to keep it appears certain. Why should they not? Did not the French take possession of Algiers for an insult on their Consul? Can't we do the same? One regiment, and two or three small vessels of war is all we want. I shall let you hear more on the subject before long.

All the ports of New Grenada are in a state of blockade.

COMMUNICATION.

To the Editor of the Cambridge Chronicle:

I noticed in your paper an advertisement of our enterprizing young citizen, Francis S. Corkran, in which he expresses his intention to enlarge his hat manufactory. Thi enlargement, as I am told, is prompted by liberal and extensive offers from Baltimore to take all the hats he can make and at prices at which he can prosecute a profitable business. It is not my intention in noticing Mr. Corkran's advertisement, to become his eulogist, but to hold out his purpose to the view of ther tradesmen as worthy of example. Mr. Corkran has no doubt seen in the large cities w at immense demand there is for articles of his trade from the interior. He well knows that this demand is not temporary; and while his own interest will be promoted by his enlarged views, he will be adding to our population a useful class of citizens, with all the accompanying advantages to the town, And, sir, may not our shoe makers, wheelwrights, carpenters and other tradesmen, with equal ease and advantage, enlarge their business. Cambridge was never in a more prosperous condition than now. The public authorities are doing much to secure the health and comfort of the town. How many villages not half so well situated as ours, have grown up to large cities by a liberal spirit of enterprise. If our tradesmen will but remember how many thousands of dollars are carried away by our eastern brethren for those articles which we could make as well and cheap as they; if they would but remember that our cost of transportation is almost nothing; if they would but remember hat living is as cheap here as in any part of the east, perhaps much cheaper, why will they jog on barely supporting their families during their life, and from generation to generation merely living as individuals, not as citizens. I cite an instance: Two young men in one of the eastern villages commenced the trade of shoe makers about five years ago, on a capital of $500. They sent off their work; last year they sold work to the amount of eighty thousand dollars. Take an opposite case: Some time last summer, on the return of one of our packets, bed-posts, and spokes and felloes for carts, were brought from Baltimore to supply the wants of Cambridge; and yet the material is growing in our woods, within a mile or two of our workshops. This is criminal apathy. We are not improving the talents entrusted to us. If it arise from ignorance, let us give our children better educations, and send them abroad to encounter the spirit o enterprise. Their own will rise with such a spirit, and they will, like Mr. Corkran, return perhaps, and lead us, instead of being directed by us, into the certain highways of ocial and political prosperity. Ransom Pritchett, vs. William Jones, Elemuel Jones, and others.

THE object of the bill filed in this cause is to obtain a decree for the sale of the real estate of Ezekiel Jones for the payment of his debts.

The bill states that the said Ezekie Jones, on or about the 13th day of October, 1827, gave his bill obligatory to a certain Jesse Elliott for the sum of fifty dollars, with William Jones as his security—That said Jesse Elliott has departed this life intestate, and letters of administration were granted by the Orphans' Court of Dorchester County to Abel Elliott, who, for a valuable consideration, assigned the said debt to the complainant—That the said Ezekiel Jones has departed this life intestate, and that letters of administration on his personal estate have been granted to Jacob Willey, of said county, and that the personal estate of said Ezekiel Jones is not sufficient for the payment of his debts; and that he died seized of real estate lying in Dorchester county, and left the following children his heirs at law, to wit: William Jones, Elemuel Jones, Ezekiel Jones, Mary wife of Solomon Wheatley, Margaret wife of George Moire, Thomas Jones, Timothy Jones, and John Jones. It is also stated by the petition that the said William Jones, Elemuel Jones, Ezekiel Jones, Thomas Jones, Timothy Jones, and John Jones, reside out of the State of Maryland.

Jesse Walter, vs. John Adams and others

THE object of the bill filed in this cause is to obtain a decree for the sale of the real estate whereof Hope Adams died seized, in Somerset county, for the payment of his debts, his personal estate being insufficient for that purpose.

The bill states that the said Hope Adams hath departed this life intestate, leaving no widow, and leaving the following persons his heirs at law, to wit: Beauchamp D. Adams, Hette wife of Jonathan Huffington, Sarah wife of James Simms, Martha wife of Ebenezer Owings, Mary Adams, and John Adams—That said Hope Adams was, at the time of his death, indebted to the complainant, and that letters of administration on his personal estate were granted to James Brittingham, and that his personal estate is not sufficient for the payment of his debts; and that he died seized of real estate in Somerset county. It is also stated by petition that the said John Adams hath been several times returned non est by the sheriff on process issued against him from this Court in the above suit, and that his place of residence is unknown.

It is thereupon ordered that the complainant, by causing a copy of this order to be published in some newspaper once in each of three successive weeks, before the 15th day of March next, give notice to the said absent defendant, John Adams, of the substance and object of the bill, that he may be warned to appear in this Court, in person or by a solicitor, on or before the 12th day of July next, to shew cause, if any he have, why a decree should not be passed as prayed.

The House, in the course of the ensuing summer, will undergo a thorough repair, and be very considerably enlarged.

The advantages of its location must be acknowledged by all who visit it; for, while it is in the middle of the village, it is yet retired and quiet, it stands on a fine airy situation, about equi-distant from either end of the town.
