TORTURING PAIN.

Half This Man's Sufferings Would Have Killed Many a Person, But Doan's Cured Him.

Thousands of grateful people are telling every day how Doan's Kidney Pills cured them of distressing and dangerous kidney and bladder troubles.

Yet other thousands are suffering every day from these same ills. Why? They are either very negligent or very skeptical. Neglect of kidney disorders leads to dropsy, diabetes, Bright's disease and other fatal diseases.

Sincere, honest testimony like the following should convince every skeptic.

A. C. Sprague, stock dealer, of Normal, Ill., writes: "For two whole years I was doing nothing but buying medicines to cure my kidneys. I do not think that any man ever suffered as I did and lived. The pain in my back was so bad that I could not sleep at night. I could not ride a horse and sometimes was unable even to ride in a car. My condition was critical when I sent for Doan's Kidney Pills. I used three boxes and they cured me. Now I can go anywhere and do as much as anybody. I sleep well and feel no discomfort at all."

A. C. SPRAGUE.

A FREE TRIAL of this great kidney medicine which cured Mr. Sprague will be mailed on application to any part of the United States. Address Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Sold by all dealers; price, fifty cents per box.

THE BOSSES TEN COMMANDMENTS.

The old time-honored ten commandments handed down by Moses on the table of stone have been warped and twisted by the factory bosses until they read something like this:

I

Thou shalt have no other boss but me.

II

Thou shalt not make to thyself any comforts or the likeness of anything to thine own interest, neither on earth nor the pit below. Thou shalt bow down to me and worship me, for I am thy boss and a jealous boss, and I will endeavor to make thee keep my commandments.

III

Thou shalt not take the name of thy boss in vain, lest I discharge thee in two weeks from the time of so doing.

IV

Remember thou shalt work from 7 A. M. until 7 P. M., six days a week with all thy might and strength, and do all I ask of thee, and on the Sabbath thou shalt stay at home and do no manner of work, but thou shalt do all thou canst to recruit thy exhausted strength for my services on Monday morning.

V

Honor thy boss that thy days may be short and few, for I shall not want thee when thou gettest old and have to spend thy days in the poorhouse, as I shall not care.

VI

Thou shalt not belong to any union or labor organization, whether it be for social purposes or not, for it is against my will.

VII

Thou shalt always speak well of me, although I oppose thee and contiuue to cut thy wages 5 to 15 per cent. Thou shalt be content if I only find thee work and pay thee $1 per day and advise thee to save half of it.

VIII

Thou shalt go naked and starve, thou and thy family. If it is anything to mine interest, thou shalt earn money to pay my salary and furnish my house with costly furniture and my stable with sleek horses.

IX

Thou shalt hold no meetings to consider thine own interest or protest against a reduction of wages. Thou shalt not have a union paper in thy house, for it speaks the truth and is not afraid to say that my belly is filled with choice roast beef and plum pudding, while the poor are lucky to get codfish and water. Thou shalt read no newspaper of any sort, as I wish to keep thee in ignorance all the days of thy life.

X

Thou shalt not covet thy master's money or his comforts, or his luxuries, or anything that is his. Thou shalt not covet his money, although he gets $3 per day and thou $1. Thou shalt not object to anything, as I want to reign over and tyrannize thee and keep thee in bondage all the days of thy life.

LABORER.

Their Debt is Wiped Out.

Dover, June 14.—The greatest bond-burning scene ever witnessed in Dover was that at the Wilmington Conference Academy campus Tuesday afternoon when a fire was kindled, as a part of the commencement week exercises, which consumed bonds and mortgages given on the institution amounting to $37,000. The big Methodist school is now entirely free from debt. Notwithstanding threatening rain, a big crowd gathered to see these exercises. Geo. M. Jones, attorney for the First National Bank holding the bonds, turned the papers over to President William Saulisbury, of the institution, and in the midst of exercises of singing, prayer and general rejoicing the certificates of debt were destroyed and the ashes were blown away. William H. Jackson, Jr., of Salisbury; Principal E. L. Cross, of the institution; Rev. T. E. Martindale, D. D., W. L. S. Murray, D. D., and Henry G. Budd and others participated, and Rev. Edwin Gardner, of Millington, led the audience in singing.

A Provisional Name.

A baby girl was brought to a Seattle clergyman to be baptized. He asked the name of the baby.

"Dina M.," the father responded.

"But what does the M. stand for?" asked the minister.

"Well, I don't know yet. It depends on how she turns out."

"Why, I don't understand you," said the minister.

"Oh, if she turns out to be nice and sweet and handy about the house, like her mother, I shall call her Dina May. But if she has a fiery temper and bumbshell disposition like mine, I shall call her Dina Might.—Seattle Post Intelligencer.

STRANGEST WILL ON RECORD.

Several years ago Charles Lounsberry, a Chicago lawyer, who at one time ranked high in his profession, died, an insane patient at the Cook County Asylum at Dunning. Although the man died absolutely destitute and penniless, he left the following "will:"

"I, Charles Lounsberry, being of sound and disposing mind and memory, do hereby make and publish this, my last will and testament, in order, as justly as may be, to distribute my interest in the world among succeeding men.

"Item: I leave to children, inclusively, but only for the term of their childhood, all and every, the flowers of the fields and the blossoms of the woods, with the right to play among them freely according to the customs of children, warning them at the same time against thistles and thorns. And I devise to children the banks of the brooks and golden sands beneath the waters thereof and the odors of the willows that dip therein and the white clouds that float high over the giant trees.

"And I leave to children the long, long days to be merry in, a thousand ways, and the night and moon, and train of the milky way to wonder at, but subject, nevertheless, to the rights hereinafter given to lovers.

"Item: I devise to boys jointly all the useful idle fields and commons, where ball may be played; all pleasant waters where one may swim; all snow-clad hills where one may coast, and all streams and ponds where one may fish, or where, when grim winter comes one may skate, to have and to hold these same for the period of their boyhood; and all meadows with the clover blossoms and butterflies thereof; the woods with their appurtenances and the squirrels and the birds and echoes and strange noises, and all distant places which may be visited, together with the adventures there found.

"Item: To lovers I devise their imaginary world, with whatever they may need, as the stars of the sky, the red roses by the wall, the bloom of the hawthorn, the sweet strains of music and aught else they may desire to figure to each other the lastingness and beauty of their love.

"Item: To young men jointly, I devise and bequeath all boisterous, inspiring sports of rivalry, and I give to them the disdain of weakness and undaunted confidence in their own strength. Though they are rude, I leave to them the power to make lasting friendships and of possessing companions, and to them exclusively I give all merry songs and brave choruses to sing with lusty voices.

"Item: To our loved ones with snowy crowns, I bequeath the happiness of old age, the love and gratitude of their children until they fall asleep."

SENATOR WHYTE REMEMBERS

Recalls Difference Between Early Capitol and That of Today.

"The greatest political evil that has grown up in this country since I first came to the Senate, nearly 40 years ago, is the tendency toward centralization of power in the Federal Government," said Senator William Pinkney Whyte, successor of the late Senator Gorman, and the "grand old man" of Maryland, at the New Willard yesterday. The Senator is 81, but his eye is clear, his face is ruddy, and he looks 15 years younger.

"There has been a wonderful growth in the wealth of the country, and the population has doubled," he went on, "and along with them has come the centralization. Life is not so simple as it was in the late '60s. It is not as it was when Silas Wright locked the front door of his cabin in the interior of New York State, put the key in his pocket and came to take his seat in the Senate.

"The outward appearance of the Capital building is different. Everything is on a far grander scale and more pretentious. When I first came here the splendid terraces that now surround the building were missing, and there was a picket fence surrounding the Capital grounds. I was on the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds, which was composed of William Pitt Fessenden, of Maine; Simon Cameron, of Pennsylvania, and myself, and I remember how Mr. Cameron one day objected to the the removal of the fence to which Jefferson had at one time tethered his horse.

"In the Senate, on account of the reconstruction and the fact that several of the present States were as yet Territories, there were but 60 members. The greatest debater of that day was Mr. Fessenden, and I have never heard his equal. The greatest political general of that time or since was Olive P. Morton, of Indiana. Though his lower limbs were paralized, he exercised a wonderful power. Perhaps the possessor of the greatest intellect, though he is unknown to-day, was Senator Buckalew, of Pennsylvania. The most magnetic man, one who made everybody love him, was James G. Blaine."—Washington Post.
