CHRONICLE.

CAMBRIDGE:

SATURDAY, JULY 9, 1836.

☞ The Orphans' Court of this county will sit on Monday the 18th instant.

Adjournment of Congress.—On Monday last, 4th of July, Congress adjourned, sine die, at one o'clock, P. M.

The bill, which lately passed Congress, making appropriations for harbors, &c., embraces an appropriation of 20,000 dollars for deepening the harbor of Baltimore.

George Wolf, late Governor of Pennsylvania, has been appointed by the President Comptroller of the Treasury, vice, Joseph Anderson, resigned.

U. S. Bank.—We see it stated that the dividend for the half year ending the 1st instant, is four per cent.

Professor Dunglison has been elected to the chair of the Institute of Medicine and Medical Jurisprudence in the Jefferson Medical College, Philadelphia.

Mr. Madison's papers.—A Washington letter writer, referring to the late lamented death of Mr. Madison, says, his papers were all arranged in order, previous to that event, and that, if ever given to the world, they will present one of the most interesting volumes extant.

The new Steam Mill, in this town, belonging to Messrs. Ross & Phelps, went into operation on Tuesday.

On Tuesday, a large Schooner was launched at Cambridge wharf. She was built by Capt. S. Mitchell, by contract, we understand, and is a fine looking vessel, far above the size of those ordinarily built in our county.

The account of the celebration of the 4th, at Washington and Franklin School House, near Beckwith's, in the Neck, was received too late for insertion in to day's paper.

Extract of a letter to the Editor of the Cambridge Chronicle, dated

PRINCESS ANNE, July 5th, 1836.

* * * * We had a merry time at this place, yesterday. The Debating Society met at the Court House, in the morning—The Declaration of Independence was read, prefaced with suitable remarks, by J. W. Crisfield, Esq.; after which, Mr. Winder rose and addressed the Society, and a very large and respectable audience, in a most eloquent strain, for about an hour and twenty minutes. The Society next assembled at the Somerset Hotel, where they sat down to a splendid dinner, prepared for the occasion, with great neatness and elegance. After dinner, the cloth being removed, wine was introduced; and soon the merry laugh, and soul-inspiring song, resounded through every department of the spacious edifice. Many toasts were drunk, during the evening; and not a man retired from the scene of hilarity and festivity, without feeling, for the moment, not only contented with himself, but highly pleased with the world and the things thereof.

* * * * * * * *

The Rail Road, is coming on bravely—The survey is being made. The Topographical Engineers are at this place. * * *

The people of Georgetown are again mooting the subject of retrocession. A large meeting was lately held in that place, at which, the party in favor of a re-union with Maryland, proved to be strongly in the majority. A committee was appointed, and reports will be made on both sides of the question.

TEXAS.

Amongst the business in the Senate, yesterday, was the discussion and unanimous adoption of the report of the Committee on Foreign Relations on the subject of the recognition of the Independence of Texas.—The sentiment expressed by this vote of the Senate is in substance this and no more, viz: that the United States will, in regard to Texas, act upon the principle established by the action of this goverment in all cases of civil war among foreign People. That is it will recognize the actual Government, whenever it is satisfied of its being entitled to the character of an independent Power; and it will readily recognize the independence of Texas when it shall be made apparent that it is an independence in fact as well as in name.—National Intelligencer.

Burnt District.—The New York Star says it is no longer the Burnt District, for the stores are nearly all up—some undergoing their last touch, and some taking in cotton and other goods. It is like magic; nearly a whole city burnt and rebuilt in the short space of six months.

An officer of the Texan army, recently arrived at Pensacola, states positively that Colonel Fanning was not among the slain at the massacre of Goliad, but, with a physician of his own force, was preserved, and is still a prisoner with the Mexicans.

Forty-two acres of land in the outskirts of the village of Syracuse, in the western part of New York, sold lately for $42,000. Seven railroads terminate in this village.

MEXICO AND TEXAS.

The New Orleans Bee and Bulletin, of the 20th June, have the annexed interesting information:

IMPORTANT FROM MEXICO.

Through the politeness of Captain Dickenson, of the schooner Halcyon, that arrived yesterday from Matamoras, we have received journals from that place to the 9th inst.

Verbally we have been informed through our news collector by the captain and a passenger that General Urrea had been appointed generalissimo of the Mexican army against Texas; and that the Mexican congress and government had resolved to abandon Santa Anna to his fate. The latter, however, may be doubted, as we have a proclamation of Urrea, dated Matamoras, June 5th, who entitles himself 'general of brigade, and commanding the reserve division of the Mexican army.'

It is also reported that he had been authorzed to raise an army of 15,000 men, and that $600,000 had been raised in one day by subscription in the city of Mexico to equip them—the loans or donations to the government still continuing.

An expedition under General Corteza, consisting of 5000 men, had arrived at Saltillo; and another of 3000 under General Valencia was to have disembarked from Vera Cruz for Copano, but had delayed in consequence of 400 Texans having taken possession of the latter place.

General Filosola had received positive orders from the Mexican government to cease retreating, to recruit his forces, and again oppose the Texans in conjuncton with Urrea. The latter has established his head quarters at Matamoras, and has with him 3000 men—Filosola will be stationed in the west.

Two Texan officers had arrived at Matamoras, to negotiate for an exchange of prisoners.

Extract of a private letter from Matamoras, under date of 8th inst., by schr. Halcyon.

"The states of San Luis, Zacatecas, Durango, Coahuila, Neuve Leon, and Tamaulipas are preparing to unite and imitate the example of Texas by declaring their independence. A pronuncimiento is looked for soon. Since the capture of Santa Anna, the opposite political party has been very busy, and in many instances expressed their sentiments fully to that effect.

They express much anxiety lest the Texans will be persuaded to make the treaty which has been talked of, and so let loose again the 'dogs of war.' They say there can never be any thing but revolutions in the country so long as Santa Anna lives. And many are the Mexicans who would think it a blessing to the nation to have him executed. On the 23d May the courier despatched to Mexico with the news of Santa Anna's capture returned. The Government refuse any negotiation with Texas, and disapprove of Santa Anna's proposition—say they have men and money enough, and will carry on the war.

United States Bank notes circulate freely among the officers who have returned.

It is believed the government have neither men nor money at their command, and that the further prosecution of the war is quite impossible. Gen. Cesma has been appointed Secretary of War, and has left this for Mexico. There have about a thousand troops returned, and more miserable objects were scarcely ever beheld. They protest against the Texan war, and say they will not return. Many of the officers openly speak their minds on this subject, and declare they will not undergo another campaign, and that the Texans are too sure a shot for them.

The prisoners under sentence of death are still held as prisoners, in close confinement, in despite of the conditions to the contrary in the surrender of Santa Anna.

COMMUNICATED.

According to previous arrangement, the last anniversary of our national independence was appropriately celebrated by a number of the citizens of Cambridge. At 11 o'clock A. M., they assembled at the Protestant E. Church, and after the appropriate service for the day, by the Rev. Mr. Judd, the Declaration of Independence was read by N. L. Goldsborough, Esq., and an eloquent Oration delivered by David P. Hogue, Esq. At two o'clock, P. M., a handsome dinner was served up by John Bradshaw, Esq. After the cloth was removed, Dr. Joseph E. Muse was appointed as President, and Wm. W. Eccleston and James A. Stewart, Esqs., as Vice Presidents; when the following Toasts, among others, were drunk:—

[The above communication, and the Toasts which accompanied it, were handed in so late that we have not time and room to transfer the latter into our columns.—Editor.]

A meeting of members of various Temperance Societies in Dorchester County was held at the Methodist Episcopal Church, in Cambridge, agreeably to public notice, on Monday the 4th of July. The meeting proceeded to business by calling Mr. Samuel Corkran to the Chair, and appointing C. Cochran, Jr., Secretary.

The Rev. James A. Massey, after some prefatory remarks, offered the following resolutions, which were unanimously adopted:

1st. Resolved, That we recommend to the members of the Temperance Societies already existing in the county, entire abstinence from all intoxicating liquors as a drink, and that we hope that all Societies that may hereafter be formed in the county will make this their pledge, being convinced that it is the only perfectly consistent and absolutely safe course.

2d. Resolved, That the establishment of a respectable and well-conducted tavern, in Cambridge, which should keep no intoxicating liquors, would greatly advance the cause of Temperance in this county, and that we recommend efforts to induce the present innkeepers, or some other person, to conduct a house on this principle.

3d. Resolved, That we respectfully and affectionately invite all the respectable merchants of the county, to desist from the sale of intoxicating drinks, as we are sure that their holding on to this traffic keeps in countenance the grog shops, those prolific sources of vice and crime.

5th. Resolved, That we earnestly advise greater efforts to bring the children and the colored people into Temperance Societies.

6th. Resolved, That we advise all the Societies in the county to meet at least once a month.

Resolved, That the editors of the Chronicle and Aurora be requested to publish, as early as possible, the foregoing resolutions.

SAMUEL CORKRAN, Chairman.
C. COCHRAN, JR., Secretary.

DEATH OF EX-PRESIDENT MADISON.

We have to announce the death of one of the most illustrious among American statesmen. JAMES MADISON died at his late residence in Orange county, Virginia, on the 28th June. Here Mr. MADISON had lived for twenty years, since his retirement from the Presidency, the quiet happy life of one who having ably fulfilled the highest duties which an American citizen can be called on to perform, bore with him the esteem of his countrymen and the consciousness of having deserved it. With a mind richly stored and finely disciplined, and therefore affording inexhaustible internal resources, he has spent a tranquil old age, the fruit of past exertion and usefulness. In his vigor of manhood his capacity and character made him prominent among the first men of his country and age; in his maturity the discerning esteem of his fellow citizens raised him to the first station in the gift of men; and now he passes from among them honored and reverenced.

Mr. Madison, like most of his eminent contemporaries, commenced public life early. He was, indeed, only thirty one, when, with Jay and Hamilton, he gave to his countrymen the result of that great political partnership in the papers of "The Federalist." In Congress, he was distinguished for the union of moderation with cogency, and of power in argument with elegance of style. He was in his forty second year when he became Secretary of State under Mr. Jefferson, in his fiftieth when he was elected President of the United States as Mr. Jefferson's successor, and in his seventy-eighth at his death.—*Balt. STEAM-MILL.

THE SUBSCRIBERS respectfully inform their friends and the community in general, that their situated on Cambridge Creek, in the town of Cambridge, is now in successful operation, and fully prepared for the grinding of both wheat and corn.

They would also inform their friends that their

SAW-MILL

will both go into operation the first of next month. Persons who have wool which they wish carded, should be careful to have it clean and well greased; and, if they desire it mixed, they should pull the colors well together. Their prices for Grinding, Sawing and Carding will be the same as those of the water mills.

Having gone to a very heavy expense in the erection of this establishment, and believing that the public convenience greatly required an improvement of the sort, they now confidently hope to receive from a generous community a liberal share of their patronage.
