CHRONICLE.

CAMBRIDGE:

SATURDAY, JULY 16, 1836.

☞The Orphans' Court of this county will sit on Monday next.

Mexico, June 6, 1836.—The Americans in this city are abused daily by the public prints, and menaced with the threats of taking their individual property to pay the expenses of the Texan war, alleging that the Americans were the cause of all their disasters.—New Orleans Bulletin.

Upwards of 12,000 emigrants have arrived at Quebec this season and 30,000 are on their way from Great Britain to the United States, most of whom will arrive this summer at the port of New York. The whole number that have arrived in America from Europe between May and November, is computed at near 100,000.

The Bank of the United States has taken the Lancaster City Water Loan, of $50,000 at five per cent. per annum, redeemable in twenty five years.

Hubbard, who set fire to the Treasury Department, has been arrested at New Orleans, and, it is said, confesses the deed.

Crops in Canada.—The Montreal Gazette remarks that in regard to the state of the crops they are enjoying the best of all prospects. The crops are somewhat backward, but their general appearance is healthy.

It is stated in the Fredericksburg Arena that Mr. Madison has bequeathed to the American Colonization Society the sum of four thousand dollars.

Lewis Cass, now Secretary of War, has been appointed by the President of the United States, with the advice and consent of the Senate, to be Envoy Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary from the United States to France.

The Public Moneys in the Deposite Banks on the 1st of June amounted to forty-one millions of dollars.

The Washington Globe denies the truth of the report, stated a few days ago, touching the alleged sale of the government stock in the U. S. Bank.

One of the praiseworthy deeds of Congress at its late session, was the passing of an act granting half-pay to widows and orphans whose husbands or fathers have died of wounds received in the military service of the United States.—Balt. Amer.

Indiana.—Twenty years have now elapsed since the State of Indiana was admitted into the Union. During the time from that to the present period, its population has increased from 60,000 to 600,000. In 1816, it had one member of Congress—it has 7 now.

The nett aggregate receipts of the United States for postage, for the year ending on the 31st March, is but a little short of two millions of dollars!—Easton Gazette.

The U. S. ship Warren arrived at Pensacola on the 20th June from a cruise in the Gulph of Mexico. She reports that the yellow fever was raging at Vera Cruz and Tampico. Dr. Plummer, assistant surgeon, was left at Vera Cruz, ill of that disease.

The Pensacola Gazette states that the intelligence brought by the Warren confirms the account from Tampico, recently received, that a large military force is assembling for a descent on Texas.—Balt. Amer.

The National Gazette publishes an extract from a letter written by a gentleman in Mississippi, wherein some striking views are presented of the probable effects on the planting interest of the South, of the independence of Texas. The inhabitants of the slave holding States have been particularly zealous in favor of the Texans. In the above mentioned letter the following among other questions are propounded to the South:

"Will not Carolina and Georgia suffer from over production of their great staple? Can they come in competition with the fertile soil of Texas, and Mississippi and its tributaries combined? Can they grow cotton for less than ten cents per lb? Have they not more to dread from this competition than they had from all the fancied evils of the Tariff? Why then should the South, the whole South, feel any sympathies in the cause of the Texans? Ought our interests and prosperity to be put in jeopardy to aid the few ambitious aspirants after military distinction, or the many sordid aspirants after the fertile plains of the province of Texas?"

The Texan flag is a plain red ground, with a single Star, of five points, and between the points the letters T E X A S.

Count de Survilliers (Joseph Bonaparte) sailed week before last from New York for London, with the determination, it is said, of not returning again to the United States.

An instrument of death called the Pistol Knife, has been invented by a Mr. Eligin, of Georgia. It has been patented.

Private Banking has commenced in the neighborhood of St. Louis, Missouri. Bills have been issued, signed E. S. Ely.

Counterfeit half dollars, are said to be in circulation in Richmond.

[COMMUNICATED.]

FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION IN THE NECK.

Pursuant to arrangement and notification, a large number of persons of both sexes assembled at the Washington and Franklin School House, which is situated about two hundred yards below Beckwith's Chapel. The standard having been planted, at ten o'clock the line began to form under the management of Wm. I. Ford, Esq., Officer of the Day. The men were formed, in front of the flag, in double file, with an interspace of six or eight feet between each file; immediately in the rear, the ladies formed a line, two deep and locked-arm; again, immediately behind the column of ladies, the boys and misses were arranged in a similar manner. The word was given to march, and the whole body moved regularly and slowly to the Chapel, where, upon arriving at the door, the front column made a halt, and the ladies moved on between the two files, entered the house and took their seats—The boys and girls proceeded in like manner. The services of the day were commenced with an appropriate prayer by Mr. Samuel Corner. After a few minutes' pause, the Declaration of Independence was read by Mr. Jacob Elston; following in order, an *Oration was pronounced by Dr. Wm. B. Lecompte; and the celebration terminated with prayer by Mr. John W. Mitchell. The Officer of the Day marched at the head of the column of men, as President of the Temperance Society, and Capt. E. Trippe at the foot, as Vice President of the Temperance Society. The President of the Ladies' Missionary Society occupied the front station in the column of the females, and the Vice President the rear; whilst the rising generation was committed to the charge of two persons from the Committee of Arrangements, Messrs. T. Lambdin and J. R. Creighton. Mr. Levin Mitchell, jr., acted as Standard Bearer. After the ancient Spartan spirit, our flag was made by the ladies in the neighborhood, and, although the materials were not of the most excellent sort, its execution was characterized by peculiar ingenuity, and it made an appearance unexpectedly beautiful.

At least two hundred persons attended the celebration, and there were one hundred and sixty-six in procession.

It is matter of peculiar gratification to reflect upon the deep interest and self satisfaction manifested by all present on that occasion. Every countenance was illumined with an expression of delight, mingled with complacency and pride—as if all held in dearest remembrance the memorable epoch of our national independence.

*This Oration will be published next week.—Editor.

We copy into another column, from the Globe of yesterday, the Circular which has just been addressed by the Secretary of the Treasury to the Receivers of the Land Offices. It will be seen that under the instructions contained in it, those officers are directed to receive payment for the public lands, after the 15th of August next, only in gold and silver. Exception to this rule is made in favor of any actual settler, or citizen of the State in which the lands may lie, who may purchase to the amount of three hundred and twenty acres, before the 15th December next.—Balt Amer.

On Friday the 1st inst., the smokiness of the atmosphere was so great at Portland, Maine, that people were obliged to light candles at noonday to pursue their ordinary occupations. The phenomenon is supposed to have arisen from extensive fires in the forests to the north, where there has been little rain.

The sum of £130,000 is annually devoted to the encouragement of science and literature in France, and is distributed among the Institute of France, the Royal College, the Museum of Natural History, the Board of Longitude, the Royal Library, and the Museum of the Louvre.

Never have we seen the Sabbath so much desecrated as on its last afternoon. Guns were firing around the churches during service—the mob were collecting—and preparations making, with unblushing impudence, in the broad blaze of the sun, for the erection of the odious and detestable grog-shops under the name of booths, around the Park. Before night, and the whole evening, it seemed as though bedlam had broke loose in all the region of the City Hall.—N. Y. Com. Adv.

Some of the Philadelphians are making themselves merry with the "fuss made in New York about Dr. Nott and his steamboat Novelty," and promulgate the fact that three steamboats are running on the Delaware all using Lehigh Coal as their only fuel. Two of them have been running for years.

The Texian Flower.—It is said that a young lady of New Orleans, presented Gen. Houston with a hyacinth, in allusion to the battle of San Jacinto, (Jacinto is the Spanish for Hyacinth.)

The last instance of absence of mind which we see mentioned in the papers, is that of a "boarder" in one of the Boston hotels. On retiring to rest, he put his boots to bed, and placing his neck in the boot jack, pulled his head off.

"The Gazette de Sante (Gazette of Health) a medical journal of Paris, contains the following paragraph:

"M. Marochetti, surgeon of the hospital of Moscow, being in the Urkraine in 1813, was requested to give assistance to fifteen persons who had received the bite of a mad dog. A deputation of aged men waited upon him, and entreated he would administer help to the unfortunate persons, through a peasant who had acquired a high reputation for curing by hydrophobia. M. Marochetti consented on certain conditions. The country doctor then administered to fourteen of the persons confided to him, in a peculiar way. The fifteenth, a young girl, was treated in the ordinary way, for the purpose of proving the effect of both modes of treatment. To each of the fourteen, he gave daily, one pound and a half of the decoction of the buds of yellow broom flowers, and he examined twice a day under the tongue, the place where, according to his statement, little swellings were found containing the veins of madness. These swellings arose the third or ninth day, and were seen by Marochetti very soon after they appeared. They were touched with a red hot needle, after which the patient gargled the part with the decoction of broom. The result of this treatment was, that the fourteen patients were cured in six weeks, whilst the young girl, treated differently, died on the seventh day in convulsions of madness. Three years afterwards, M. Marochetti paid a visit to the fourteen persons, and found them all doing well."

KING DEATH.

BY J. F. BROWN.

I am Death, king of kings, and my reign began,
With the birth of sin and the fall of man,
Where Famine and Ruin together may sport,
I hoist my black standard and summon my court:
For I am King Death.

What matters an age or an empire to me,
I am lord of the earth, and I rule o'er the sea;
The king in his palace, the worm in his clod,
The oak of the hills, and the grass of the sod:
For I am King Death.

I mix up my gall in the water of strife,
And I roll their dark waves with the tempest of life.
The proudest dynasties I crumble to dust,
While I rain my black hail o'er the hearts of the just:
For I am King Death.

Old age would fain mock me, I level my dart,
Youth claims his acquaintance with Love, and I start;
But, when he has run his wild course of delight,
I lift up my icy cold hand and I smite:
For I am King Death.

The atheist sits in the seat of the scorner,
And weeps in his stubbornness, I am no mourner,
I smile while he curses, and laugh at the trouble,
Who hope against hope and I burst the bright bubble:
For I am King Death.

Time and Life are bold fellows, but I care for neither,
The prince and the peasant I yoke to my tether,
The proud with the abject I make draw together,
In a land where the sun never lit up the heather:
For I am King Death.

The religious man's hope I bruise as a reed,
The mighty man's courage I root as a weed,
The upright may smile, and submit like a man,
Defy me and mock me, but triumph who can:
For I am King Death.
