

Coach, Gig & Harness

MAKING.

THE subscribers, having removed to Cambridge, Dorchester county, Md., beg leave to inform their friends and the public generally, that they have taken the stand on Race street, which was formerly Kennard's, where they are prepared to execute work in the COACH, GIG AND HARNESS making business in all its various branches, with neatness and despatch. Being well acquainted with the business themselves, and intending to keep good always on hand, and first-rate workmen employed, they flatter themselves that they will be able to finish all kinds of new work in as neat and durable a manner as can be done on the peninsula, and at as moderate prices. All repairs done in the best manner, and at the shortest notice. Those who see proper to patronize them may depend upon having their work faithfully executed, and at moderate charges.

The public's obedient servants,

PURNELL B. CAREY,
GEO. H. SCHLEIGH.

Cambridge, July 18 tf

N. B.—All orders thankfully received and promptly attended to, and all new work warranted 12 months. P. B. C., G. H. S.

Talavera Wheat.

THE subscriber offers for sale a few hundred bushels of "Talavera" Seed Wheat, which he has taken much pains to preserve pure. It is a smooth head and white wheat; grows a vigorous and tall stalk; and is very productive. From his experiments, fairly made, in the last two years, and especially that of the last winter, in comparison with the "Blue Straw," "the Red Chaff White," and "the Smooth White," under like circumstances, in various soils, and situations, its character as the most hardy wheat is established in his opinion:—Branching largely, it requires less for seed; and, from its superior strong growth, it will probably, as is said of it, "considerably resist the Fly."

The price will be the same it cost him—two dollars per bushel.

Aug. 29

N. B.—The subscriber, altering his agricultural arrangements, will sell, at a reduced price, two WHEAT FANS, almost new, which clean well. J. E. M.

LAND FOR SALE.

THE subscriber will offer at public sale, at the Court House door, in Cambridge, on MONDAY, the 14th SEPTEMBER, a small FARM in Morris' Neck, near William I. Ford, Esq.'s, containing about

Seventy-five acres, beautifully situated on Little Choptank river, and abounding with fish, oysters and wild fowl. The improvements are a good frame Dwelling, Smoke-house and Corn house, with a well of good water. There are also on the property, two fine Orchards, one peach and the other apple. The soil of this land is as good for the growth of wheat and corn as that of any in the neighborhood. There is a sufficiency of timber on the farm for ordinary use.

Terms of Sale.—One half of the purchase money will be required cash, the other half in two equal instalments of six and twelve months, the purchaser giving bond and security for the payment of the same, with interest from the day of sale.

$100 REWARD.

RANAWAY from the subscriber, living near Vienna, in Dorchester county, E. S., Maryland, a negro man named GREEN CEPHUS, aged about 22 years, tolerably black, 5 feet 2 or 3 inches high, stout and well made. When spoken to, he is slow to answer; he has a long sharp nose, and eyes with much white about them, and has also lost the small toe of his right foot. He had on when he went way, tow-linen clothing, and took with him a pair of black lasting pantaloons, and a pair of striped cotton.—The subscriber will give for the apprehension of said negro, $30, if taken in the county; or if out of the county and in the State, $50; or $100 if out of the State—provided he be lodged in Cambridge or some other jail and secured so that the owner shall get him again. NATIONAL CONVENTION.

(BY AUTHORITY.)

We, Radix Rei, held a Convention at Athens, at the full of the last Moon, for the purpose of nominating a candidate for the next Presidency. Having previously arranged every thing agreeably to the promptings of our own will, we deemed it entirely democratic to consult our privy council; and we immediately ordered to our presence, Major Jack Downing, the Hon. David Crockett, and Royal Mistress Ann, of the City. Scarce had our interchange of courtesy past, when one of stranger garb, half bushel face, and gait conceited as a free negro with a new tow shirt, inflicted himself opon our royal presence. "Pray who, and what art thou, that darest profane the high, important business hours of Radix Rei?—Thou look'st the veriest babler upon earth! Speak, varlet, tell us of thyself." "Gentlemen," said the stranger, "I'm a Steam Doctor, and I dont mean no harm; I git my livin jest by travellin about, and I jest call any wharr, gentlemen. I was born and fotch up in the county of Rutherford, without parentage; and if it had'nt been for the goodness of God, and several other gentlemen who tuck me when an orphan boy at twenty-one years of age, and gin me an edication, I might a ben as ignorant as the common people. Gentlemen, I dont like to brag, but I must relate a little circumstance which tuck place in my neighborhood. There was a gal taken down with the antimittent fever, and she sent for one of these larned Doctors, and he come struttin in with his ruffle shirt, and gold headed cane, looking as proud as a young lawyer with the big wig, and the first thing he done was to give her a doste of calomy, and then clap on a plaster of Spaniel flies, and she still didn't git no better, and he tuck a sort of a scear, and he sent for another of these larned Doctors, and the first thing he done when he come was to jirk out his bottle of lodomy, and arter he'd gin her a doste of that, he pulled out a long pewter pipe, and gin her a conjectur, and gentlemen, I'm opposed to these pewter pipes, they're contrary to natur, and the Legislatur ought to put a stop to 'em. Gentlemen, these larned Doctors go a toten these pewter pipes every wharr, and they spare neither age nor sex; but, gentlemen, I'm gittin a little out of my story; this gal still got worse, and every body allow'd she'd die, and they sent for me, and, gentlemen, without any examination, I just commenced giving her 'the Numbers,' and in less than two hours she puked up a solid secretion, and in three weeks I got her as sound and hearty as any 'oman upon the face of the yearth, and since that time, gentlemen, she's had nine small children. But, gentlemen, I understood you had a sort of a Convention here, and as I have had some experience in that way, I thought I might throw out a few hints you know. I dont mean no harm. Gentlemen, my name is RUCKER. I reckon you've heard about our Convention at Baltimore. I'm told a good many folks are mad with me, because I volunteered to be the 'Government' of Tennessee; but I pledge ye my word and honor, gentlemen, I didn't mean no harm; I had went on tharr to take out a little chunk of a patent for a Pocket Lightning Rod, and Mr. Van Buren wanted me to be the 'Government,' jest to keep the 'republican ranks together.'——Here the stranger paused—

"And as we often see against some storm
A silence in the heavens, the bold winds speechless
And the orb below as hush as death!—
Anon the dreadful thunder doth rend the region."

Even so an equinoctial gale did fret—
Deep in the breast of Royal Mistress Ann.
"Fierce and unfathomable thoughts engraved Eternal wrath on her immortal face!"

And the way she broke out was a caution·—"And are you—you!—the impudent thing that had the audacity to take upon your dirty shoulders the dignity of this great State?—are you the 'capital calf,' the 'one trunk, inheriting knave,' the 'cream faced loon,' that dared believe you could ever become fifteen respectable gentlemen rolled into one?—and so you have thrust yourself in here in obedience to the command of your seven faced master Van Buren, but I'll let him know that neither himself nor his slaves can have influence in any Convention where I have the honor to be a member; I'll let him know his tri-colored instructions to McLane are not forgotten by the people of this nation; I'll make the pseudo patriot feel the power of a peticoat! Lord! I could tear you both into gibbets." "O, shaw, Mrs. Royal," said Jack Downing, "taint best to be riled, I wouldn't be put out at sich a critter as that, for my part I want to be spry, and get threw with the Convention business, for I've got to go to Washington and take Sargent Joel's place, and you know if one of us dont stay with the Gineral now, he'll turn every body out of the house and pay the rent himself." "Stay!" said Davy Crockett—"wait a little—I'll cool this fellow off—damn him, I'll fix his flint!—here, waiter! tell Squire Bridges to send me a gourd of fat!!" upon which the Honorable Davy instantly greased and swallowed the little delegate.

This political solemnity performed, we proceeded to business, and unanimously adopted the following resolutions:

Resolved, That the late party caucus, held in Baltimore, be "knock'd into a cock'd hat," that the republican ranks of this nation be forthwith dispersed, and that the people be as free to vote for whom they please, as they were when they voted for the 'GINERAL.'

Resolved, And it is hereby understood, that Hugh L. White be the next President of the United States—

Not because he is better qualified than many others.

Not because he is most esteemed by all those who have known him longest either in matters of friendship or business.

Not because his face "is one of those which Guido has often painted, mild, pale, penetrating. Free from all common-place ideas of fat, contented ignorance, looking downwards upon the earth."

Not because we prate about him here in Tennessee.

But, because, from every State in the Union, from Downingville to Killington peak, from Killington peak to Kinderhook, from Kinderhook to the Pine Spurr Gap, "and then away through all the tother parts of creation," the people's trumpet voice is pealing for him.

Because, he stands before the nation upon the proud basis of his own merits, untrammelled, unpledged to any LITTLE SQUAD, save the county of Knox, the state of Tennessee and the United States.

Because, through all the storm of party invective, and the foam of broad-mouthed demagogues, he has kept the "whiteness of his soul," and borne his honors so meekly, as to escape the envy of the most bilious.

Because, in his soul he hates a crawling sycophant.

Because, in the employment of public servants, Judge White will ask the old-fashioned questions, 'is he honest? is he capable?'

Because, in the selection of his cabinet, he will seek the greatest and the best, without regard to parties.

Pegause, Marcin Fan Puren ish plack all ofer mit some little vite schpots zo schattered apout you cant zee em.

Undt, pegause, his dail has pin cut off doo or tree dimes, undt its doo short now to geep off de vlies goot.

Undt, pegause, Schudge Vite's dail ish zo long, de vlies neffer vools apout him.

Because, although Tecomseh did kill Col. Johnson, that did not authorize Col. Johnson to apply the fund intended for the education of the Cherokees, to the education of his own daughters; "niggers aint ingins no way you can fix it;" and

Because, if 'them tharr' daughters should ever attempt to dance at the great city—Envy would tear their eyes out—Pity would shed tears—Prudence, the cold blooded note shaving rascal, would hold his tongue and look pious—while Justice would get drunk! and kick all the fiddlers "into the middle of next week."

Because, Ourself, Jack Downing, David Crocket, and Royal Mistress Ann, are for Judge White.

Because, Judge White is, of himself, one of the most numerous and respectable Temperance Societies in the State.

Because, Judge White never killed any body and never was killed.

Because, that 'pesky' Jack Downing, with all his attic salt, will never presume to call Judge White "the GINERAL."

Because, Ourself have no favors to ask or expect at the hands of Judge White.

Because—'O! damn it!' said Davy Crockett, 'there's enough of that, Judge White is to be the next President any how.'

Whereat, the Convention adjourned with leave to sit again.

Our meeting, marked with high and patriotic feeling, broke in order and in silence. No sound was heard to clash upon our awful stillness, save, that Columbia's Eagle, glad to find us waking, hovered near, and almost flapped us with her guardian wings.

Ordered, That these proceedings be forthwith published in every paper in the United States, and if any inkstained malcontent claims his dirty pay, let him present his account to the keeper of the extra allowance fund, at the "GINERAL'S" Post Office.

Irish Monopoly.—Some days ago, a very hot discussion took place between an Irish Catholic laborer and a Scotch conservative weaver, in Bridgeton regarding the merits of their respective nations. After Barney had expended all his set phrases in defence of his own dear country—emancipation, and the fine pisantry, Sawney's patience got completely exhausted, and he burst out in the following long headed exclamation:—"D——n ye'er persantry, Sir, 'an' ye'er emauncipation—an' ye'er hale kintra—an' the big beggar Dan. I widna be muckle surprised ta see ye seeking out hie kirk to worship ye'er scarlet —— in again. There's nae end to Eerish monopoly—and ta sic an extensive degree do ye carry the thing that we canna get the use o' our ain gallows for ye, an' be —— to ye sir."—Glasgow Courier.

From the New York Evening Star.

There is no making our very unlettered emigrants believe that Gen. Jackson is not an Irishman. Cobbett's life of the old Chief—for which he was no doubt paid—settled all doubts on that subject. Two laborers in Washington street were discussing politics:—"Wasn't it lucky for us, Terry," said one "that Gineral Jackson was an Irishman?" "Oh! very lucky; but, by the powers, what are we to do, Brian?—he sarves his time out in two years." "Well honey and what then? Does'nt Patrick Van Buren come in arter him, and sure he is an Irishman?" The owner of the store interrupted them by saying that Mr. Van Buren is of Dutch descent, and a native of this State. "No such thing, honey," said one; "sure the Van Burens is an ould Irish family--go along with you. I knew the family in Carrickfergus myself. The Van Burens comes from the Irish pisantry, and there was one of the ould Kings of Connaught called Brian Van Buren, sure."

The Human Frame.—How few are in the habit of reflecting upon the skill and wisdom displayed in their formation! In the human system are 445 bones each having 40 distinct intentions or functions to fulfil; 246 muscles, and each of them having 10 different intentions. Besides the tendons, ligaments, nerves, veins, and glands of the body, there are not less than 1,500,000,000 membranous cells connected with the lungs, more than 200,000,000,000 pores in the skin, through which perspiration is constantly flowing, and above 1,000,000,000 scales which compose the cuticle or skin of the body. There are also the compound organs of life—the brain, the heart, the liver, the spleen, the kidneys, the intestines, the organs of sense, with their varied connexions; the blood, the bile, the lymph, the saliva, the chyle, &c. &c.

The astonishing ramification of the nerves and veins through the system, may be gathered from the fact, that the least puncture, though made by the smallest possible instrument (the sting of a gnat for instance) will both draw blood and produce pain—a proof that both a nerve and a vein have been struck.

We have seen a calculation which goes to show that taking all the different functions and adaptations of the human system, there are not less than 202,600,149,200 distinct conceptions and contrivances in relation to it! How great the wisdom that contrived, how great the skill that executed, such a machine as this! And not only so, but preserves in regular action, so that not the minutest part of one of them has leave to become disorganized, one thousand millions such machine as this!—St. Louis Herald.
