Telegraph Operators' Signs.

Telegraph operators always have personal signs which they place on all messages they send or receive. Usually they use two of their initials or take two letters from their names. For instance, James Black will probably use "JB" as his sign. In many cases, however, they choose their signs in peculiar ways.

"We once had a man working here who signed 'KE' because he had taken the Keeley cure," said a Kansas City chief operator. "He afterward went back to drinking and then used 'BZ,' deriving it from 'booze.' Another fellow signed 'PS' because he used to say he received a poor salary. A woman operator we had here used to sign 'HK,' her initials, until one day her beau jilted her and married another girl. After that she signed 'BH,' which, we understood, meant 'broken heart.' In an eastern office where I once worked there was a hoodoo sign. It was 'KQ.' The first man who used it there was killed by a train, the next one went crazy and the third died of typhoid fever. After that nobody in the office dared use the hoodoo sign. The story about its being a Jonah traveled over the country, and today you'll find very few operators signing 'KQ.'"

American Exuberance.

A prominent English statesman who visited this country a few years ago was talking with friends about the national characteristics of Americans and gave it as his opinion that the westerner is the most truly humorous of the citizens of the United States.

"Why," said the Briton in explanation, "a relative of mine who frequently visits the States for purposes of sport tells me that he was entranced by the reply made to him by the proprietor of a hotel in Nebraska when he asked if there were any quail in the vicinity.

"'Quail!' exclaimed the proprietor. 'I should say so! Why, they've got to be a regular nuisance round here. My cook complains that she can't throw a piece of toast out of the window without four or five fat quail fighting to see which shall get on it!'"—Woman's Home Companion.

The Antiquity of Football.

If it is not the oldest game in the world football is not far from it. But it has never been a game in which puny nations played. The Greek game was originally called pheninda, or feinting, later it was called episkyrus, epikoinos, and lastly harpaston, under which name it came to resemble football. The Roman game was follis and was less rough. There was a center runner in harpaston, around whom the game was fought out. One side was given the ball; the other side chose a center. The side with the ball stood some distance back from a line on which the center runner was posted, and at signal the ball was thrown past the middle man. Players could be held back from securing the ball in any way, though the Greek youths had no rush formation, never seeming to have learned the value of team work.—Outing.

Acute Sense of Hearing.

"Yes," said the prosperous lawyer in speaking to a friend, "I had a long wait before I got any practice, but I am certainly satisfied now with my profession and its emoluments.

"The early days, the waiting for clients, was hard, though. Why, do you know that I got so after awhile that when I heard a footstep on the stairs I could tell ninety-nine times out of a hundred whether or not the person was coming to my office?"

"Well, that is strange," replied his friend. "Your sense of hearing must have been very acute."

"Not so much that," replied the lawyer. "You see, I made up my mind that they were not coming to my office, and ninety-nine times out of a hundred I was right."

A Suggestive Sermon.

The Rev. Dr. Howard, chaplain to Princess Augusta, was so fond of good living that he ran into debt with many of the tradesmen in his parish. It was in their special interests that he one day preached from the text, "Have patience, and I will pay you all." He spoke at great length on the virtues of patience and then proceeded, "I now come to the second part of my discourse, which is, 'and I will pay you all,' but that I shall defer to a future occasion."—London Standard.

The Alexandrite.

Don't think that your knowledge of wonder gems is complete till you have seen an "alexandrite," green by day and red by night. And such a green—olive bronze, with a potent suggestion that red is there. Green when held in the sunlight. In a darkened room with artificial light a ruby where the emerald was a moment before—a tawny wine red of exquisite tone.

The Tearless Battle.

The Tearless battle was fought between the Spartans on one side and the Arcadians and Arjives on the other 367 B. C. Not a Spartan fell in the engagement, and so, Plutarch says, the Lacedaemonians called it the Tearless battle.

A Certain Cure for Croup.

When a child shows symptoms of croup there is no time to experiment with new remedies, no matter how highly they may be recommended. There is one preparation that can always be depended upon. It has been in use for many years and has never been known to fail, viz: Chamberlain's Cough remedy. Mr. M. F. Compton of Market, Texas, says of it, "I have used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in severe cases of croup with my children, and can truthfully say it always gives prompt relief." For sale by M. A. Toulson, Druggist.

SEED TIME

The experienced farmer has learned that some grains require far different soil than others; some crops need different handling than others. He knows that a great deal depends upon right planting at the right time, and that the soil must be kept enriched. No use of complaining in summer about a mistake made in the spring. Decide before the seed is planted.

Insert[illegible] in.

A mother's love [illegible] children is always being illustrated, not only in books, but in real life. A true story is told of a lady whose baby was very ill and who sat watching the child with absorbed attention, every instant fearing another convulsion and praying for deliverance from it. At her side stood an older child, who had stolen into the room unobserved and who was trying to prick the little black spots in mamma's muslin sleeve with a needle he had found. Presently the father came in, and the little child was seen and sent away.

"What is the matter with your arm?" whispered the gentleman to his wife when at last they turned to each other and smiled their thankfulness that the baby had fallen asleep.

"I don't know," said she. "Nothing that I am aware of."

She put up her hand and found that the thin muslin sleeve was soaked with blood. The little boy had become so absorbed in his sport that he had jabbed with all his might, and she in her terrible anxiety had not felt the thrusts.

Cleaning Men's Clothes.

A tailor of fifty years' experience gives the following information:

All men's clothing to be cleaned should be thoroughly beaten and brushed. Some things are so dirty it is absolutely necessary to wash them as any other woolen goods. Iron on the wrong side. To remove spots, use the following:

Two ounces of hartshorn, an ounce of castile soap, a quarter of an ounce of saltpeter. Dissolve in a quart of rain water.

He has used many cleaning mixtures, but considers this the best. Put a wad of soft cloth (like an old towel) under the spot, saturate well and rub hard. The secret of success lies in hard rubbing, which will drive the grease through into the wad of cloth. Rub dark goods with dark woolen and light goods with light. Press on right side with damp cloth between iron and garment.—Buffalo News.

Indian Summer.

Indian summer is the short spell of warm days in October or November accentuated by the first chill of autumn which has preceded it. Sometimes it lasts as long as a fortnight, and it has been observed to recur twice or thrice in a season, though this is quite rare. An atmospheric phenomenon of the same nature has received the name of "St. Luke's summer" in Germany, "St. Martin's summer" in England, the feasts of these saints being Oct. 18 and Nov. 11 respectively. The name Indian summer is of an unidentified origin. It has been established that it does not appear on any record earlier than 1794, but when first recorded it was as a term in general use. The use of the expression in 1778 by Horace Walpole clearly referred to the torrid summer of the West Indies and not to this pleasant period of the northern autumn.

Samuel Hurlock, vs.
William T. Wood, Louisa Wood his wife, Hannah E. Gorman, John Gorman, her husband, Nerma D. Nickerson, Clarence O. Wood, ——— Wood, his wife, John W. Wood, Wilhelmina Wood his wife, Herman C. Wood, Katharine Wood his wife, Walter Truitt, Edith Truitt his wife.

In the Circuit Court for Kent County in Equity.

No. 1573.

The object of this suit is to procure a decree declaring that your orator is entitled to a deed in fee simple for the one-half of the tract of land belonging to Hannah Wood and for which through an error your orator took a deed for an undivided one-half part from John W. Wood in his lifetime, and also for a decree declaring that your orator is also entitled to a deed for the tract of land purchased by your orator from the said Araminta Myers, and also that a trustee may be appointed to convey the fee in certain real estate as is provided under the will of John Whittington, deceased.

The bill states that John Whittington, late of Kent county, deceased, was seized and possessed of a certain farm known by the name of "The Beck Farm," and that the said John Whittington left a last will and testament dated January 15th, 1840, which was duly admitted to probate and recorded among the Will Records for Kent county, in Wills Liber J. F. B. No. 1, folios 74, etc.

And the said John Whittington by his last will and testament devised his said farm to his son, John Whittington and his heirs and assigns upon certain trusts and uses, in trust to collect the rent, and pay the rents and profits to his daughter, Hannah Wood, wife of Wm. Wood, subject to certain provisions, and in case she should leave a child or children living at her death in trust to convey the said land to her child or children in fee simple by a good and sufficient deed, and in case she left no children then in trust for the use and benefit of the said John Whittington's sons, viz: John and William Whittington as tenants in common and their heirs and assigns forever; and your orator shows that the said John Whittington never deeded said farm as divided in said will, and that the said Hannah Wood after coming into possession of the said farm under the said devise, died and left surviving her two children, viz: a son, John W. Wood, and a daughter, Araminta Wood, who under the terms of said will were entitled to the said form as tenants in common in fee simple.

And your orator further shows that the said John W. Wood and Araminta Myers in their lifetime divided the said farm into two equal parts, and although they executed no deeds for the division of the said farm yet each of them, up to the time of their death, held their seperate shares of the said farm, so as aforesaid divided by mutual consent in severalty, and not in common, each of them holding a moiety thereof, which said division was a public matter and was well-known in their respective families.

And your orator further shows that after the farm was so divided by the said John W. Wood and Araminta Myers, your orator, Sam'l Hurlock, purchased of John W. Wood and Hester Wood his wife, one-half of said farm so as aforesaid allotted to John W. Wood and Hester Wood his wife, by a deed duly executed and recorded.

And your orator further shows that by reason of an error in the description in the deed of the said farm, it appears that said deed attempts to convey to your orator all of the said John W. Wood's undivided one-half interest in and to the farm of Hannah Wood, the mother of the said John W. Wood.

While in point of fact it was the intent of the said John W. Wood to convey to your orator, and it was the intent of your orator to purchase that portion of the said farm which had been allotted to the said John W. Wood in the devision made as aforesaid between him and and his sister, Araminta Myers, and the said deed should have recited said division and the fact that it was the said John W. Wood's portion of the said farm which it was intended to convey by the said deed.

And your orator further shows that the said Araminta Myers, held in severalty her one-half portion of the said farm mentioned in the said will of John Whittington, except a tract of nine acres which your orator purchased of the said Araminta Myers in her lifetime, which said tract of nine acres adjoins the farm purchased by your orator of John W. Wood, the brother of the said Araminta Myers, and which said nine acres lies adjoining the remaining lands of Araminta Myers which nine acres of land were purchased by the said Samuel Hurlock of the said Araminta Myers, but no deed was ever given to your orator, although your orator continued in the possession of the same and used the same and occupied it as his own until the death of the said Araminta Myers, and up to the present time.

And your orator is advised that in view of the facts as above set forth it is necessary for him to make all the heirs of John W. Wood parties to this suit and the devisees of Araminta Myers likewise parties to this suit so that a decree may be obtained and a trustee appointed for the purpose of conveying to your orator under the will of John Whittington and as purchaser from John W. Wood the legal title to the said one-half of said farm of the late John Whittington, purchased by your orator of John W. Wood, and intended to be conveyed by the deed hereinbefore refered to, and that also a good and valid deed shall be made by the trustee, so as aforesaid to be appointed for the nine acres of land purchased by your orator of Araminta Myers in her liftime, and your orator is advised in order for this to be done, it is right and proper that all parties who might as heirs at law and devisees of the said John W. Wood or the devisees of Araminta Myers have claim, or claim to have any interest in the said tract of land, should be made parties to this proceeding and should be given notice of the claim of your orator, so that if they have any legal or equitable objections, they may come in and make the same known and show why the relief asked by your orator shall not be granted.

And your orator shows that the following are the heirs at law of John W. Wood and the devisees of Araminta Myers under and by virtue of the terms of her last will and testament, viz.; Wm. T. Wood and Louisa Wood his wife, Hannah E. Gorman, a daughter whose husbands name is John Gorman, Nerma D. Nickerson, a daughter who is a widow, all of Kent county, Maryland; Clarence O. Wood, whose wife's name is unknown, a non-resident, who lives in the state of Conneticut. John W. Wood and Wilhelmina Wood his wife who are non-residents who reside in the state of Delaware, Herman C. Wood and Katherine Wood his wife who reside in Cecil County, Md.

And it appears from her will that the devisees of Araminta Myers are the said Wm. T. Wood and Walter Truitt whose wife's name is Edith Truitt, all of Kent county, Maryland.

To the end therefore, that a decree may be passed for the purpose of declaring that your orator is entitled to a deed in fee for the one-half of the tract of land belonging to Hannah Wood and directing that your orator is also entitled to a deed for the tract of land purchased by your orator from Araminta Myers, and also that a trustee be appointed to convey the fee under the will of John Whittington and to also convey unto your orator a title in fee simple to the farm purchased by him from John W. Wood and the lot purchased by orator from Arminta Myers.

It is thereupon ordered by the Circuit Court for Kent county, as a court of Equity, this 1st day of December 1905, that the plaintiff by causing a copy of this order to be inserted in some newspaper published in Kent county, Maryland, once a week in each of four successive weeks before the 2nd day January next; giving notice to Clarence O. Wood and ——— Wood his wife, John W. Wood and Wilhelmina Wood his wife, who are non-residents of the state of Maryland, of the object and subetance of this bill and warning them to appear in this court in person or by solicitor on or before the 20th day of January, 1906, to answer these premises and show cause if any they have why a decree ought not to pass as prayed.
